LOAN'S TOTAL NOW IS $1,657,678,800; BIGGEST DAY YET

COUNTRY'S PERCENTAGE 55

St. Louis District Completes Its Quota and Minneapolis Claims to Have Done So.

TAXES CUT SUBSCRIPTIONS

Treasury Department Decides That Time for Payment Cannot Be Extended Beyond June 15.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Not only did the Liberty Loan pass the half-way mark yesterday, but the day's total was the largest yet—$167,123,200. This was $45,094,300 in excess of the daily average of $122,029,200, which must be maintained for the remaining eleven days of the campaign, counting today. Reports for today have not come to the Treasury Department. Probably no stronger assurances could be given of the ultimate success of the loan than this.

The grand total now is $1,657,678,800, leaving to be subscribed in order to attain the principal amount of the loan $1,342,321,200. The general percentage for the entire country now is 55. It was 49 per cent. yesterday and the day's work sent it up 6 per cent.

St. Louis is the only Federal Reserve district that is officially reported to have completed its quota; Minneapolis stands at 83 per cent. in today's Treasury loan statement. Kansas City is 75, Chicago, 63; San Francisco, 62; Dallas, 56; Boston and Cleveland, 52; Philadelphia, 49; New York, 46; Richmond, 40, and Atlanta, 18.

The progress of the loan in the various Federal districts is given as follows:

District.	Subscriptions.
St. Louis	$130,250,500
Minneapolis	88,091,000
Kansas City	98,544,550
Chicago	268,165,700
San Francisco	130,417,300
Dallas	45,161,450
Boston	131,697,950
Cleveland	156,382,700
Philadelphia	123,208,900
New York	416,683,950
Richmond	52,070,700
Atlanta	17,004,100
Total	$1,657,678,800

Although on the face of official returns the St. Louis district appears to be the only one which has gone over its quota, the Minneapolis district maintains that it obtained its quota yesterday, and that it believes it went across the line before St. Louis.

Treasury Department to Decide.

In order that there may be absolutely no dispute about which district obtained its quota first, and thus attained the honor of being the first district in the United States to register 100 per cent. quota of efficiency, telegrams have been sent to both districts asking them to forward to the Treasury Department detailed information about when their quotas were obtained. Hope is entertained that it will be possible to announce a decision within a few days.

Regardless of which of these districts obtained its quota first, however, Minneapolis tonight displaces Kansas City as second in the percentage standing. Dallas also falls from fifth place, but it should be explained that there was a holiday in Texas yesterday, and as a result no official returns came to the Treasury Department from the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank. Indications are that Dallas will climb back up in the percentage standing when official reports on its work are received.

Arkansas has forty-three counties out of seventy-eight that have not filed their distribution reports, yet all of these counties have oversubscribed their money quotas.

Missouri's population quota was 131,962, and subscribers number 99,901. All sections of the eighth dictrict are in excess of 100 per cent. except Tennessee, which stands at 66 per cent. and the City of St. Louis, which stands at 55 per cent. All of Tennessee, with the exception of Memphis, has subscribed 100 per cent. of its quota.

The New York Federal Reserve district situation continues perplexing, the Treasury Department said today. Although various explanations are offered for its failure to take a prominent place in the percentage standing, the real

"Everywhere Ready," Says Clemenceau; Allied Armies at Highest Point of Fitness

PARIS, April 23.—Premier Clemenceau, in talking today with an editor of La Liberté, told of his trip along the whole British and French fighting fronts from which he had just returned.

"The impression of absolute confidence which I brought back with me," he said, "makes me forget the fatigue of such a long excursion. The soldiers and officers everywhere are magnificent, and the British Army, nothwithstanding the immense effort it is making, is an admirable spectacle.

"To see the men covered with mud come to attention when they learned that I was there, regardless of their extreme fatigue, was a sight worth seeing. I had to hold improvised reviews all along the roads.

"Where will the enemy make his attack? Toward the north? Toward the sea, where the Belgians have just shown their valor? Toward the Oise or against Amiens? The last objective will, perhaps, tempt him again, but everywhere we are ready."

To Marcel Hutin, editor of the Echo de Paris, M. Clemenceau said:

"The best proof that there is no cause for anxiety is that General Pétain has decided to grant furloughs for the first time since the German offensive began. Of course, there can be no question of resuming the system of regular leave to the French soldiers, as in normal periods, but the tap has been turned on a little."

TWO HINDUS SLAIN IN FEDERAL COURT

Ram Singh Shoots Ram Chandra and Marshal Holohan Instantly Shoots Singh.

OFFICIAL'S AIM REMARKABLE

Twenty-nine of the Defendants in India Revolution Case Are Found Guilty.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 23.—A sensational climax to the prolonged trial of thirty-two persons charged with conspiring to foment revolution in India was furnished today when Ram Chandra, Hindu publicist and revolutionist, was shot to death in the Federal District Court by Ram Singh, a former employe and fellow-defendant. While Singh still pressed the trigger of his automatic pistol he, too, was shot and killed by United States Marshal James B. Holohan, who fired across the room over the heads of attorneys.

Belief that Ram Chandra had diverted to his own use proceeds from property which Ram Singh had turned over for use in the proposed revolution is said by Federal officials to have prompted the shooting.

Late tonight twenty-nine of the defendants were found guilty of conspiracy as charged. John F. Craig, head of a shipbuilding firm at Long Beach, Cal., was one of the three acquitted.

The trial since the opening has seethed with excitement, and animosity among the defendants to such an extent that all were searched for weapons daily when entering court.

The United States District Attorney, John W. Preston, had finished his closing argument today, which Mrs. Preston was present to hear. Judge William C. Van Fleet, after announcing that he would charge the jury in the afternoon, had left the bench and entered the chambers, and spectators and lawyers arose to leave the room. At one side of the bar sat the defendants, clustered together, and at the opposite side, by the jury box, Marshal Holohan watched proceedings.

Marshal's Shot Remarkable.

Ram Chandra arose and started across the room. Ram Singh also arose. He raised his revolver and began firing. Ram Chandra staggered forward and fell dead before the witness chair, with a bullet in his heart and two others in his body. At the same moment Ram Singh fell. Holohan, a man of great stature, had shot once with his arm high over his head, so that the bullet should clear nearby counsel. The shot broke Ram Singh's neck.

Soldiers, who have been on duty in court since the trial opened, immediately blocked the exits. Judge Van Fleet hurried back to court, ordered all defendants taken into custody and the courtroom cleared. Then he began an investigation, which developed, he said at the afternoon session of court, that Ram Singh had obtained his weapon in the course of a brief recess in the morning session, when he had wandered out into the corridor for a moment.

Investigations tonight ran along many lines, including the possibility that other defendants knew that the shooting was to occur. Santokh Singh, a defendant, was isolated from the others and interrogated. At the afternoon session of court he was surrounded by Deputy Marshals. Every scrap of paper used today by the defendants for the incessant notes which they pass around and tear up was sought and examined.

At Singh's first shot the courtroom was thrown into confusion. Spectators, defendants, counsel, and others in the room darted for cover, overturning chairs and tables in their flight. Soldiers and deputy marshals rushed to all exits with drawn revolvers. Order was soon restored.

Ram Chandra was perhaps the most widely known Hindu in America after the departure of his associate, Har Dyal, who jumped bail here when arrested on charges of violating neutrality and fled to Switzerland. Chandra got all the news he wanted for his paper from India, and said he did it through copies of the Koran, marked peculiarly. Native censors would not touch these books, he said, and apparently nobody else understood the system.

BERLIN ULTIMATUM SENT TO HOLLAND

Transit Demanded for War Materials Over Railways and Canals.

DUTCH RESIST PRESSURE

London Hears Tensity of Crisis Is Being Lessened—Washington Not Informed.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 24.—The German ultimatum to Holland, according to advices received in London, demands the right of transit not only for civilian supplies and sand and gravel through Holland, but also for war materials.

The privilege of transit is asked not only on the Dutch canals, but also on the railways.

Germany has never before made any claim of the right of transit for avowed war materials, and the yielding of Holland on this point would be equivalent to the abandonment of Dutch neutrality.

On the other hand, a Reuter dispatch from The Hague says:

"Nothing is known in competent quarters here of the rumored German ultimatum threatening the occupation of Dutch ports unless certain demands are yielded."

According to The Daily Mail's information, the situation between Germany and Holland was described in "authoritative quarters in London" last night as having eased considerably.

Dutch Cabinet Resists Demand.

THE HAGUE, April 23.—The Dutch Cabinet met yesterday in extraordinary session.

The Vaderland says that an agreement has been reached regarding one point which has caused friction between Holland and Germany, but that the old dispute concerning the transport of sand and gravel by Germany continues to be a stumbling block.

Germany desires to resume the practice of shipping gravel through Holland, but the Dutch Government offers objections, on the ground that new circumstances have arisen.

Complains of Dutch "Obstinacy."

AMSTERDAM, April 23.—The Berlin correspondent of the Cologne Volkszeitung complains of the obstinacy with which Holland resists "imperatively necessary concessions."

He says that Germany is inclined to meet Dutch wishes regarding a proposed system of exchanging ships with America, but "naturally on quite definite conditions and in return for quite definite concessions."

"We can wait until the Dutch in their own interest consider our conditions and demands acceptable," the dispatch concludes.

WASHINGTON IS DUBIOUS.

Dutch Legation There Not Informed of German Ultimatum.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—In the absence of definite and authoritative information from The Hague, officials at the Dutch Legation here are inclined to doubt that the German Government has made to the Government of the Netherlands such serious demands as are indicated in press reports. Judged by what is said by these officials, they are unable to believe that Germany has delivered something in the nature of an ultimatum to Holland.

The Dutch Legation has not been notified that fresh complications have been produced in the relations of the German and the Netherlands Governments. To this was added that, if the situation was as serious as represented, the legation would have been informed.

It was indicated that no real ground for dangerous tension between the two

OUR TROOPS ON THE SOMME

BIG ODDS AGAINST ALLIES

Germans Now Have a Superiority in Guns as Well as in Man-Power.

LONDON'S EYES ON RUSSIANS

Has Some Hope of Winning Trotzky to Sanction Intervention in the Far East.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 23.—While the German attack on the American positions at Seicheprey was only an incident of the great struggle in France, it may very well prove to be the opening chapter in the record of American participation on an ever-increasing scale in the third stage of the tremendous battle on the western front.

Certain American divisions are now in line on a certain sector of the front which has been the scene of some of the most severe fighting, and at other points of the line the process of brigading Americans with other allied troops is going on apace.

When the expected renewal of the German assault begins, it is likely that the baptism of fire of the American troops will be by immersion. The Germans, with their characteristic contempt for troops that have as yet had little or no chance to beat them, will probably make a specially savage attack on the Americans, and they are pretty sure to be in superior numbers.

In the early stages of the battle it was reckoned that there was not much to choose between the strength of the Allies and that of the Germans; but that cannot be said now. The process of the transference of divisions from Russia to the west front has gone on steadily, and by now the Germans are believed to have a superiority of forty divisions. Moreover, they have some superiority in guns.

As the moment approaches when Americans and British will be facing the common foe side by side, appreciation of the self-sacrifice of the United States in thus temporarily subordinating the individuality of its army grows here. British officers in particular realize it, for they know what it means to train men for a fight, and they know the pride of a soldier as he leads his own troops into action. They are extremely anxious that no misunderstandings should arise to cloud this most unusual example of professional self-abnegation.

Meanwhile, as American reinforcements are warmly welcomed in France, England has by no means neglected to watch events in Russia. Naturally most of what happens there cannot be published; but lack of newspaper mention should not be taken as meaning that the Allies are not striving to make their influence felt at Moscow. No more important development could occur than even a slight sign of Russia's revival, and it is quite plain that Trotzky's attitude is not altogether pleasing to Berlin. The Allies are trying to strengthen his determination to show independence, and hope that he may yet be persuaded to sanction some allied action in the Far East. They believe this would remove any reluctance to sanction such action felt in Washington, and that the mere dread of it would force the Germans to detach some divisions from the west front to be ready for developments in the east. The Bolshevist press grows daily more bitter against Germany, and the Germans are showing grave apprehension of the effect which Bolshevist doctrines may have had on the German prisoners of war now returning home.

CHILE LEASES GERMAN SHIPS

Will Get Three Vessels, It Is Said, After Long Negotiations.

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 23.—It is understood that the negotiations entered into several months ago by Chile to lease some of the German ships now interned in Chilean harbors are about completed and that Germany will furnish three ships, a total of 30,000 tons, to the Chilean Government.

Lack of ships for use by Chile has caused an agricultural crisis. There are large supplies of wheat in this country, but it has been found impossible to export the last two harvests.

Naval Bases Are Very Active After Kaiser's U-Boat Boast

LONDON, Wednesday, April 24.—Reports of intense activity at German naval bases, says a Daily Mail dispatch from The Hague, are connected in some circles with an address which Emperor William made to submarine commanders in Flanders. In the course of his speech, the Emperor said:

"The activities of the submarines, together with our victorious armies and fleet, are calculated to bring us a strong German peace. I am convinced that the united strength of these three weapons will in a comparatively short period make our opponents, who are still bent on destroying Germany's strong and free future, ready to accept an equitable peace."

BRITISH ADVANCE LINES ON THE LYS

Haig Gains Some Ground East of Robecq and in the Neighborhood of Meteren.

CAPTURES MANY PRISONERS

Also Improves His Positions North of Albert on a Front of 1,000 Yards.

LONDON, April 23.—The British gained ground today east of Robecq, according to Field Marshal Haig's report tonight, and improved their position around Meteren. Numerous prisoners were captured—120 near Robecq alone.

Monday night, according to the day statement, the British troops captured sixty prisoners in an action north of Albert, in which it is unofficially reported that Haig's forces advanced their positions near Aveluy Wood 250 yards on a 1,000-yard front.

The night statement reads:

> In local fighting east of Robecq, reported this morning, another minor operation, having as its object the improvement of our line in this sector, was carried through to complete success. In addition to a gain of ground, we captured 120 prisoners and a number of machine guns.
> We also improved our position slightly early this morning in the neighborhood of Meteren and secured several prisoners and four machine guns.
> The hostile artillery developed considerable activity early in the morning with gas shells in the Villers-Bretonneux sector.

The day statement reads as follows:

> As a result of a successful local operation carried out by us last night north of Albert we improved our position and captured sixty prisoners. A number of prisoners have been taken by us also in the Robecq sector and near Wytschaete, in both of which areas local fighting occurred to our advantage.
>
> In the neighborhood of Fampoux one of our raiding parties entered the enemy's trenches and penetrated his support lines.
>
> The hostile artillery was active yesterday afternoon and during the night west of Albert and on the greater part of our front from south of the Forest of Nieppe to east of Ypres. Concentrations of hostile troops observed in the Villers-Bretonneux sector and in the neighborhood of Serre were engaged by our artillery.

An official statement on aerial operations, issued tonight, says:

> Our bombing machines were very active Monday. They dropped nineteen tons of bombs on numerous targets, including the Thourout Railway station, the Engel ammunition dump, and Warneton, Armentières and Roulers. In the air fighting seven machines were brought down and six were driven down out of control or shot down in our lines by anti-aircraft fire. Two hostile balloons were destroyed. Three of our machines are missing.

Gain of 250 Yards Near Albert.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 23, (Associated Press.)—The fighting continued yesterday in the region of Aveluy Wood, near Albert. The British advanced their line south of the wood some 250 yards along a front of 1,000 yards, thereby improving their position. Otherwise there was little change in the situation yesterday or last night.

In touring virtually the whole line from north to south the correspondent

BLOCK CANAL AT ZEEBRUGGE

Two Old Cruisers Filled With Concrete Sunk in Channel.

MOLE APPROACH BLOWN UP

Vice Admiral Keyes in Command—Officer "Who Developed the Operation" Killed.

OSTEND ALSO IS ATTACKED

British Lose Five Small Warcraft—Sink Destroyer and Shell Other Ships.

LONDON, April 23.—British naval forces, with the co-operation of French destroyers, carried out a raid against Zeebrugge and Ostend last night, with the object of bottling up those two bases of German submarines on the Belgian coast.

Five obsolete cruisers, which had been filled with concrete for the blocking of the channels, were run aground, blown up, and abandoned by their crews. Meantime the old cruiser Vindictive and two ferryboats landed marines and bluejackets to storm the mole at Zeebrugge, where they fought valiantly for an hour, thus diverting the Germans from the main purpose of the operations. Two old submarines were loaded with explosives for the destruction of the Zeebrugge mole.

Enemy Destroyer Torpedoed.

The exact amount of damage inflicted has not been ascertained, but it is known that two of the cruisers were sunk at the opening of the Bruges Canal at Zeebrugge, and a third grounded before reaching its objective; two of the cruisers were run aground and blown up at Ostend, and one of the submarines destroyed the spiling approach to the mole.

Besides the damage done the enemy the garrison of the mole is believed to have suffered considerable losses. A German destroyer was torpedoed in a dash to escape to the sea, and craft lying in the harbor also were damaged by gunfire.

The casualties among the British were heavy in proportion to the number of men engaged, and their material losses comprised a sunken destroyer, and two coastal motor boats and two launches missing.

In announcing the news in the House of Commons today, Sir Eric Geddes, First Lord of the Admiralty, stated that the officer who developed the operation was killed. As to the result of the raid, he said the entrance to the Bruges Canal "probably was effectively blocked," and the whole operation was regarded as very successful.

First News of Raid.

First news of the operation was presented in the following Admiralty announcement:

> Early this morning a naval raid was made on Ostend and Zeebrugge, which are being used by the enemy as destroyer and submarine bases. Our forces are returning and the scanty information so far received is to the effect that the raid met with a reasonable measure of success.
>
> With the exception of covering ships, the force employed consisted of auxiliary vessels and six obsolete cruisers. Fire of these cruisers, filled with concrete, were used as block ships, and after being run aground were, in accordance with orders, blown up and abandoned by the crews. A further communique will be issued when reports have been received from the ships which are now returning to their bases.
>
> No report of casualties has yet been received.

In announcing this "extremely gallant and hazardous raid" in the House of Commons, Sir Eric Geddes said that the operation was carried out under unknown conditions of navigation. There

"Donner und Blitzen! It's the Americans!" German Yelled When Zeebrugge Raid Started

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 23.—"Donner und blitzen!" cried out a German gunner on the Mole at Zeebrugge last night. "It's the Americans!"

As a matter of fact, it was not Americans who had landed on the Mole, but the exclamation of the German gunner, which was overheard by one of the British marines who formed the storming party, was an interesting commentary on German psychology. The German press has consistently belittled the possibilities of American action in the war. Evidently German soldiers and sailors have a different opinion of the Americans from that which the German Government desires to instill into their minds.

It is of interest to note that almost from the first moment when the attack on Ostend and Zeebrugge became known people began to talk of Hobson and the Merrimac, citing that historic incident as the precedent which had possibly given to the British naval authorities the idea of the raid.

Munitions, Buildings, and Guns on Zeebrugge Mole Destroyed

Cruiser, Betrayed by Dazzling Light of Star Shells, Entered Amid Terrific Bombardment—German Defenders Bolted When British Landed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

A KENTISH PORT, April 23.—Tonight men who took part in the British naval raid on Zeebrugge and Ostend last night have given me graphic details of their exploits. If their hopes are well founded, they have destroyed every gun on the Zeebrugge mole, destroyed sheds along its entire length, exploded large stores of ammunition in them, and blocked the mouth of the canal and waterway leading through the harbor with old cruisers filled with cement.

Until they were within half a mile of the harbor no ships had picked up the light on the point of the mole. The ship chosen to make the attack was manned entirely by volunteers.

She had scarcely begun to get the mole light when she was discovered by the German defenses. In a moment star shells, which the onlookers described as making the mole more vivid than anything they had ever seen, pierced the thick haze and showed the attacking cruiser as clearly as in daylight.

In a second it seemed as if every battery in the neighborhood had concentrated fire on her. Seventeen-inch shells and others of smaller calibre flew around her like hail.

Apparently she was hit by one or two of the smaller ones, but she plunged ahead and was seen to turn the corner of the mole safely. Inside the harbor the fire was apparently deflected from her more vital parts by the intervening structure of the mole. Most of the damage was done above the waterline.

Disregarding all that had happened, her commander pluckily closed up to the mole and landed a large party of his men, accompanied by a force of marines. The Germans, as soon as they saw the attacking party land, are said by those who took part in the operation to have shouted almost with one voice:

"It's the Americans! It's the Yankees!"

According to some of the men the Germans bolted en masse from the nearest batteries, leaving their guns at the mercy of British sailors and marines. One by one the guns were destroyed, while others of the attacking party took flame throwers and attacked the sheds and munition stores.

Apparently under cover of this operation, the cement-laden cruisers which were intended to block the channels made their way through the harbor accompanied, so far as I can ascertain, by only one submarine. As they approached the entrance to the harbor they were anchored, swung around on their cables, and, according to the testimony of one observer, sunk within twenty-three minutes of anchorage.

Apparently machinery was used which enabled the crews to sink them without exploding bombs. I am assured no shot was fired from any of them.

Survivors Come Back to Port.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

A SOUTHEAST COAST TOWN IN ENGLAND, April 23.—A most moving scene was the return to their base of the survivors of the heroic battalion of picked Royal Marines who left to participate in last night's expedition.

Unfortunately there has been a large percentage of casualties in this battalion and, judging from the men's appearance, they have undoubtedly had a very hot time. They keep returning here in driblets, some wounded, while others are able to march to their depot.

All, without exception, are cheerful and in jubilant spirits. All of them, however, are so exhausted by their night's adventure that it is impossible as yet to obtain a coherent statement about what really happened.

All that is obtainable as yet is that the men achieved what they set out to accomplish, and, as one of the men remarked: "All I can tell you at present is that we landed and that for upward of an hour we were subject to a heavy fire, which we returned with compound interest."

Lock Gates Blown Up.

The effectiveness of the operation may be judged from the fact that all of the laden cruisers which were sunk at Zeebrugge were able to go as near the lock gates as they desired, receiving no interruption from the enemy. Indeed, one of the destroyers or accompanying submarines exploded a charge at the lock gates, and, it is believed, destroyed them. Meanwhile four destroyers also had entered the harbor and were able to cruise around and make observations, but were unable to take part in the battle.

When the attacking ship and landing parties had completed their work, the men were taken aboard again despite the damaged condition of the cruiser, and she began to make her way out of the harbor. One seventeen-inch shell out of hundreds of shells fired at her, got well home on the upper works and forward. Her steering apparatus was damaged, and she signaled to some of her escort destroyers to show her the way out, but before they arrived she managed to make her way out of the harbor, and to take her place under her own steam behind the lines of protecting cruisers.

One of those watching the operations from one of the escorting ships said:

"When I saw the damage she suffered I could scarcely believe it possible to have kept her afloat. Her men must have worked like devils, for she was throwing flames ten feet high from her funnels. I should think it a moderate estimate to say that three or four thousand shells were thrown at the vessels in the attacking squadron."

Surprised the Foe Completely.

Some of the arrivals here today said that they took the Germans completely by surprise and were able to get into Zeebrugge Harbor almost unobserved. The first cruiser to enter was subjected to a terrific fire from the land batteries, but they were able to account satisfactorily for a German destroyer, which tried to slip out at high speed.

"We rammed that boat, cutting her down completely amidships, so that she sank like a stone," one man said. "Other boats from the fleet entered the harbor and boarded some German destroyers anchored there. We took them completely by surprise. We were on board their vessels before they knew our whereabouts.

"Some German sailors hurried up the hatchways in night attire, but before they could reach the decks of the destroyers we tapped them on the heads with our truncheons, for, mind you, we were specially armed with stout sticks, besides our rifles, in case of emergencies. We knocked all these blighters on the head, and they tumbled down the hatchways. So unexpected were we that their guns were still covered with tarpaulins."

DAMAGED CRUISER ARRIVES WITH DEAD

Gunfire on Belgian Coast So Heavy That It Shook Dover Violently.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 24.—The return of a damaged British cruiser with its decks torn open is described in dispatches from Dover. Few of the crew escaped injury of some kind, while many bodies were brought back and placed reverently in a temporary mortuary.

The survivors were greeted with hearty cheers from excited crowds, who had awaited news of the fight eagerly since they were awakened Monday midnight by the sound of heavy gunfire. While the action was in progress the tremendous explosions were violent enough to shake buildings in Dover.

King George has telegraphed his congratulations to Vice Admiral Keyes.

VICE ADMIRAL KEYES WAS IN COMMAND

British Naval Expert Lauds His Exploit—Acted "in the Spirit of Nelson."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 24.—John Leyland, the well-known naval expert and editor of "Brassey's Annual," writes in The Daily Chronicle:

"No one who knows anything of Vice Admiral Roger Keyes will be surprised by the news of his gallant action at Ostend and Zeebrugge. Every one must rejoice that the navy has created for itself this opportunity for hitting the enemy at a vital part. Zeebrugge and Ostend have been hornets' nests, from which have come destroyers, schooners, minelayers, and airplanes.

"The Vice Admiral has acted in the very spirit of Nelson at Bastia and Santa Cruz. Like Nelson, a mixture of fire and ice, he has worked with wonderful precision in the organization of the intricate and complex business. Monitors, cruisers, destroyers, submarines, and sloops took part, and the operation was worked to a timetable in which minutes might make all the difference between success and failure, and with an eye to wind and weather, for the use of smoke and the advantage of fog. The old seamen of sailing days, with ever an eye to windward, would feel their kinship with the men of Zeebrugge and Ostend.

"We have thus a new phase of the war, and the raid will uplift us with the consciousness of superiority. No one ever doubted the navy, but its spirit has rarely been shown so brilliantly. The men were all volunteers, and they crowded over one another in their desire to take part in the enterprise. The Admiralty are right in giving the highest credit to the officers and men engaged in this gallant business, and every one who knows the character of the sea service will re-echo the warm congratulations of Mr. McKenna.

"Enterprises like this have always lured the seaman. He has never been content with the open sea when his enemy was coy and not to be found there. We may search through the pages of naval history and we shall find that the coasts and ports of the enemy have always been the object of attack when it could by any possibility be brought about. When we planned to send our fireships into Brest in 1804, and when, some years later, Gambier made his attackq on the Basque roads, the seamen were but repeating the exploits of their predecessors. We all know how Nelson lost his arm at Santa Cruz de Teneriffe.

Cites Similar Enterprises Here.

"In the American civil war there were many enterprises against the Southern ports. It is well remembered that in the war of the United States with Spain Lieutenant Hobson endeavored to block the fleet of Admiral Cervera at Santiago de Cuba by sinking ships in the fairway. It was a bold act analogous in some way to the action recorded today, but it was not entirely successful. Admiral Sampson was in command, but the sunken vessels had not been properly equipped and they drifted on a bank, or were not adapted to accomplish their object.

"In the war of Japan with Russia Admiral Togo three times endeavored to block the exit from Port Arthur. On the first occasion, when an expedition was hastily prepared, an attempt was made to sink five merchant vessels in the entrance. There had been a destroyer attack, and when the vessels approached they were discovered by a searchlight and came under heavy fire.

"The enterprise was gallantly executed and came near to success, but it failed owing to the difficulties of navigation and to the fear of being discovered by Russian gunners in the port."

"The second attempt, which was made when Admiral Makaroff was in command at Port Arthur, was only partially successful. The Japanese Admiral did not make out the positions well, and such obstructions as he made were afterward removed.

"The third attempt, which took place under the direction of Admiral Kamimura, was also a failure. None of the eight block ships succeeded in getting within three or four cable lengths of the entrance, and the fate of their crews, though glorious, was terrible.

Careful Preparation Was Needed.

"These illustrations of the kind of enterprise which Admiral Keyes made at Zeebrugge and Ostend show that complete success is not easy to attain. It shows also that the most careful preparation is required before the operation is undertaken. No point must be unconsidered. We have yet to learn the full measure of success on the Belgian coast. We know, indeed, that everything that the skill of the commander and the gallantry of the officers and men afloat and in the storming party could accomplish have been achieved. The extreme difficulty of completely accurate navigation must be realized.

"We may hope for success at Ostend, where two blockships were blown up, though they are believed to have been a little off their course. Zeebrugge was the more important objective, as the place which the Germans have made a veritable hornet's nest, or nest of vipers. The destroyers, minelayers, and submarines have their lurking places, and airplanes and even submarines lie in positions where they have overhead protection of concrete. Our bomb-dropping seaplanes have had a rather difficult task in consequence, but, now that we have had the strong arm of the navy to strike hammerblows, we may devoutly hope there has been success.

"Two blockships have been sunk in the entrance to the canal, and a bombardment and torpedo attack have inflicted some damage. The mole has also been partly destroyed, and it was held with the utmost gallantry to keep the enemy engaged while the attack upon the protected seaplane base and upon the other German works was being developed.

"In such an enterprise, made in the very teeth of the enemy's defences, engaging at close quarters and hold positions under heavy attack, while the main purpose of the expedition was being pushed, there must necessarily have been heavy losses. Let us pay a tribute of gratitude to the gallant officers and men who have fallen in this spirited enterprise. They deserve well of their country, for they have shown Germans what is the unanimity of our resolution."

Beresford Applauds the Attempt.

Admiral Lord Charles Beresford said last night that he was delighted to hear the First Lord's statement, but declined to express any opinion on its effects on the meagre information yet available.

"But this I can say," he went on, "I am always in favor of doing something that will annoy the enemy. Blocking up a harbor is a terribly difficult undertaking, and you can never be quite sure how near success you have got. You never can be sure that ships you sink are in the exact place you want them to be. Then, again, there is always the possibility of dredging a channel round them or it may be finding a passage between them.

"But I don't say this is any spirit of criticism. I think it is a splendid thing to have done and quite worth attempting, and we must not be disappointed if the results do not quite come up to our expectations.

"We must keep a level head amid all the ups and downs of war. We know that whatever the British Navy undertakes will be well, fearlessly, and thoroughly done, in accordance with the old traditions of the service. All experiments of this sort are very wise, although people must not expect too much from them. In the old days we used fireships. Gallant attempts were made with them which were not always successful, but the enemy hated and dreaded them all the same."

Smoke Screen Not Very Effective.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 24.—Archibald S. Hurd, the writer on naval subjects, reviewing the naval raid on Zeebrugge in The Daily Telegraph, says:

"The sea was smooth and the wind favorable, but unfortunately the wind changed after the operation was begun, with the result that the ingeniously devised smoke screen was less effective than was hoped, and the British casualties were consequently increased.

"Although the desperate fighting on the breakwater resulted in severe casualties, the losses in the desperate exploit of sinking the ships in the entrance of the canal were very light, owing to the skill with which the relief ships were worked."

According to the Dover correspondent of The Daily Mail, two destroyers blew up the dock gate at Zeebrugge, and a man who was there says he saw the waters of the Bruges Canal running out after the gate was destroyed and the vessels in the dock straining at their hawsers.

EXPECTED OFFENSIVE AGAINST SUBMARINES

Washington Has Advocated Aggressive Action—Word from Sims on Raid Is Awaited.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Vice Admiral William S. Sims, who commands American naval forces and operations in European waters, has not made any report to the Navy Department up to a late hour tonight regarding the British "bottling up" naval raid on the German naval bases at Ostend and Zeebrugge. Admiral Sims has been in the full confidence of the British Admiralty and was aware of its plans for the commencing of a naval offensive against Germany.

That such an offensive would begin this Spring has been the expectation of naval officials in Washington. From the very beginning of the United States' participation in the war American naval officials of high rank have insisted that the Entente should take the offensive on the high seas wherever it was possible to do so. President Wilson is understood to have been keenly in favor of this policy. Within the last week the British Navy has struck at German sea power in two novel and bold exploits, the first of which was the operation in which German trawlers were destroyed in the Cattegat on April 15 and again in yesterday's raid.

The full effect of these actions is not apparent, but if the bottling up process was as successful at Zeebrugge, as it now seems to have been, it is a most important step in advance in the steadily succeeding campaign of the Allies against the German U-boats—a campaign so successful that it has placed Admiral von Capelle as German Minister of the Navy on the defensive in his efforts to make it appear that Germany has been constructing submarines faster than the Allies have been destroying them.

A high official of the Navy Department when asked tonight whether American naval forces had participated in the bottling up raids along the Belgian coast replied that there was nothing from Vice Admiral Sims to show whether they had or had not taken part, but that it was not thought that Americans took any active part, as it was believed to be exclusively a British project.

Admiral von Capelle's admission before the Main Committee of the Reichstag last week that Germany's opponents had had some success with their submarine measures, which was almost coincidental with the sweeping of the Cattegat and was followed within a few days by the bold exploit at Ostend and Zeebrugge, is not calculated to satisfy the German people respecting the failure of the Admiralty at Berlin to make a better showing.

The success of the raid on Ostend and Zeebrugge is expected to place Minister of Marine Capelle and the Admiralty at Berlin on the defensive for the second time within a year. On Oct. 12 last word came out of Germany via Amsterdam that Admiral von Capelle had resigned. His resignation was ascribed to the U-moat mutiny, and was interpreted in Washington as another milestone in the failure of the German submarine campaign of unrestricted warfare, the German navy having failed to make good its Admiralty's boast that the submarines would be able to starve England before the end of the Summer of 1917 and to prevent the movement of American troops to France.

Although von Capelle tendered his resignation as a result of the criticisms then heaped upon him, it was announced early in November that his resignation would not be accepted. Not only has the German U-boat campaign failed to starve England and to prevent the delivery of American troops in France, but it has been without achievement, so far as the Atlantic and North Sea are concerned, since the battle of Jutland.

SEES 1,000,000 GAIN BY GERMAN DRIVE

That Many Men Added to Allies' Fighting Forces, Churchill Tells Americans.

LONDON, April 23.—More than 1,000,000 soldiers, in addition to those who would otherwise be in the field against Germany, have been gained by the Allies in consequence of the German offensive, Winston Spencer Churchill, Minister of Munitions, said today in an address to the American labor delegation which is visiting England.

"So far as moral effects are concerned," he said, "all that the Germans have achieved by the battle has been an increase in and closer consolidation of the forces fighting against them. By their attack they have called into the field against them in this campaign alone, more than 1,000,000 soldiers, additional to those who would otherwise have been there.

"The moral effects of the enemy's attack have been all on our side. Under the pressure of this hard-fought battle we have been able to draw from this country hundreds of thousands of men whom it would have been difficult to summon except under that pressure. Far more men have been called to the colors by the battle than have been lost in the battle. It was the same with America, and the same with France, and it was exactly the same with the offensive in Italy.

"The gains which the enemy has made in territory do not in any vital way affect our power or the power of our gallant French allies. No preponderance of material advantage has been gained by the enemy for all the immense sacrifices he has been made to suffer.

was a high development of the smoke attack. The object, he explained, was to block the entrances of Ostend and Zeebrugge. Monitors were used in the operation, in addition to the storming parties and the blockading ships.

The storming parties attacked under an extremely heavy fire and fought with the greatest gallantry, maintaining their position alongside the mole for an hour, Sir Eric stated. They were believed to have caused much damage to the enemy, inflicting considerable losses.

The objectives for the storming and demolition parties on the mole were the enemy forces holding it, the battery upon it, and destroyer and submarine depots, and a large seaplane base upon the mole. After re-embarking the landing parties, the vessels engaged in this movement withdrew. This attack was intended primarily to engage the attention of the garrison on the mole, thereby making it possible for the blockading ships to enter the harbor.

"I ask the members to appreciate that most of the officers and men from whom we have got to get the information have been fighting the greater part of the night, and that some of them are not yet in," Sir Eric said.

"The raid was undertaken under command of Vice Admiral Roger Keyes, commanding at Dover. French destroyers co-operated with the British forces. Six obsolete cruisers, all from twenty to thirty years old, took part in the attack. They were the Brilliant, Sirius, Iphigenia, Intrepid, Thetis, and Vindictive.

Cruisers Filled with Concrete.

"The first five of these were filled with concrete and were to be sunk in the channel and entrances to the two ports, if this could possibly be managed.

"The Vindictive, working with two ferryboats, carried storming and demolition parties to storm the head of the mole, which runs out from Zeebrugge. The Vindictive was especially fitted for landing storming parties and was armed specially for the purpose with flame-throwers, Stokes mortars and that sort of thing.

"The men employed on the block ships and in the storming and demolition parties on the Vindictive were bluejackets and marines picked from a large number of volunteers from the grand fleet and naval marine depots. There was great competition for the undertaking, and we could only use a very small proportion of those who volunteered.

"There were light covering forces belonging to the Dover command and Harwich forces under Admiral Tyrwhitt covering the operation in the north. A force of monitors, together with a large number of very small motorboats, took part in the operation, which was particularly intricate and had to be worked to a timetable and involved delicate navigation on a hostile coast without lights and largely under unknown navigational conditions developed since the war, with the added danger of minefields.

"I should like to mention that the officer who developed the operation was killed.

"The high development of scientific use of fog or smoke was one of the essentials to success. It was more fog than smoke, which, combined with certain wind conditions, was essential to the success of the operation, so as to protect the operation from batteries which might have flanked it.

Preceded by Bombardment.

"The plan was, after an intense bombardment of Zeebrugge by the monitors, the Vindictive, with auxiliaries, was to run alongside the mole and attack it with gunfire as they approached. Storming and demolition parties were to be landed. Meantime, three block ships, assisted by motor boats, were to make for the entrance to the canal, run aground and be blown up. Two old and valueless submarines, filled with explosives, were to run against the pile work connecting the masonry with the shore in order to cut off the mole from the shore.

"At Ostend the operation was more simple, but the difficulties were considerably increased by mist, rain, and low visibility and the consequent absence of aerial co-operation.

"The results thus far are known to be two blockships which were run ashore and blown up at Ostend. It is too early to say definitely whether they accomplish their object, but so far as the officers could see in the darkness they were slightly off the course. At Zeebrugge two of three blockships attained their objective, being sunk or blown up at the entrance of the canal. The third grounded while passing.

"A certain amount of damage, the extent at present unknown, was done by gunfire and torpedo attack on an enemy destroyer and other craft lying at the mole. Coastal motor boats report having torpedoed an enemy destroyer which was trying to escape seaward. One of the two old submarines gained its objective and destroyed the piling approach to the mole.

"Storming parties from the Vindictive and the ferry boats attacked under an extremely heavy fire and fought with the greatest gallantry, maintaining their position alongside the mole for an hour, and causing, it is believed, much damage to the enemy and inflicting considerable losses. The objectives for the storming and demolition parties on the mole were the enemy forces holding it and the battery upon it, as well as the destroyer and submarine depots and the large seaplane base upon it.

Landing Parties Re-embarked.

"After re-embarking their landing parties the aforesaid three vessels withdrew. This attack primarily was intended to engage the attention of the garrison on the mole, thereby allowing the blockships to enter the harbor.

"The casualties to the personnel, as we had expected in a hazardous adventure of the kind, were heavy in proportion to the number of men engaged. Up to today the British losses reported are one destroyer sunk by gunfire and two coastal motor boats and two launches missing.

"We have sufficient information to show that the entrance to the Bruges Canal probably was effectively blocked; that material damage was done, and that the greatest credit is due to all ranks for their gallantry."

TREATY WITH RUSSIA NOT YET ACCEPTED

Ambassador at Berlin Wires of Difficulties Raised by Germany.

MOSCOW WARNS BERLIN

Protests Against the German and Ukrainian Invasion of the Crimea.

LONDON, April 24.—Germany has not yet accepted the final draft of the peace treaty with Russia, according to a German wireless message, received here, purporting to give the text of a telegram sent to M. Tchitcherin, Russian Foreign Minister, by Adolph Joffe, who has just arrived in Berlin as Bolshevist Ambassador. M. Joffe's message reads:

"Russian realization of the peace treaty is considered incorrect, and nothing is known here of the final draft which is said to have been accepted by Germany. Postponement of its publication is requested until the receipt of an authentic translation, made here cojointly by the German Ministry and our Embassy."

M. Tchitcherin has made a protest to Germany against the action of German and Ukrainian troops in crossing into the Crimea, contending that this is in violation of the peace treaty, according to a Russian wireless dispatch received here today.

"This invasion is threatening our Black Sea Fleet," M. Tchitcherin adds, "and may lead to encounters dictated in the interest of the preservation of our fleet."

It is also announced officially that Russian troops have been sent to the Finnish border, with orders to conduct themselves like troops of a neutral State, if any other troops attempt to cross the Russian border, and to offer decisive resistance.

A Russian wireless dispatch received here tonight says:

"All attempts, direct and through the intermediary of the German Government, to open peace negotiations at Smolensk between Russia and the Kiev Rada having failed, M. Tchitcherin, the Bolshevist Foreign Minister, has wired Berlin asking whether the delay means that Germany has decided to renounce the fulfillment of the clause in the Brest-Litovsk treaty which provided that Russia should conclude an immediate peace with the Central Rada."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Secretary Lansing today received the text of the protest made to Berlin by the Russian Government against German outrages on the inhabitants of Russia. The protest, which was sent on April 15 to M. Tchitcherin, Minister of Foreign Affairs, reads:

The Central Soviet institutions receive many complaints with regard to German troops burning Russian villages and using violence against Russian inhabitants. An eyewitness well known to us and absolutely trustworthy states that at Lepel, northwest of Mogileff, German soldiers killed a whole family, not sparing women and children, on the plea that one of the family belonged to a partisan detachment. The local military authorities state that at the village of Novoselki, Mogileff, on April 5, there appeared an officer and soldiers of the 346th Regiment and took oats from the inhabitants by force. The officer was killed by the peasants and the soldiers fled. After this the village was surrounded by the soldiers, fired on by machine guns, and burned.

The following day the German Commander, sent a notice to the Russian military authorities at Orsha saying that the inhabitants of Novoselki had been ejected, and the village burned owing to a German officer's being killed.

The National Commissariat for Foreign Affairs expresses its extreme indignation in regard to this matter and protests against these acts of violence unworthy of a cultured people and contrary to the elementary principles of humanity; and is convinced that the German Government will make full inquiry into the matter and punish the officers.

Recently the Soviet Government protested to Berlin against the continued advance of the German forces. The German reply was as follows:

The resistance and counterattacks made by armed bands creating disorder in the Urkaine without distinguishing between Ukrainian and Russian territory, render it impossible to observe strictly the frontier line of the Ukrainian Government when fighting against them. In pursuing these bands it is quite impossible to stop military operations on the frontier line when the Russian Government takes no steps to disarm these bands.

An amelioration of the situation can only be attained when peace has been made between the Ukraine Republic and the Government of the People's Commissaries, and when both organized bands will have been forced to discontinue military operations.

KUEHLMANN.

Wilson Watches the Far East.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—President Wilson, members of Congress were told today, still is awaiting developments in the Far East before further considering Japanese intervention in Russia.

The Administration is said to be more encouraged over developments in Bolshevist control of Russia.

FOOD RIOTS IN GALICIA.

Many Persons Killed in Outbreaks in Largest Cities.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Serious food riots in Galicia are described in a diplomatic dispatch today from France. It says:

"A telegram from Vienna to the Münchener Neueste Nachrichten reports that in many large towns of Galicia riots, involving bloodshed, took place last week because of the shortage of food. At Cracow these riots were particularly fierce, causing the deaths of a number of people. The troops charged into the crowd.

"The disturbances have now spread to Eastern Galicia, more particularly in Lemberg and Tarnopol. The number of casualties in the civil population is also high."

Germans Moving on Viborg.

MOSCOW, April 18, (Associated Press.)—The Germans, after the capture of Lakht, are moving in the direction of Viborg. The Finnish Bolshevist Government is evacuating Viborg.

The War Situation

BY THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES.

With the passing of each day the German position in Flanders becomes more and more desperate. The situation east of Amiens must have been far better than we realized on this side of the water in order to force the Germans to take such a prodigious chance. It was a gamble of the most hazardous kind.

We must constantly remember in any analysis of German activities which we attempt to make that the German is above all shrewdly and coldly calculating. The German General Staff is not a body which is apt to give way when flushed with victory to an enthusiasm which leads only to pitfalls. This body is a carefully planning unit whether in success or defeat. When the offensive in Flanders was undertaken the dangers must have been understood and realized in the fullest measure. We are therefore forced to the conclusion that the situation in the south was to the Germans distinctly disturbing.

The check which the Germans received there was undoubtedly severe. Although their gains were great, the steady slowing up of the rate of retirement will be remembered. It will also be remembered that the salient was growing deeper, but at the same time narrower, as the advance continued. This led to the attacks on Arras, first from Bucquoy on the south, and later by a frontal attack on the Vimy Ridge positions, since it was only by breaking down this bastion of defense that the salient to the south could be widened.

Failure here, and it was the most complete failure of the present grand offensive, forced the Germans to make a move in some other quarter. The attack was therefore shifted so as to flank the Arras defenses, which were holding up the advance along the Avre and the Somme from the north. The Germans evidently expected to create the same sort of breach in the British lines that they did when they first struck the fifth army and by flanking operations after the breach, to open this line on a wide front. No other conclusion is possible, for no commander would have conceived of getting a huge army into such a tantalizing position as that in which the Germans now find themselves.

The most dangerous feature of the situation is that the Allies know that the Germans must attack and they know approximately where the attack must fall. The Germans cannot drive deeper into the lines without taking Hazebrouck, since the further they go in the worse their situation becomes and the more men they must crowd into the narrow channel they have left for themselves. In case of an attack against the sides of this salient the more difficult it will be to draw out the most advanced troops.

Germany has the further disadvantage that all of the ground she has taken is, with the exception of a very small part on the north at Bailleul, Neuve Eglise and Messines, absolutely flat, without an elevation of any kind. The salient is circumscribed by heights from which every movement in the lowlands is plainly visible. She must attack either against one of the sides of this salient or from a point northeast of Ypres in an attempt to flank the Kemmel defenses. Nothing else would do her any good.

The positions on the legs of the wedge are generally known by this time. But little has been said of the positions northeast of Ypres. We have been in some doubt as to the extent of the recent British retirement on this northern sector, which has prevented a clear view of the problems which will confront Germany should she try to advance. The retirement, it seems, affected only the most eastern extension of the British lines from Passchendaele to Westboek. The ridge as a whole is split in the centre by a wide valley of the same elevation as the general lowland country. The British in their advance of last year passed over this valley and up the slopes on the other side, mounting to the crest. In their retirement what really happened then was that the British withdrew their lines back across this valley, while at the same time holding fast to the entire line of continuous heights. This move forestalled a German attempt to cut in behind the most eastern ridge by an operation from Wytschaete which would lead to the dividing valley.

While, therefore, the Germans hold the Passchendaele heights, in order to attack the British they must pass over the valley, which is a perfect quagmire as the result of the battle of Flanders of 1917. Prospects of success in this field are then reduced by the condition of the ground, filled as it is with deep wells formed by the craters which have been filled up to the normal water level of about two feet or less from the surface.

The long delay since the last attack can be accounted for in several ways. The news from Holland indicates that there is a strong possibility that Germany may force Holland into war on her side. She would never have issued such an ultimatum as that which is published this morning unless it was fairly well established beforehand what the result would be. At the same time, Germany must be ready to take military steps to meet any eventuality. Again, if Germany intends to renew her attack—and of this there is not the slightest doubt—she will defer action until there is the greatest probability of success. This entails a delay while her full force of artillery is being mobilized.

GERMANS MINIMIZE OUR NAVAL CO-OPERATION

Suggest Our 35,000 Men Abroad Are Not Much—Battleships Only "Demonstrative."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 22.—The Cologne Gazette comments on the fact that the British press has finally published a few figures on American naval help, after Secretary Daniels's speech in Cleveland.

The paper says that the light cruisers under Admiral Sims have often been spoken of, and that the increasing number of cruisers, destroyers, submarines, gunboats, and other vessels in use is also well known. It asserts that the only new fact is that a number of big American battleships of modern type have been under Sir David Beatty's command since a few months ago.

The 35,000 American officers and men in service in European waters are not very many, the Gazette considers, as this total includes the crews of all small vessels. The paper says that America has not many destroyers, and that the building of that type of ship was always a stepchild which did not progress. The big battleships, it says, are chiefly demonstrative, and will not come into battle.

"The smart Yankees," it asserts, "will not let the opportunity of learning something about modern warfare escape. Who knows how useful it will be?"

Burian Going to Rumania.

AMSTERDAM, April 23.—Berlin newspapers announce that the German Foreign Secretary, Dr. von Kuehlmann, and the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, Baron Burian, will go to Bucharest at the end of this week to continue the peace negotiations with Rumania. Baron Burian will postpone his proposed visit to Berlin.

Governments was known to exist. The sand and gravel dispute was adjusted weeks ago according to the understanding of representatives of the Netherlands here, and the claim was made that the action of the United States and British Governments in requisitioning Dutch ships afforded no legitimate ground for complaint by Germany.

Information in press dispatches from Europe tonight indicating that Germany has demanded that German supplies intended for military purposes in Belgium must be given transit through Dutch territory may refer to the sand and gravel question, concerning which there had been exchanges between Berlin and The Hague.

It was said in Dutch quarters here today that the Netherlands Government recognized its treaty obligations to permit the transit of sand and gravel through Dutch waters for the repair and maintenance of roads in Belgium, but does not admit Germany's claim of right to transport these materials through Dutch jurisdiction if they are to be employed, as the British Government has contended, in the construction of military works.

The State Department also was without any information confirming press dispatches which state that the situation is regarded with anxiety in official and diplomatic circles.

Diplomats here said that Holland had "leaned backward" in her neutrality, being determined to observe the spirit as well as the letter of international law, and that by her strict adherence to this rule had won the sympathy of neither the Allies nor the Central Powers.

GERMANS EXULTING IN 'LESSON' TO US

Seicheprey Taught Us, the Tageszeitung Says, That War Is Not Sport.

GLOATS OVER OUR LOSSES

Big Headlines Are Used in the Berlin Papers to Chronicle the Alleged Victory.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 23.—Berlin papers which have just arrived in Holland are ablaze with headlines such as "American Positions at Seicheprey Taken," and "Successful Advance on American Line." These papers publish no news of the successful counterattack by American troops.

The papers today print a statement, saying:

"Many Americans were killed by artillery fire in the streets of the village of Seicheprey, their bodies barricading the way of the advancing German troops, who had to drive the Americans from houses, gardens and cellars. But even then Americans continued to fight so tenaciously that they were nearly all killed.

"In the woods of Remiére, nearby, a similar most sanguinary scene occurred. Here, too, there was bitter fighting, man against man, for the possession of some dugouts, and the American losses are said to have been extremely light."

All reports agree that the Americans made the fiercest possible resistance, notwithstanding that this was probably the first experience which they had had of actual fighting.

In the early afternoon, according to these accounts, two American columns were observed, one approaching via Beaumont, the other via Bernecourt, hurrying to aid their comrades; but the destructive German artillery fire barred their way, and shells dropping right in the midst of the densely massed columns quickly dispersed them.

Toward 5:30 P. M., the story proceeds, the approach of large American reserves was again reported by the German fliers. They came from various directions. Flying squadrons were now sent out by the Germans, who attacked the approaching reserves with machine guns and compelled them to retreat. About the same time the American trenches in Jury Wood began to fill up rapidly, but the German batteries had been massed for just such an eventuality, says the German account, and they poured "a hellish rain of steel on the trenches as well as on the enemy's reserves further back that until now had been engaged by the German fliers.

"Meanwhile on the German side the artillery performed its work promptly and with devastating results. It was noted that the enemy's artillery was much less active, but it increased in power from 10 A. M. till about 3 P. M., when it again abated."

The German papers ascribe what they term the "defeat" of the Americans to some extent to the latter's inexperience in warfare.

The Deutsche Tageszeitung remarks:

"There is hardly anybody in Germany who will not say: 'It serves them right.' It is absolutely necessary that the Americans should be taught a lesson concerning the seriousness of war. Our Lower Saxon regiments seem to have done that on April 20 in a manner leaving nothing to be desired. If the Great Headquarters reports mention 'extremely heavy losses' we know what that means.

"We also know what it means when from enemy positions two kilometers and a half long our troops return with only 180 prisoners. The Americans must have had terrible, sanguinary losses. This lesson was badly needed. Americans must realize that war is not a sporting

In an effort to minimize the work of the American troops on the western front the German papers are endeavoring to prove that the morale of the American troops is very bad and that the depression of the soldiers is increasing daily.

The Cologne Volkszeitung alleges that in one batalion alone no less than six soldiers committed suicide in order not to have to go to the front lines. The paper adds the information in brackets that they shot themselves while cleaning rifles.

George Wagener, writing in the Cologne Gazette, says:

"The Americans have had to learn that war with us is no sport."

The Tageblatt says that, thanks to careful preparation, the attack against the American troops on each side of Seicheprey was a complete success. After effective preparation by the artillery and trench motars, it continues, during which the Americans suffered heavy losses, the Germans stormed the positions on a front of about a mile and a half, and penetrated as much as a mile and a quarter in some places.

"Seicheprey was stormed," the account runs, "and was strewn with American dead."

The fighting near the village is said to have been desperate, and "brave troops were annihilated almost to the last." In the region of Remiéres Wood there was a hand-to-hand combat, and the American losses were "particularly heavy."

"North of Beaumont," says the Tageblatt, "as well as near Bernecourt, enemy forces were seen advancing at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, but the German fire broke up their massed formations with heavy losses. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the enemy trenches at Jurywood were seen to be full and the German airplanes became active, opening up a machine gun fire on the American reserves in the rear.

"The German batteries then opened fire on the thickly filled trenches at Jury Wood, scattering the American storm troops which were ready to advance. After dark, when the enemy defenses and positions were destroyed, we quietly evacuated the positions without the enemy observing it."

The account concludes with the statement that, thanks to the splendid preparation of the whole attack, the German losses were slight, whereas the "inexperienced American troops suffered severe losses."

FORCED GERMANS BACK.

French Note Denies That They Retired Voluntarily from Seicheprey.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The German assertion that the shock troops which penetrated into American and French lines in front of the village of Seicheprey last Saturday returned to their positions unobserved, after fighting that lasted into Sunday, is denied in a dispatch from France, which quotes an official French note. The fighting resulted in complete success for the French and Americans, the note says, the enemy being "energetically forced back to his own lines."

The dispatch also discloses the fact that in their dashing counterattack, which drove the Germans from Seicheprey, the Americans took prisoners.

"During the night of the 20th and 21st, toward 5 o'clock in the morning," says the note, "after a bombardment of unusual violence, including the use of toxic shells, an enemy force equaling a regiment, reinforced by shock troops, specially trained and brought up with this operation in view, threw itself energetically into the attack on a front of nearly two kilometers. The enemy succeeded in penetrating into the French lines as far as Seicheprey, which was hotly defended by the Americans.

"Immediately our intrepid allies, passing in their turn to the offensive, made in conjunction with our troops a brilliant counterattack which put them once more in possession of Seicheprey and permitted them to take prisoners. A furious combat on both sides continued all day. At night the enemy, who had succeeded, in spite of the vigorous operations carried on by the American elements, in holding the Remièries Wood, was driven out by an energetic counterattack executed by French and American troops.

"The close co-operation of the two armies once more brought marvelous results which gave us complete success. The ground we previously occupied was completely recaptured, and the enemy, energetically forced back to his own lines, left prisoners in our hands and many dead in front of our barbed wire."

DERIDES OUR AIRPLANE AID.

Frankfurter Zeitung Says We Have No Aviators on the Battlefront.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 23.—The Frankfurter Zeitung comments on the fact that no American airplanes or airmen are taking part in the fighting on the west front, and observes that America must have disappointed her allies by her failure to deliver airplanes. Remarking that the biggest battle of the war is now in progress, the Zeitung says that neither the airplanes nor the 10,000 airmen promised have arrived from America.

At any rate, German airmen have not yet met any American flyers, airplanes or motors in the big battle. Even the Lafayette Squadron, it says, which was on the Aisne front last year, has disappeared, and this was to have formed the nucleus for the training of an American Air Corps. The Zeitung asserts that even in England people are beginning to get impatient, and it observes that the American plan of preparing en masse must affect the technical quality of work, especially in the building of airplanes in which progress is made almost daily.

"Let us only hope," it says, "that America will remain true to her ideals of large quantities. Our fliers of all grades have enough work; but, owing to the strength of our army, we will still remain masters of the air."

The Deutsche Tageszeitung says that, if one may judge from comments in the American press, America does not yet recognize the seriousness of the situation constituted by the big offensive. It asserts that press reports have misled the American people.

Lieut. Kissel a Captive.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., April 23.—Lieutenant Gustav H. Kissel, an American "ace" in the English Royal Flying Corps and son of Rudolph H. Kissel, a banker of this city and New York, has probably been captured by the Germans. Word was received this afternoon by the Kissel family from the British authorities that the American aviator was among the missing, and probably was captured.

Mrs. Kissel tonight said the cablegram was indefinite, and every effort was being made by the family to obtain details.

Lieutenant Kissel is a graduate of Harvard and was a resident in London when war was declared. He enlisted in the Royal Flying Corps, but when America declared war on Germany obtained permission to wear an American uniform with the insignia of the British.

B. & A. Men Fought Under Carey.

SOMERVILLE, Mass., April 23.—Members of the Boston & Albany Railroad engineers' unit, recently recruited in this vicinity, were in the party of American engineers who helped close a two-mile gap in the allied ranks in Picardy in the first week of the great offensive. By their gallant stand the Americans held the Germans at bay until reinforcements arrived and prevented a dangerous turning movement. This news was received here tonight in a letter written to his sister by Sergeant Edward La Favor, a member of the unit and former yardmaster at the Trinity Place station of the Boston & Albany.

everywhere found a feeling of optimism. Yesterday, as the shell-shaken town of Villers-Bretonneux was reached, a British military band in a camp not far away struck up a smashing American march. It was a small incident, but indicative of the spirit of the men. It is by such things as this that the morale of the troops may be judged, and it may be said that the morale of the allied forces remains at the highest pitch.

BERLIN REPORTS CHECK TO BRITISH ATTACKS

Says Attempts to Retake Ground North of Albert Incurred Heavy Losses.

BERLIN, April 23, (via London.)—The official communication from General Headquarters today tells of the activity of the British between Lens and Albert and records the repulse of the British in an attempt to retake ground previously lost north of Albert.

The text of the statement reads:

On the battlefronts the fighting activity was limited. Artillery duels and local infantry operations were resumed temporarily. The British infantry was especially active between Lens and Albert.

Reconnoitring detachments which advanced at numerous points against our lines were everywhere driven back. The enemy, with strong forces, attempted to regain ground lost at Aveluy Wood Sunday and also to capture the railway north of Arras [Albert] on both sides of the Bouzincourt-Aveluy Road. In repeated costly assaults he lost a number of prisoners.

In the last two days thirty enemy airplanes were brought down.

ONLY BIG GUN DUELS ON THE FRENCH FRONT

Both Artilleries Active Near Hangard and Noyon—No Infantry Actions Yesterday.

PARIS, April 23.—Aside from heavy artillery duels near Hangard-en-Santerre and west of Noyon, today passed quietly along the French front, according to the French official communication issued tonight. There were no infantry engagements.

The statement reads:

There was great artillery activity on both sides in the region of Hangard-en-Santerre and in the sector west of Noyon, but no infantry action. There were no events of importance on the rest of the front.

Following is the day report:

Rather spirited artillery engagements occurred on the Somme front and east of Rheims.

German raids between Lassigny and Noyon, northwest of Rheims, and in the Vosges were without results. Prisoners remained in our hands.

Everywhere else the night passed in quiet.

DUEL OF GAS SHELLS ON THE LENS FRONT

Canadians Suffer Little, But Germans Feel the Lack of Rubber for Masks.

CANADIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, April 23, (Canadian Press, Ltd.)—The Canadians during the last twelve hours have raided the German lines at seven places, gassed the enemy with thousands of lachrymatory and lethal shells, harassed him by special artillery shots, swept his trenches with machine gun and rifle bullets, and hammered his front line with trench mortars.

In some of the raids sharp fighting developed, in one instance protracted hand to hand fighting taking place, this struggle being so intense that the Canadians were unable to take prisoners. The seven raids together netted five prisoners and two machine guns. Two of the prisoners have since died.

From dusk until dawn the whole front has been lively north and south of Lens. The ceaseless rumble of the Canadian "heavies," which are neutralizing hostile batteries by calculated and continuous gas shelling, has been accompanied by the sharper chorus of field artillery, carrying out a particularly harassing fire program. Periodically the Canadian artillery fire has reached a barrage intensity in support of raiding parties.

Regularly the German lines have been lit up with scores of flares, betraying the nervousness which has been produced among the enemy by such activity as he has not known on his front for weeks. The enemy has been forced to fire his guns under gas clouds and in gas masks. He has betrayed the effect of the tactics of the Canadians by the diminishing volume of his fire, but he has made answer to their general raiding and gas activities by projecting much tear gas against their positions north of Lens.

This projection was bigger in volume than anything ever attempted against the Canadians by the enemy. Its effect, beyond discomfort, was slight. The weight of evidence gathered from enemy sources gives every ground for belief that it must be far otherwise with the Germans. Their gas is not so effective, and their masks are not nearly so good as the Canadians'.

HOLDS UP ALL NEWS SENT BY PERSHING

Washington Gives Out No Information About Alleged Capture of 183 Americans.

NO EXPLANATION OFFERED

Course Is Criticised at Capital—Unchallenged German Claims Likely to Affect Neutrals.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The German official report that 183 American soldiers were captured in the fighting at Seicheprey last Saturday still goes uncontradicted. Not a word is obtainable from any authoritative source in the military administration to indicate whether the German claim is true or false.

The War Department is equally uncommunicative as to the assertion of the Wolff Bureau, the German semi-official press agency, that American troops north of Beaumont and beyond Bernecourt were terribly "mauled"—to use the Wolff Bureau term.

The War Department has reports from General Pershing about the battle at Seicheprey, but declines to furnish any information whatever to the American public. No explanation for this attitude is forthcoming, except that when Secretary Baker was in France he agreed with General Pershing that all news of American operations should be furnished to the press by General Pershing's headquarters and not by the War Department. It has become a matter of critical note, however, that the American people are being kept in the dark as far as official information concerning the activities of United States troops in France are concerned.

Fear Effect on Neutrals.

Those who criticise the War Department's course say the German claim that a heavy defeat was inflicted on American troops will be spread throughout the neutral countries of Europe to the damage of America's standing as a potential factor in the war. Just now Germany is apparently making a determined attempt to draw Holland into the war on the side of the Central Powers, and the fact that the allegation of an American defeat goes uncontradicted gives strength to the German argument that the Allies and their co-belligerent from across the Atlantic are playing a losing game.

Word comes from Holland tonight that the country is being flooded with German newspapers containing accounts of the Seicheprey battle, which represent the American forces as having been wholly defeated. These accounts may find a fertile soil in the minds of people who have been told that the United States was a negligible quantity in the war.

One possible explanation of the present refusal to enlighten the American public as to what occurred at Seicheprey—although the suggestion does not come from any official source—is that the War Department is still without definite information from General Pershing as to the losses suffered in that action. There were indications last night that General Pershing had been unable to check up on the number of American casualties, including prisoners taken by the enemy, and further reports from him were awaited. But not one word would officials say to make it appear that this was the reason for the refusal to answer the German claim that 183 American soldiers had been captured.

Story of Losses Denied.

The understanding obtained here last night from excellent sources that General Pershing had reported that the American losses at Seicheprey were between 200 and 300 and the German losses between 300 and 400, including killed, wounded, and prisoners, brought no definite response today when it was called to the attention of high officials.

Instead some of those in authority spent time in endeavoring to locate the "leak" through which this information reached the press. It was intimated that the information was incorrect, a statement in marked opposition to the effort to ascertain where the newspapers obtained the information.

Secretary Baker said yesterday that General Pershing had been considering the advisability of issuing a daily communiqué concerning the operations of the American expeditionary forces in the theatre of war. But this question still remains undecided, and the War Department apparently feels that until General Pershing acts it has no discretion in the matter even to the extent of answering the German official assertion that 183 Americans were taken prisoner at Seicheprey.

GERMANY NOW CLAIMS OVER 120,000 CAPTIVES

War Minister Tells Reichstag Committee the Drive Is "A Great Victory."

AMSTERDAM, April 23.—Advices received from Berlin say that at a meeting of the Main Committee of the Reichstag, which was discussing army estimates, General von Stein, the War Minister, made a statement on the western offensive in which he paid a tribute to what he termed the splendid performance of the German troops. He said:

"Our successes in the West are to be regarded as a great victory. From southwest of Arras to La Fère we broke through the English position to a depth of sixty kilometers. About 100,000 prisoners and countless guns were our booty there.

"Afterward we drove the French from strong positions acros the Oise-Aisne Canal and beat the English again in battle at Armentiéres, capturing over 20,000 prisoners and 250 guns."

He said that shelters were no longer available in destroyed places, and that roads and paths were impassable. Nevertheless a supply service was successfully established, owing to the large quantity of supplies of the British which fell into German hands.

"Through these battles we, in general, have attained those lines on which the enemy formerly stood. He has again found vantage points of which he has made use. In order to overcome these a continuation of the battle is necessary for the campaign which is proceeding.

"The service corps and labor battalions also have had an honorable share in the success. The campaign is still in full swing. Relying on the chief army command, we must patiently await what further successes will be granted us.

"In Finland and the Ukraine the operations are following their ordered course. On the Italian and Macedonian battlefronts the situation is unchanged. Considerable numbers of the enemy are being held in check there.

"On the Caucasus front our Turkish allies have entered the regions promised to them in the peace treaty. In Palestine the English thrust which menaced the communication of the Turkish army groups has been checked and the English thrown back across the River Jordan."

ITALIANS BUSY IN ALBANIA.

Scriven Likens Work to That of Americans in Philippines.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, April 23.—General Scriven, Military Attaché to the American Embassy here, has returned from a trip to Albania and Macedonia. Commenting on his observations, he said:

"Everywhere I passed I was able to see that the practical qualities of the Italian race have shown themselves. They are doing the same work that was accomplished by the Americans in the Philippines.

"The Italian task embraces all fields, from that of feeding the population, who otherwise would have died of hunger, to the vaster undertakings of constructing roads, draining marsh lands, and building."

General Scriven said that he was unable to speak of the military preparations, which were admirable. He found the Albanians full of gratitude to the Italians. When the road leading from Avlona to Santi Quaranta was inaugurated the crowd enthusiastically proclaimed General Ferrera and his brave soldiers.

BARS NAMING FRANCIS.

Lansing's Objection Prevents Appointment of Ambassador as Senator

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 23.—That decision had been made to appoint David R. Francis, now Ambassador to Russia, to the United States Senate, succeeding the late Senator W. J. Stone, but that Secretary of State Lansing advised against such action, was announced today by Governor Gardner, who said he had not yet made his selection.

Governor Gardner said he wished to appoint Mr. Francis and consulted Secretary Lansing, who replied that "at present it would be most unfortunate for the Government to withdraw Mr. Francis from Russia."

LAST HONORS BY HIS FOES

British Aviators Acted as Pall Bearers and Paid Tribute to His Bravery.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 23, (Associated Press.)—A large number of British fighting men and aviation officers, as well as Americans stationed at an airdrome nearby, attended the burial yesterday of Captain Baron von Richthofen, who was laid away in the graveyard of a little hamlet near Sailly-le-Sec, where he was shot down in an aerial combat on Sunday.

It was an impressive funeral, worthy of the greatest aviator yet produced by the Central Allies, and could have been marked by no greater solemnity if it had been the premier Allied pilot who had lost his life, instead of the intrepid German whom all honored.

The thoughts of those who stood at the grave while the Army Chaplin read the beautiful Church of England service were expressed in an inscription on one of the floral wreaths: "A valiant and worthy foe."

Mechanics of an aviation squadron had constructed a coffin, on which they placed a plate giving the aviator's name, rank, and other data. The body was carried on a motor car, with which marched a firing squad and many officers and men. Six British air service officers acted as pallbearers.

As the procession moved to the burial place, scores of busy aviation mechanics paused and stood at attention as a tribute to the dead aviator. The Baron was buried under a hemlock tree, and the squad fired the last shots across the grave.

Captain von Richthofen died fighting in the air, as he would undoubtedly have chosen to do had he known he was fated to fall. It is not yet certain how he met his end, but the main details appear to be fairly well established.

The Captain, with his "flying circus" of more than twenty followers, came toward the British lines near Sailly-le-Sec, on the Somme, at about noon on Sunday. The Germans were seeking British prey, which they hoped to surround and finish off when the ill-fated airmen had no way of escape. As they neared the fighting front they encountered two British airplanes. Captain von Richthofen, for some reason, separated himself from his followers and started on a furious pursuit of these machines.

Meanwhile a score of other British planes came swirling up and engaged the Germans. The Captain kept after his man and attempted to out-manoeuvre him. The British plane, which was accompanying the one under attack, got above the German. The three machines raced toward the British lines, their machine guns chattering like mad. They kept getting lower until at last, when they were about fifty yards back of the British trenches, they were only a few hundred feet high. Meanwhile the other German machines were fighting the British squadron more than three miles away.

Machine guns and rifles on the ground came into action against Captain von Richthofen, who was also being fired at by at least one of his adversaries in the air. Suddenly his machine turned its nose downward and crashed to the earth.

Examination later showed that the German pilot had a bullet through his heart. It was difficult to say whether the bullet came from the ground or from a British machine. In any event, he was probably killed instantly.

Von Richthofen was apparently killed while trying to break through the British aerial defenses in the Ancre region in order that enemy reconnoissance machines might cross the lines to make observations on the defenses. A document captured Sunday reveals the reason for his presence there. It is a communication from the "group commander of aviation" to the First Pursuit Squadron, of which von Richthofen's eleventh pursuit flight was part, saying:

"It is not possible to fly over the Ancre in a westerly direction on account of strong enemy opposition. I request that this aerial barrage be forced to break in order that a reconnoissance up to the line of Marieux-Puchevillers (ten miles from the front) may be carried out."

Experience taught him the need of a competent executor

A business man recently advised us that he had had his attorney attach to his will—drawn years before—a codicil appointing this Company executor and trustee.

He said the need of having a thoroughly experienced and responsible executor and trustee had just been forcibly brought to his attention, when he had been trying to salvage something for his elderly aunt, out of a large estate left her by her husband.

Although she had had little experience in business affairs, she was given the management of the entire estate, and had acted on bad advice in making investments, until the estate was almost wholly lost.

Make your will now and appoint this Company executor and trustee. Ask for blank form that will enable you readily to give your attorney the necessary information—"The First Step in Making Your Will."

$416,683,950 IN LOAN DRIVE HERE

BANKERS HOPE FOR SPURT

Analysis of iFgures Shows Sales Lower Now Than on Similar Days of Second Drive.

RAILROADS BUY NO BONDS

Member of Committee Says Small Purchases Are Coming In Better Than the Big Ones.

Subscriptions to the Third Liberty Loan reported yesterday to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York amounted to $26,071,350, which brought the district's total for the fourteen business days of the campaign up to $416,683,950. Although this is about $24,000,000 in excess of the total of subscriptions obtained during the corresponding period of the Second Liberty Loan campaign, an analysis of the figures shows that the current drive is not proceeding as well as the previous one. For the last ten days the daily average of subscriptions has been about $23,654,000, while the daily average for a similar period last October was approximately $30,545,000. Yesterday's total of $26,071,350 compares with $45,863,850, the fourteenth day of the second loan campaign.

With the exception of the opening day of the drive, when applications were in exeess of $106,000,000, the daily returns have not been more than $31,512,400, while in the previous campaign that figure was exceeded six times in the course of the initial fourteen days.

Bankers continue to express disappointment as to the manner in which subscriptions are coming in, although they are hopeful that the final week will see a big spurt. Attention was directed yesterday to the fact that the railroads, which are now under Government control, were not taking any bonds, and that according to indications they were not likely to file subscriptions. The only railroad applications reported thus far have been from railway employes. In the last campaign the rail carriers subscribed liberally, and it is estimated that the principal lines bought anywhere from $65,000,000 to $100,000,000 worth of bonds.

Such roads as the Atchison, Northern Pacific, Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, the Norfolk & Western, the St. Paul, the Pennsylvania, the Lackawanna, the Union Pacific, and the Louisville & Nashville each subscribed $5,000,000 or more, while the Chicago & Northwestern took $3,500,000; the Lehigh Valley, $1,500,000, and the Missouri Pacific and the Delaware & Hudson, $1,000,000 each.

Few Railroads Have Cash.

According to bankers, Secretary McAdoo, as Director General of Railroads, has stated that only those roads which have surplus cash should subscribe to bonds, but this ruling is not encouraging for the reason that few of them have cash, and those that have are being ordered by the Director General to transfer their surplus funds to the weaker roads which are in dire need of cash. Also it is asserted that the Government has been unusually slow in making payments to the roads, it being estimated that on April 1 the carriers were entitled to about $150,000,000.

A member of the Liberty Loan Committee said yesterday that the small subscriptions were coming in satisfactorily, while both corporations and individuals were slow in filing large applications. He said he believed that eventually they would do "their duty," but that it was desirable that they should not wait until the last day.

The following table gives the quotas, yesterday's recorded subscriptions, and totals to date for each of the sub-divisions of the New York District:

The feature of yesterday's meeting at Liberty Bell, in City Hall Park, was the offer of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt to pay the first $2 on each of 1,000 Liberty bond subscriptions. This spurred the crowd to subscribe, and in the first fifteen minutes about two hundred persons had taken advantage of Mrs. Vanderbilt's offer.

Chauncey Olcott, Clifton Crawford and William Hodge were the attractions at the Sub-Treasury meeting. Julia Marlowe will recite the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" at a Liberty Loan tea to be held at the Biltmore this afternoon, and her husband, E. H. Sothern, will relate some of his experiences back of the fighting line in France.

Liederkranz Gives Aid.

A large gathering filled the main assembly hall of the Liederkranz Club at 111 East Fifty-eighth Street last night to participate in a Liberty Loan rally. Subscriptions totalling about $96,000 were received. After the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" by the audience, William Forster, who acted as Chairman of the meeting, referred to the history of the Liederkrantz Club since its foundation in 1847, and stated that its membership had at all times been identified with highest ideals of Americanism. He added:

"Superheated patriotism of the kind that degenerates into mob riots should be given no chance of growth at this time, and the law should deal with traitors and disloyal persons. We must trust one another so that the country may present a solid front against her enemies. It is the duty of every citizen to do all in his power to nullify the philosophy that might makes right, and this, together with militarism, must be eradicated for all time. Let us lay the foundation today by making the Third Liberty Loan a substantial success."

Awards Made in New Jersey.

At the end of the second week in the Third Liberty Loan campaign ninety-one communities in the seventh subdivision of the Second Federal Reserve District, comprising the twelve northern counties of New Jersey, had won honor flags.

The New York Stock Exchange has issued an answer to those individuals who hesitate to purchase Third Liberty Loan bonds at $100 when the previous issue is selling at 96.72. In its circular it says:

> There has appeared in some quarters the general misapprehension that by subscribing to the loan one discharges his patriotic obligation and is free to sell the bonds subscribed for any time thereafter. We urge your co-operation in combating such impression by pointing out the essential unsoundness of any such belief. Just as the Government requires men for the "duration of the war" it is important that every subscriber should make his Liberty Loan for the "duration of the war." Subscribers should take all the bonds they can pay for in cash, and with the savings in the near future. If this does not come up to their share they should borrow from their bank in order to take more, but whatever amount they borrow it should be with the positive intention to pay off out of additional savings and increased earnings. Subscribers then will be actually enlisting their funds for the period of the war in the manner most helpful to the Government.

Units of the New York Guard will parade tonight in different sections of the city in connection with the Liberty Loan campaign. Public school children of the upper east side, of the lower east side, and of the schools in the neighborhood of Park Avenue and Forty-sixth Street will hold three separate parades today.

To Invest Funds Held by State.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 23.—More than $2,000,000 of court and trust funds now deposited under the direction of the State Controller will be immediately made available for investment in Liberty bonds, Controller Travis announced tonight. The Controller's decision recommending such disposition followed a recent amendment to the State finance law, that half of all moneys received by the county treasurers "for other than a public use" may be invested in United States 4 per cent. registered bonds.

Cuba's Loan Drive May Beat Record.

HAVANA, April 23.—Cuba's Liberty Loan drive, by which it is expected to raise more than the $1,660,550 subscribed in the last Liberty Loan campaign in "the pearl of the Antilles," has begun with so much energy, and has been attended by so much encouragement so far, that the members of the Havana General Committee are confident the previous total will be exceeded by a large margin.

Governor Names Friday as Loan Day

ALBANY, April 23.—A proclamation designating Friday, April 26, as Liberty Day, to be devoted to the Third Liberty Loan, was issued tonight by Governor Whitman following similar action by the President.

LOAN'S TOTAL NOW IS $1,657,678,800

reason, it was said, is not obvious. No one section of the district really can be held to be responsible for the low district percentage, as reports tonight show that New York City and New York State each has subscribed 45 per cent. of its quota, and Fairfield County, Connecticut, and the twelve northern counties of New Jersey, which are in the reserve district, 54 and 61 per cent., respectively.

Payment of income and other war taxes, according to Treasury Department advices, is having the effect of curtailing subscriptions to the Third Liberty Loan on the part of the large business concerns and wealthy individuals. This is offered as one of the reasons for the apparent slowness of the Third Liberty Loan in large financial centres.

The Treasury Department has been asked to permit payment of these taxes on the installment plan, so that the load of assisting the Government in its financial program may be distributed through a longer period of time. The Treasury explained today that it was impossible to grant this privilege both in connection with the payment of taxes and in connection with the purchase of Liberty bonds. Officials expressed the hope that these firms and individuals will make use of the installment privilege in the purchase of bonds to make possible the attainment of a heavy oversubscription.

A statement issued by the Treasury Department says:

"There is no provision of law under which this department may defer, beyond June 15, 1918, the payment of income and excess profits taxes, and the financial requirements of the Government are such as to make it unwise for this department to recommend to Congress at this time the enactment of legislation that will authorize the department to defer such payments beyond June 15."

Vice Admiral Sims has sent a message to the entire naval establishment appealing for the strongest possible support of the loan by the navy. His message was addressed to Secretary Daniels, who has sent it to all ships and stations. The navy today passed the $5,000,000 mark after sixteen days' campaigning.

FOE AIDED ALLIES, LORD READING SAYS

Tells St. George's Society Germany's Drive Forced the Single Command.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO FOCH

Admiral Sims, He Says, Told Him He Had Commanded a British Fleet in a British Harbor.

The Earl of Reading, British Ambassador and High Commissioner, who spoke last night at the Waldorf-Astoria at the one hundred and forty-eighth annual gathering of the St. George Society, said that the German offensive, in forcing a single command upon the Allies, had taught the Allies the method with which to achieve victory.

The United States, he continued, had set the standard for co-operation in placing the army of General Pershing at the disposal of General Foch. He also said that he hoped that unity would be eventually achieved between the British, French, Italian, and American land forces which now exists between the navies, adding that Admiral Sims had told him he had commanded a British fleet in a British harbor.

"Co-operation could not be better than that," commented Lord Reading.

After beginning by paying a high tribute to the abilities and achievements of his predecessor, the late Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, Lord Reading said of the German offensive:

"Let no man attempt to minimize it. It is the greatest trial we have ever encountered. Troops from Russia and from all other fronts on which the Germans have been fighting had been concentrated for this drive, which had for its purpose the breaking of the British line, so that the British and French armies might be separated and dealt with separately. I have not the time, nor am I the proper man, to recount to you the valorous and gallant deeds of our men in the face of this attack, giving way at points, it is true, but nevertheless never allowing the line to be broken. They held on, as they are holding on at the present moment. We have undoubtedly lost a great number of our men. But then we have killed a great number of Germans.

"It has enabled us to take a step which we had not been willing to take before, that of placing our troops with the troops of the other armies under the command of that very distinguished General Foch. To our credit it must be said that we did not hesitate when in this emergency we saw that it must be done. Do not think that that was a light thing for the British Army to have done. We are naturally proud of our own army and of our own commander, but in the emergency we rose to the higher patriotism, and in reaching this decision our task was made easy, because our armies were placed under the command of a General whose powers we had learned in the four years that he had been fighting with us."

Lord Reading praised the promptness of the American Government in placing its soldiers in France under the single command. He continued:

"I am justified in saying this to you, that ever since then there has been greater activity among American troops in this country. Ships which were before used for various purposes have all been taken over to be used in transporting American troops to France. It was found that it was possible to send far more troops to France than had been done before."

HARLEM TALKS OF BOYCOTT.

Newsdealers' Association Says It Will Bar German Papers.

Beginning tonight the news dealers in the Harlem district are going to take matters into their own hands regarding stopping the sale and distribution of German language newspapers in New York City during the war, according to officers of the Harlem Newsdealers' Association, an organization affiliated with the New York Newsdealers' and Stationers' Protective Association. The following resolution will be offered at a meeting of the association tonight:

> Whereas, The United States is now at war with Germany and Austria-Hungary, and whereas there are published in this city a number of newspapers and periodicals printed in the language of these enemies which are freely offered for sale and are sold upon the news stands of this city; and
> Whereas, The newsdealers of Harlem, organized as the Harlem Newsdealers' Association and affiliated with the New York Newsdealers and Stationers Protective Association desire to render every possible assistance to this country in its present hour of need; and
>
> Whereas, We believe the sale and distribution of newspapers printed in the language of our enemies tend to create disorder and lend aid and comfort to our enemies; and
>
> Whereas, The newsdealers of this city who are intensely patriotic are afforded an opportunity to help our soldiers over seas to defeat our enemies and bring nearer the day of a just and lasting peace by strengthening the morale of the people at home;
>
> Now, therefore, be it Resolved, That the Harlem Newsdealers' Association recommend to its members that they discontinue for the period of the war the sale and distribution of newspapers printed in the language of our enemies; and be it further
>
> Resolved, That they urge on news dealers affiliated with them the necessity for pursuing the same policy; and be it further
> Resolved, That they co-operate in every way with every agency favoring a thorough and vigorous prosecution of the war.

Richard M. Hurd, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the American Defense Society, said last night that the society was going to leave no stone unturned to stop the sale here of German language papers. He added that the system of meetings planned by the society would be continued in City Hall Park.

ALONE, SHOT 7 GERMANS.

American Officer Slain After Killing Whole Squad with Pistol.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The American soldier in France has the "endurance of the English, the courage of the French and "pep" that belongs to the American alone," according to Lieutenant Daniel C. Roper, Jr., son of Internal Revenue Commissioner Roper.

In a letter to his father Lieutenant Roper tells of the gallant fight of a young officer from South Carolina named David, who, overwhelmed by Germans, accounted for seven of the enemy before he was killed:

"You will be proud to know of the case of a South Carolinian, son of Dr. David, near Clio, S. C. He was overwhelmed by the boches, but he had a pile of human flesh in front of him. He fought like a tiger—accounted for seven boches with his pistol, and then was fighting with an empty rifle when struck from behind. My friend was a citadel man and a fine officer."

Austro-Hungarians in Belgium.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Diplomatic dispatches received from Berne today said Hungarian troops had arrived in Belgium. Many troop trains, it was said, had passed through Liége. The presence of many Austrians was reported also at Antwerp and Ghent.

Guatemala's Recent Action Puts Her Definitely in the War, Says Mendez.

LONDON, April 23.—Uruguay and Argenina are expected to declare war against Germany at an early date, according to Berlin advices, forwarded by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Amsterdam.

The German newspapers, he adds, have been notified to prepare the public for this development.

BUENOS AIRES, April 2, (by Mail.)—A tendency toward a franker friendship with the allied nations became more clearly defined after the return to this country of Dr. Romulo Naon, the Argentine Ambassador at Washington. Dr. Naon had several interviews with President Irigoyen, as a result of which it is now known that the President has approved Dr. Naon's entire policy in Washington.

The Government is understood to be negotiating a convention with the Governments of the United States, France, and Great Britain for facilitating the shipment of meats to the Allies.

Relations Recently More Tense.

Uruguay's relations with Germany have been tense for some time. On April 12 a Montevideo dispatch indicated that a Uruguayan mission to France had been captured by a German submarine. Uruguay, the dispatch stated, had asked Berlin, through Switzerland, if Germany considered that a state of war existed with the Uruguayan Republic, "as stated by the commander of a submarine who captured a Uruguayan military mission bound for France." If the reply was in the affirmative, it was announced, Uruguay would declare a state of war.

Argentina has been apparently on the verge of a break in relations with Germany over the submarine situation several times since the publication last Summer of the documents in which Count von Luxburg, German diplomatic representative at Buenos Aires, advised the Berlin Foreign Office, among other things, that a certain Argentine merchant vessel should be "sunk without trace."

Guatemala Definitely in the War.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The declaration of the Guatemalan National Assembly that Guatemala occupies the same position toward the European belligerents as does the United States constitutes a declaration of war on Germany and her allies, the Guatemalan Minister, Señor Don Joaquin Mendez, announced today.

SWISS TO GET OUR GRAIN.

Germany Expected to Grant Safe Conduct to Ships Marked 'Schweiz.'

BERNE, April 23. — Switzerland's negotiations with Germany for the safe conduct of American grain appear to be reaching a favorable conclusion.

It is understood that Germany will grant safe conduct to all ships carrying, in addition to the American or other flag, the Swiss flag, and marked plainly with the inscription "Schweiz."

ARMY MOVING FAST, BAKER DECLARES

His Figures on Rate of Sending Men to France Larger Than House Committee Expected.

SHIPS STILL BIG PROBLEM

Extent of Draft and Ultimate Size of Army Depend on Transportation, He Says.

PRAISES MORALE OF MEN

Quotes Gen. Foch as Speaking in Highest Terms of Americans—All Confident of Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Secretary Baker, appearing before the House Military Affairs Committee today, gave his observations about the American army abroad and the strengthening of the allied forces through the appointment of General Foch as Generalissimo, but declined to make any prediction as to the size of the American army that would be formed ultimately or the necessity of adding to its numbers through an extension of the draft law.

His testimony, given behind closed doors, dealt almost entirely with his European trip. In the face of questions by members of the committee as to the proposal to extend the draft age and other matters of vital military importance, Mr. Baker preferred to confine himself to a discussion of surface conditions. He will appear before the committee later and present his views on military legislation.

The outstanding feature of Mr. Baker's testimony was that the American officers and the allied military authorities abroad had nothing but confidence as to the ultimate outcome of the war. The morale of all the armies fighting Germany was excellent, he said, and the American soldiers especially, he said, were in high spirits.

Mr. Baker said that he went from coast to battleground and did not see a single American soldier under the influence of liquor. The morale of our soldiers and their morals were all that could be desired, he asserted. Every American soldier was putting himself in the best physical condition for the serious battle before him, the Secretary said.

Secretary Baker praised General Foch, whom he described as a modest man, not given to hasty speech.

"You will find that I am not given to compliments," General Foch said in effect to the American Secretary of War, "but I want to say that every one of our officers speak in the highest terms of the Americans under arms here."

All Depends on Transportation.

Mr. Baker said that he was unable to give the committee any idea as to the size the American Army should attain in the next six months until he had figures as to the shipping situation. He said that the size of the army that the United States would send abroad was dependent entirely upon the transportation question, which, he said, was daily growing better. Docking and storage facilities in France, he said, were other factors that must be considered by the War Department before deciding upon the size of the army for service abroad. Therefore, until transportation and wharf facilities were expanded, the Secretary said, he could not estimate the number of soldiers who could be landed in France in the next six months.

Mr. Baker said, in effect, that it was useless for us to send men to training camps when we had no way of transporting a vast number of soldiers to France. The transportation question, he said, dominated the question of the size of the army as well as the question of how fast we should send men to camp.

When pressed for specific information as to the probable number of men who could be sent abroad Mr. Baker said that he desired to study the situation and as soon as he had acquainted himself with the transportation problem and other matters he would return to the committee and make definite recommendations on raising the draft age and other war legislation, action upon which had waited his return from abroad.

The annual military appropriation bill has been held up pending the Secretary's return. Mr. Baker promised to bring his recommendations to the committee within a very short time.

Troops Moving Rapidly.

In confidence Mr. Baker revealed to the committee the rate at which this country is now sending troops to France. The number was greater than members of the committee had thought, and some of the members said after the meeting that if the rate could be maintained and slightly increased, the American forces would be heard from very effectively on the western front before Winter. The Secretary gave the figures on the number of Americans in France and informed the committee as to the disposition of American troops along the battle line.

American aviators have performed excellently, Mr. Baker said, and were fast taking their place in the air fleet of the allied army. There are almost enough American fliers in France now, he said, to protect the sectors occupied by American troops. There is no scarcity of machines, although many of the American aviators are using French and British airplanes. There is such a demand for aviators, Mr. Baker told the committee, that the War Department has decided to send fliers to France faster than they have been sent heretofore. Only the most necessary preliminary training will be given to the aviators in this country, and the real training will be obtained in France.

Although frequently questioned as to the supply of machine guns, ammunition, or heavy artillery for the American troops, Mr. Baker did not give the committee any details, reserving a discussion of real military matters until he should appear before the committee with the Military bill.

Representative Shallenberger, a member of the committee, who intends to offer an amendment to the Draft bill to extend the age limit to 47, sought unsuccessfully to get an opinion from Mr. Baker as to the wisdom of increasing the draft age.

In touching upon different situations he found abroad, Mr. Baker frequently, throughout his talk of more than two hours, said that he had not found a single officer in the allied army who was not optimistic as to the success of the allied cause.

SINGER HELD AS KIDNAPPER.

Blossom Harris Accused of Stealing the Rossy Baby.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 23.—Blossom Harris, also known as "Babe" Harris and Agnes Knorr, a cabaret singer and dancer, who resides with her mother, Mrs. E. Harris, in the Lyric Theatre Building, was arrested this afternoon by Detective Sergeant Thompson of New York on the charge of kidnapping a seven months' old baby from Mrs. Kate Rossy, 333 East 117th Street, Manhattan.

When Miss Harris and the baby were brought to Police Headquarters she vigorously protested her innocence and declared the baby did not belong to Mrs. Rossy, but to a friend of hers, Mrs. Robert M. Carr, who died in the Rockefeller Institute and who before she died requested her to care for the baby.

MORE CALIFORNIA SHOCKS.

San Jacinto and Hemet Shaken, but No More Damage Done.

SAN JACINTO, Cal., April 23.—Three more earthquake shocks were felt last night and early today in San Jacinto and Hemet, but added nothing to the destruction by the Sunday afternoon tremors, which half-wrecked the business district here and severely damaged Hemet.

The shocks occurred at midnight, about 2 A. M., and at 7:15 A. M. The last, which was reckoned as the twelfth of the series, seemed the most severe. Windows were shaken and dishes rattled.

Gas, electric, and water services were resumed yesterday and conditions gradually were approaching normal again here and at Hemet.

Sues Insurance Company for Stock.

Elihu Root argued before Supreme Court Justice Finch yesterday for the dismissal of the complaint in a suit of William J. Logan, owner of the Logan Iron Works in Brooklyn, to recover 1,400 shares of stock in the American Sugar Refining Company, worth $145,000, from the Fidelity-Phenix Insurance Company. The plaintiff alleges that in 1909 he lent to the Phenix Insurance Company, through its President, George P. Sheldon, the sugar stock to enable the company to reinsure certain insurance before merging with the Fidelity Insurance Company and got the Phenix Company's receipt. The Court reserved decision.

BUY AND SAVE!

Begin to save carefully and intelligently in order to prevent every needless hour of human agony on the fields of France.

Enlist your dollars as our soldiers enlist their lives—until the war is won.

We shall save, save more than we ever believed we could save, to invest in Liberty Bonds.

We are united in this purpose. But our present savings may not be adequate for the purchase of all the Liberty Bonds our hearts prompt us to buy. To meet this difficulty the great banking system of America, which has been mobilized in support of the Government, offers its help.

Every citizen is urged to go to a bank and arrange for the purchase of bonds to be paid for out of future savings.

The undersigned banks who have paid for this advertisement pledge themselves to make to subscribers loans on United States Government Bonds of the Third Liberty Loan for 90 days at 4¼ per cent., the same rate of interest paid by the Government. Such loans will not interfere with any borrower's regular line of credit. We urge every bank in the United States to do likewise.

ADMITS KILLING GIRL THEN ENDS HIS LIFE

Helmuth Schmitt Lets Iron Bed Crush His Skull in Cell of Michigan Jail.

MATRIMONIAL 'AD' HIS LURE

Slayer Confessed Burning Body of Augusta Steinbach, Whom He Decoyed from Here.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., April 23.—Helmuth Schmidt committed suicide in his cell at the Highland Park jail this afternoon, shortly after he had confessed that he burned the body of Augusta Steinbach of New York, whom he lured to his Royal Oak home through a matrimonial advertisement in a New York newspaper.

Kneeling upon the floor of the cell, Schmidt brought down a heavy iron bed, suspended from the wall, upon his head, the edge of the ironwork smashing his skull. Sergeant Filmore heard the sound of the blow from his desk in the jail, and, rushing into the cell block, found Schmidt lying upon the cell floor. Filmore called Prosecutor Gillespie and Dr. Crowe, but Schmidt already was dead.

All through a long examination today in which he confessed that he had cut up and burned the body of Miss Steinbach, Schmidt pleaded with the officials for time. His story that the woman took poison when he refused to leave home with her was shattered by the officers, who succeeded in bringing out many conflicting points which made them confident that Schmidt had killed the girl. Schmidt finally put his arms on Prosecutor Gillespie's shoulders and promised to make a formal confession to a stenographer, in which he intimated there would be still further disclosures if the officers would let him have luncheon. He was accordingly taken back to his cell, and was left kneeling upon the floor, apparently in prayer.

Confession by Schmidt.

Schmidt's confession was made before Prosecutor Gillespie and Sheriff Cross of Oakland County, Chief Seymour of Highland Park, and deputies and detectives. He said that he took the girl to his home in Royal Oak when his wife and daughter, now held in the Pontiac jail, were away. He declared he made love to her, and that she wanted him to run away with her. When he refused to leave his family, he asserted, she went into another room and took poison. Officers tripped him on whether the girl repulsed him. Once he said she fought with him; at other times he said she did not.

"She wanted me to leave my wife," said Schmidt. "She was crazy. When I refused, she went into the side room and took poison."

Miss Steinbach died within fifteen minutes, according to Schmidt, who said he hid the body under the porch where the stained clothes were found. The body was there for several days, he said, until his wife again left the house, when he cut it up and burned it.

Schmidt's confession also included the fact that he got his first housekeeper through a want advertisement in the Staats-Zeitung of New York. This woman disappeared about the time Schmidt moved from 418 Glendale Avenue, Highland Park, to the Royal Oak bungalow, according to the officials.

Girl Was Servant Here.

It was learned yesterday at New York Police Headquarters that Augusta Steinbach, who was murdered by Herman Schmidt, an engineer, living in Royal Oak, Mich., worked as a housemaid in the home of Edward Heidelberg, at 38 West Fifty-fourth Street, in this city, until her departure for Detroit on Feb. 2, 1917, to meet Herman Neugebauer, who is supposed to be Herman Schmidt, with the intention of marrying him. It was said at Mr. Heidelberg's home yesterday that Miss Steinbach had been employed there for several months. She left the house of Mr. Heidelberg on Feb. 2, 1917.

PLEDGES TO ULSTER BROKEN, SAYS CARSON

Leader Attacks Lloyd George's Course on Home Rule in Statement to the Press.

LONDON, April 23.—Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, in a letter to the press, says:

"The Government are on the point of introducing a Home Rule bill and have threatened to leave their posts in the hour of national danger unless it is carried into law. The Prime Minister says that any pledges which stood in the way are to be scrapped because the war has lasted longer than was expected by those who gave them.

"It may perhaps lead to a clearer understanding of the position in which Ulster is placed by this announcement to recall the sequence of events in relation thereto since 1914."

He then reviews in detail the history of the controversy during the war, his recital being devoted to showing that the Government has broken a number of pledges to Ulster that no attempt would be made to force Ulster into a Home Rule scheme and that even when the convention met the Government gave an undertaking that legislation would only be introduced if a substantial agreement was reached, and that there could be no substantial agreement unless the representatives were assenting parties. He adds:

"The Prime Minister admits now that no substantial agreement has been reached, and the Ulster delegates in a separate report tell us that no agreement was reached on any point of importance. Yet Mr. Lloyd George announces the introduction of a Home Rule bill for the whole of Ireland, which, it is generally assumed, will be based on the majority report, from which the Ulster delegates unanimously dissented.

"Such is the story. The moral I will not attempt to draw."

Mayor of Dublin Insists on Coming to Washington

DUBLIN, April 23.—The Lord Mayor of Dublin announces that he has applied to Foreign Secretary Balfour for passports for himself and his Secretaries in order that they may proceed to Washington.

A dispatch from Dublin Friday said that, after a conference at the Mansion House there, representatives of the Nationalists, Sinn Feiners, O'Brienites, and Laborites decided to prepare for presentation to the world a detailed statement of Ireland's case against the Compulsory Military Service act. The dispatch added that the Lord Mayor of Dublin had been asked to go to Washington and present the statement to President Wilson.

DUBLIN DOES NO WORK.

Anti-Conscription Day Observed—Ignored by North of Ireland.

DUBLIN, April 23.—Ireland's workless day, decided upon by the labor bodies as a protest against conscription, proceeded today according to the leaders' plan. The stoppage of work in Dublin was virtually complete. Excellent order prevailed. Few soldiers were visible. Silence seemed to be the watchword.

In halls and other meeting places throughout the city the people continued all day to sign the anti-conscription pledge. Excellent order prevailed. Few soldiers were visible. Silence seemed to be the watchword.

LONDON, April 23.—The order of the Irish Labor Convention for a day's cessation of work as a protest against conscription was absolutely ignored in Belfast and the north of Ireland, says a Central News dispatch from Belfast. Work went on as usual.

War Takes All Fraternity's Members

Because the membership of Columbia University Chapter Delta Tau Delta has dwindled to almost nothing through the participation of its members in war activities the chapter got permission from Supreme Court Justice Guy yesterday to sell its house at 616 West 113th Street. The petition says that not only its younger members, but many of the Alumni of the chapter have become officers in the service. At the opening of the Fall session the membership had dropped from thirty-three to three, and only one new member was initiated. Of the four two are now in the service and the other two are planning to enlist.

CREEL MAY TESTIFY IN THE MASSES TRIAL

Attorney Prosecuting Editors Will Ask Censor to Appear for Government.

EDITORS DENY CONSPIRACY

Art Young, Cartoonist, and Floyd Dill, Managing Editor, on Stand at Yesterday's Session.

George Creel, Chairman of the Committee on Public Information, will be requested to appear as a witness for the Government in the prosecution of the editors of The Masses, who are being tried before Judge Hand in the Federal Court on a charge of conspiring to obstruct the draft by their cartoons and editorial attacks upon conscription. Earle B. Barnes, United States Assistant Attorney, prosecuting the case, declared yesterday that he would make every effort to induce Mr. Creel to come and testify.

"A summons is not necessary," said Mr. Barnes, "so I do not intend to issue a formal summons. Mr. Creel is a busy Government official, and while I shall make every effort to have him appear, I shall not insist."

The Government's purpose in calling Mr. Creel will be to place upon the record of the trial the censor's own version of the interview with C. Merrill Rogers, business manager of The Masses, and one of the defendants, when the latter went to Mr. Creel for advice on the propriety of publishing in the June (1917) issue of The Masses an advertisement inserted by Mrs. J. Sergeant Cram, and reading, "I will not kill nor help to kill my fellowman."

Mr. Rogers, in testifying, said Mr. Creel did not protest strenuously against the publication of the advertisement and that the June issue was then promptly released.

It is understood that when Mr. Creel appears on the stand he will also be questioned with reference to an editorial entitled "The Censor" in the same issue containing the "I will not kill" advertisement.

The principal witnesses examined at yesterday's session of the trial were Art Young, the artist who contributed the cartoons complained of by the Government, and Floyd Dell, the managing editor of The Masses. They are co-defendants with Max Eastman and C. Merrill Rogers in the indictment charging conspiracy. With Art Young on the stand United States Assistant Attorney Barnes endeavored to establish proof of "conspiracy" in the fact that a cooperative editorship existed in the directing board of The Masses, with Max Eastman wielding an autocratic hand upon all contributions. Young testified to a meeting of the board, when five contributing editors were expelled from the board because they objected to "Max's autocracy." According to Art Young, the differences in that particular case were due to the fact that the dissenting editors insisted upon drawing pictures that had pictorial value but no value as vehicles of propaganda.

Floyd Dell, the managing editor, questioned as to the purpose of certain editorial comments written by him in "The Masses," also, insisted that they were never intended to obstruct recruiting or inspire objection to the draft. He stated that he himself had been a conscientious objector when conscription first went into effect but that following President Wilson's message to the Pope setting forth the war aims of the allies, he withdrew his opposition both to the draft and to the prosecution of the war.

The trial continues today.

LIEUT. ELY, AVIATOR, DIES.

Chicagoan Belonged to Lafayette Escadrille—Three Win Crosses.

PARIS, April 23.—Second Lieutenant Dinsmore Ely of Chicago, Ill., formerly of the Lafayette Escadrille, died Sunday from injuries suffered in an airplane accident.

The French Government has awarded the War Cross to Sergeant David E. Putnam of Brookline, Mas., a member of French Escadrille No. 156; William A. Wellman of Cambridge, Mass., of Escadrille No. 87, and Phelps Collins of Detroit, a member of the Lafayette Escadrille.

Collins was killed on March 13 in an aerial combat. Putnam, Wellman, and Collins enlisted in the Foreign Legion early in the war and fought in the trenches for a long time before joining the aviation service.

MINEOLA AVIATOR KILLED.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 23.—Roger W. Patterson, a cadet flier attached to the United States Army Aviation School at Park Field, fell from his airplane while flying at a height of about 1,000 feet today and was killed. Patterson was flying alone, and, according to officers at Park Field, apparently lost control of his machine when it fell into a tail spin.

Patterson's home was in Mineola, L. I. He was 23 years old.

Aviation Fall Kills Lieut. G. E. Bell.

BUENZ MUST SERVE HIS TERM IN PRISON

President Wilson Denies Appeal for Respite of Former Hamburg-American Director.

GOES TO JAIL TOMORROW

Judge Howe's Decision That His Health Will Not Suffer Sustained by Highest Authority.

The appeal of Dr. Karl Buenz, former Managing Director of the Hamburg-American Line, convicted of violating the shipping laws, for a respite from serving his term in Atlanta was denied by President Wilson on Monday, according to word received at the United States District Attorney's office here yesterday from the Department of Justice in Washington. Dr. Buenz's attorneys were notified last night to inform Dr. Bunez that he must surrender himself to Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and be prepared to leave for Atlanta that night, it was announced by United States Assistant District Attorney Ben A. Matthews, who has charge of the case with Assistant District Attorney Francis B. Caffey.

Dr. Buenz was recommended to be sent to Atlanta by Judge Harland B. Howe on April 8, although at that time thirty physicians testified at a hearing that it would mean the death of Dr. Buenz, who was claimed to be in extremely bad health. The decision of Judge Howe was made after reading a letter from Dr. Buenz, in which he said that he was willing to go to Atlanta and did not believe that the serving of his sentence would do his health any harm.

Dr. Buenz was convicted on Nov. 2, 1915, for supplying provisions to German cruisers which were acting as raiders by means of ships loaded in American ports. Every possible means has been employed by Dr. Buenz's attorneys to keep him from serving his eighteen months' term. An appeal was filed with the Federal Court of Appeals and denied, and then a respite which lasted for more than two years was obtained because of the alleged ill health. Dr. Buenz, who was 72 years old when convicted, is said to have suffered acutely from rheumatism. When it was recommended by Judge Howe on April 8 that Dr. Buenz be sent to Atlanta an appeal was made to Attorney General Gregory. This was promptly denied. The Supreme Court of the United States also refused to reverse the conviction of Dr. Buenz, and three other officials of the Hamburg-American Line who were convicted with him. The others are George Kotter, superintending engineer; Walter Poppenhouse, a second officer, and Adolph Hackmeister.

How Can You Tell Good Shoes Now

YOU come out of the average shoe store these days with a feeling of uncertainty about values. You can't help thinking that the clerk was rather vague about the facts—rather casual and indifferent.

He was entirely too general in his statements—you had to take too much for granted.

The only certain way is to buy a shoe with a known and trusted institution back of it.

The Regal Shoe Company has a nation-wide reputation for dependability. It builds more into its shoes than mere appearance and selling value. Service, quality and shapeliness, lasting as long as the shoe holds together—are Regal qualities.

If you want a "cheap" shoe don't go to a Regal store. But if you want an authoritatively-styled, long-wearing shoe you'll find it in any of the fifty-four Regal metropolitan stores, or one thousand Regal Agencies.

Newark High School Teacher Finds Philip Gibbs Dispatches Stimulate Interest.

THE NEW YORK TIMES dispatches from Philip Gibbs, at the British battlefront, are daily used in the "discussion of current events," a part of the history course in the South Side High School at Newark, whose pupils number between 1,000 and 1,500. Miss Helen G. Important events and incidents of the Great Battle in Picardy and Flanders, or events related to it, have been reported first in THE NEW YORK TIMES. There is no other record like this in the history of journalism.

Among these events were:

Foch's selection as Generalissimo.

Czernin's famous speech, with its charge against Clemenceau, which produced the greatest diplomatic sensation of the war. It was transmitted to THE TIMES at a cost of 30 cents a word for cable tolls.

Defeat of the British Fifth Army and removal of its Commander, Gen. Gough.

THE NEW YORK TIMES is the only newspaper in America receiving daily special dispatches from the battlefront on the day they are written. These are the vivid narratives of Philip Gibbs. The cable tolls on one of these daily dispatches frequently run close to $1,000.

Seventeen special correspondents now serve THE NEW YORK TIMES at war centres.

Wallstein Resents Suggestion That $2,000 Clerk Could Take Place of Bureau.

James E. MacBride, Chairman of the Civil Service Commission and head of Mayor Hylan's committee investigating the Health Department, bore the full brunt of attacks made yesterday by witnesses who opposed abolishing the Bureau of Public Health Education of the Health Department. The statements were made at the public hearing held in the examination room of the Municipal Civil Service Commission on the fourteenth floor of the Municipal Building.

Among the most forceful of the witnesses, who included representatives of charity, social, civic, educational, labor and medical organizations, was James Bagley, Secretary of the Labor Sanitation Conference. After saying that his organization had fought the previous administration for an additional $25,000 appropriation for the Bureau of Public Health Education, Mr. Bagley recalled that 60 per cent. of the workingmen examined in the draft were rejected for physical reasons and were barred from fighting for "their ideals of democracy, as we recall them."

"What do you mean?" asked Chairman MacBride.

"I said that because some of us differ in what we mean by democracy," replied Bagley. "Your ideal of democracy is to save $30 to stop the publication of a pamphlet giving the history of the Health Department. My ideal of democracy is to spend $300 for the printing of that pamphlet. My ideal is to have the greatest number of persons in the country read that pamphlet so as to know exactly what the Health Department of this city is doing. Your ideal is"——

"Then you believe in an unlimited expenditure of funds?" asked Mr. MacBride.

Would Extend Health Education.

"If it is in our interest," said Bagley. "We workingmen are the ones who pay the expenses of the Health Department. We believe in having a government that is fit to live in and under, and if you give us that we are going to keep you in office. But we want you to tell the workingman what to do to keep in good physical condition.

"If you want to make recommendations that are in accord with what the masses want, you will recommend that the work of the Bureau of Public Health Education be extended and not curtailed. We believe so much in health education that we paid the bill of the city in order to have corrections made on proofs so that they might be sent out in terms of the man on the street and not in technical language. There is one bureau that you can easily get rid of if you want, and we will recommend that later."

Chairman MacBride sought to learn from the witness what bureau he had in mind, but the witness declined to reveal it for the present. After stating several additional objections, Mr. Bagley finally raised his voice so that he was heard in the corridors and declared emphatically: "My idea of what this commission is doing is that it is like a dog running around and chasing its own tail. First you say the purpose of the investigation is one thing, then it is graft, then it is something else, until the public doesn't know what it is."

There was laughter and applause at Mr. Bagley's outburst, and Chairman MacBride replied: "Then you have no confidence in our newspaper friends?"

"Why the newspapers didn't know what was going on. Only yesterday the hearing was supposed to be for the purpose of hearing those who wanted to speak on the question of abolishing the Bureau of Public Health Education. At the same hearing you went into an investigation of the Bureau of Child Hygiene, and nobody seems to know where you are at. We don't know whether you are running around in a ring or not."

"Do you think the commission ought to control its own policies or do you think some one else ought to do it?" put in Civil Service Commissioner William Drennan.

"I think you ought to take up one thing at a time and stick to it," replied Bagley. "If my opinion takes up the case of one man it follows it up and does not switch off to another matter."

"As long as Dr. S. Josephine Baker, Director of the Bureau of Child Hygiene, was here we wanted to question her," explained the Chairman. "We acted within our rights and we don't care what criticism there is of our action."

Resents Loss of Time.

"I am not criticising, though I accept your apology," said Bagley. The spectators broke into laughter and applause, while the investigators sat grim and silent as Bagley continued: "We believe that our time is as valuable as yours. I don't like to come here and learn that the matter that I was interested in comes up next week. Let me say I am only telling you these things for your own good." The audience again went into gales of laughter.

Another witness, who said he had great difficulty in finding out the purpose of the Investigating Committee, was Dr. J. E. Peabody of the Department of Biology of Morris High School.

"We devoted all of last week at the Morris Hgh School to trying to find out what the issues in the investigation were," he said.

"Why didn't you come here and find out?" asked Civil Sevice Commissioner Morris Cukor.

"Because your meetings were not open to the public," replied Dr. Peabody, to loud hand clapping from the audience.

Dr. Lee K. Frankel, Third Vice President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, said that the type of person he was desirous of hearing speak on the question was the general manager for any large corporation or department store.

Curing disease is a minor part of the health problem, said the witness. The biggest factor in the whole problem of health, he said, was that of public health education.

"We can never have an efficient Health Department if the public is not educated," declared Dr. Frankel. "When the public is taught what the Health Department is trying to do, that it is being built up for their own good, and that it is working for their own benefit, then the public will help. To do that you have got to have a centralized bureau carrying out a systematized policy."

"We don't know what you gentlemen are trying to do but we feel that there is danger in the air," said Fred Gaa, Secretary of the Brotherhood of Painters.

Leonard Wallstein, formerly Commissioner of Accounts, said that the question of the usefulness of the bureau came up in 1916, when Tilden Adamson, a member of a budget sub-committee, suggested abolishing it.

"If you want any ammunition against it see Tilden Adamson," he suggested. "But the majority on the committee, after hearing the matter discussed, thought it should be maintained. You admit that there is a need for public health education. Well, the work must be done efficiently and under centralized control. You said in your report that a $2,000 clerk could do it. I doubt it. The last appropriation was cut down from $15,000 to $13,000, and I voted against the cut. I think it was a mistake. The appropriation should have been increased."

Hints That Women Will Speak.

"You gentlemen are engaged by us to do your duty to us," said Dr. E. I. Keller, connected with Vanderbilt and Bellevue clinics. "We women who have the vote are going to say a good deal. Yesterday I stampeded this building trying to find out where the hearing was taking place. Downstairs they told me there was no hearing. Then they referred me to the elevator man. Then I was sent to the office of the commission, and when I was referred to the examination room and went down the hall I was told that examinations were being held there. How are you running your city if you do not let us know where the hearing is being held? You seem to be protecting yourself mighty well."

Dr. Ira Wile, representing the Civic Club, said that no bureau in the Health Department had been productive of greater results than the bureau it was sought to abolish. The example of New York in organizing such a bureau, he said, was being followed all over the country. He said it was impossible to get a $2,000 a year man to do it, and it could not be done along borough lines.

"To abolish it would set an example before the country that I would hate to have followed," he continued. "The American Public Health Association says that the main element in safeguarding the community in time of war is the maintenance of a well-organized Bureau of Public Health Education. It seems to me that the city would make a great mistake if it wiped out this bureau."

There will be no session of the committee today, and beginning tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 individuals and representatives of organizations in favor of abolishing the bureau will be heard.

FRENCH PEOPLE SPEAK FOR WAR TO THE END

Meetings of the Conseils Generaux Express Confidence in Victory —Army Furloughs Resumed.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 23.—For the first time this year all France has an opportunity in the Spring sessions of the Conseils Generaux to declare itself on the war. From each of eighty-seven departments comes today the same word to Paris. It is the word of assurance that the fighting will go on until real victory is attained and of complete confidence in the outcome of the war. No item of the earlier demands as to what peace must bring is omitted from the resolutions of the Conseils. This is not the oratory of politicians for effect. It is a direct message from the farms, factories and homes, for the Conseils Generaux are the most truly representative bodies in France.

The meaning of what they say or do is never hidden under the haze of party politics, as may be the case in the National Chamber of Deputies. Furthermore, all the members of the Conseils were recently elected, and, therefore, they say what the people are believing and thinking now in the fourth year of the war and when the greatest battle of the war is a month old.

It is as if every village and town in a State of the United States sent its people to the State capital to say what was wanted and to promise what the people were ready to perform at any sacrifice. In France every village and town does just that in each department.

The Conseils Generaux are gatherings of direct representatives of the people. Hence the significance of what the people are saying to the Government and the armies. The same note is sounded from the Pyrennees to the northern border—from the departments in the south, far from the horrors of invasion, to the occupied territory whose representatives are refugees, but meet in Paris or elsewhere to vote confidence and loyalty. In none of the reports is there the slightest hint of pacifism.

That these resolutions are based on something more substantial than blind confidence is indicated by significant straws of the military situation. For example, the furloughs suspended at the beginning of the present battle were restored today by General Petain. Soldiers once more may go home for brief periods of rest.

Premier Clemenceau himself calls attention to the significance of the restored furloughs. Upon his return from the front yesterday he said that he was well satisfied with what he had seen and heard.

LIBERTY SIX

THE LIBERTY secures ease of riding by its scientific balance. It gets excess power by not having to overcome dead weight.

Drive the car out into the country. Try the hills, or a pull through sand or mud. You will find that the car rides over them easily, lightly without strain—with power to spare.

It keeps owners friendly by its light service requirements, and by the difference in the way it rides and drives.

GERMANY AND HOLLAND.

Germany's renewed truculence toward Holland may have the object of forcing Holland into the war on her side, or may have the object of making war on Holland. The probabilities favor the second theory. Holland might be of use in furnishing Germany with several hundred thousand unwilling and disgusted troops who would have to be watched, but she would be of no use as territory from which to plan strategic operations. On the other hand, in Germany's present frame of mind there would be a clear gain to be derived from making war upon her.

At present Germany is engaged in gathering up armfuls of small nations wherever she can lay hold of them, and without much regard to whether she needs them or not. Those she does not need she can use for bargaining purposes later, when peace is made. The Military Party is in the saddle and every voice but theirs is silenced. From the Arctic Circle to Asia Minor, Germany is seizing territory with frantic haste, so that she may have the title of possession to show when the order "Cease firing!" is given. Before the Brest-Litovsk victory the civilian party had something to say, not very effectively, but still with the privilege of being listened to; now the Military Party is the whole nation. In such a situation, when Germany begins to finger her gun and look calculatingly at some small nation, her intentions can be appraised easily enough by simply asking, "Would that small nation be of any use to her?"

Apply that to Holland, and the answer is easy. The German Jingoes have always regarded Holland as destined some time to join the German Empire. TREITSCHKE, their teacher, never wearied of saying that Germany must have the mouth of the Rhine, which she cannot very well have without taking Holland. She evidently means to keep Belgium, whether in name or under some disguise, and Holland would be needed to round out the coast. When Germany goes out of her way to pick a quarrel with Holland, as she is doing now, it is better to pay no attention to her ostensible grounds and to ask instead what she has to make out of the quarrel. If Germany is going to restore the empire of CHARLES V., she certainly cannot leave Holland out of it, and the Dutch colonies would be much more than an equivalent for those she has lost.

OVER THE TOP WITH THE LOAN.

The German eighth loan has realized $3,500,000,000. The daily progress of our Third Liberty Loan still leaves something to be desired, but has encouraging features. The country districts are surpassing their previous records, and New York is running somewhat behind its rightful and needful average, although ahead of its previous record. A continuance in both respects would bring the country out with a fair average, but with little to spare. There is no room for easing up in either city or country if there is to be subscribed $5,000,000,000 by 20,000,000 Americans. Anything less than that is something less than is to be desired; something less is to be feared rather than expected if there is any slackness in either city or country.

The world has now rolled up debts on which the interest and sinking funds total yearly the pre-war debts. The burden on us is lightest of all, so light that it might almost be said that until now our war profits rival our war burdens. The war is still a little distant for the bulk of us, and not thoroughly appreciated by all of us. If it were, we should have done better with the loan, even though we may perhaps have done better than the official reports now say. To do well is not to do well enough, by those who aspire to be leaders in policy as they are in resources. It is perhaps endurable that New York should fall somewhat behind those at home whom it has led in other loans, but it is not endurable that we should fall behind either our allies or our enemies, and that is about the present situation. We have not contributed our share as partner in the great enterprise of rescuing the world from German exploitation, either in men or money. There would still be something coming from us after 20,000,000 contributed $5,000,000,000.

"Over the top" with the loan should be the word of the day, and particularly next Friday, the day set by the President when each citizen should discharge his "first duty," as Secretary McADOO puts it.

THE BRITISH BUDGET.

The British budget gives England the right of the line among the Allies for solidity and patience of mind under financial as well as military stress. England is neither the most populous nor richest among the enemies of Germany, but it surpasses all others in the burdens which it assumes and the cheerfulness with which they are carried. The approval of the new taxes is as significant as the substance of the budget itself. It means nothing less than that the British people are behind the Government until the right shall conquer. The points most interesting to us are the comparison with Germany, and the proposal to shift to us the financing of the Allies whom England has carried thus far. Germany is borrowing its interest in part, and has levied taxes of £365,000,000 against £1,044,000,000 by England. The result is that Germany has a deficit of £385,000,000.

But German accounts do not show what the British accounts do. England has maintained its exports and imports and even has increased them. Germany has lost its foreign trade, and with it its profits and the par of the mark. Whenever peace shall come, England can trade on equality with the world, but Germany must pay for the ease it has enjoyed during war. Germany's leaders deceive the Germans by a false financial balance through credit juggling which will become an unendurable economic deficit whenever trade conditions become normal. No one will take German marks, and Germany is without the goods with which to balance its trade with the world. Among themselves Germans are solvent on the accounts, but their capital is pledged to the banks, which are overloaded with illiquid assets at exaggerated prices. When the prices fall, the situation will disclose itself to banks and customers alike. The deficiency in marks is nothing compared with the deficiency of assets against which inflated credits have been negotiated. Already one-third of private German wealth has been transferred to the Government and destroyed. The process may be continued until German capital is gone, but at some step in the process the Kaiser's categorical imperative to conquer will come to material and psychological ends together. The will to conquer cannot survive without food and clothes.

The extent to which England declines to deceive itself appears again in the putting into a suspense account of £1,124,000,000 of advances to allies and the colonies. Mr. BONAR LAW proposes to transfer to us the making of loans to those of our allies who have hitherto looked to England for funds, without, however, increasing the demands upon us. He frankly proposes to "lean on the United States," and he should be welcome. Our advances to the Allies are less than our war profits, and less than the bank credits which could be carried by the gold which England has sent us. We are beholden to England for the use of its fleet for four years. We are beholden to France for the bravery of its army. To give credit for purchases in this market is a duty to the common cause. For itself the country with the largest budget and heaviest taxes asks nothing. It is self-sufficient and self-sustaining. When we shall have fought as long and assumed as great burdens, we shall have a right to expect approval such as we now should give to our chief ally.

A SUPERINTENDENT WITHOUT PROPER POWERS.

Next Monday the Board of Education will essay once more to elect a Superintendent of Schools. Only four votes are needed, but no candidate has them. The canvassing goes on busily. There are two, perhaps more, local aspirants, such as Mayor HYLAN favors. He can't abide outlanders, especially if they are also guilty of being "experts." Yet President SOMERS tells us that the Los Angeles Superintendent of Schools, Mr. ALBERT SHIELS, has been discussed.

Mr. SHIELS was brought up in our New York public schools and was graduated at the City College, used to be a teacher, and became District Superintendent under Dr. MAXWELL. So the curse of nonresidence, of outlanderism, may not taint him. On the other hand, we have the impression that Mr. SHIELS was an able administrator, a man of great tact in the management of his own difficult, touchy, and "temperamental" company of pedagogues; and there is no sort of doubt that he is an "expert" who has won golden opinions at Los Angeles, and is therefore taboo from the Hylanesian standpoint.

All things considered, some competent outsider would be less likely than an indigenous candidate to provoke jealousies here. It is worth while to say, however, that the best thing the best New York Superintendent of Schools can do is to secure a change in the school law so that he may have the essential powers which he now lacks and which are possessed by the Superintendents of Schools in other cities of this State, in every other great city of the United States. Under the existing law, the Superintendent of Schools of this city is largely a shadow, a name. The Board of Superintendents, swayed by political and other influences, has the authority that should be his. He cannot transfer Principals. He cannot name the directors of special branches. He cannot choose the District Superintendents. So fettered, the ablest Superintendent cannot accomplish much, but must fret and fight continually.

FROM NORTH TO EAST.

More deep-water piers for ocean-going ships—that is a cardinal need of this port at this time. Deep-water-pier space, and plenty of it, is essential to the best working of the Government overseas fleet. That ocean service is vital to the war, to our troops, to the Allies. The Federal Government, and the Federal Government alone, can cause the most effective use of the deep-water piers, can break by assertions of its power to meet national needs the long-term leases by which those piers are covered, can transfer shallow craft from pier facilities that they don't need.

The Sound steamers occupy some of the best North River piers. Their removal to not less convenient and satisfactory berths on the East River has been proposed again and again. Dock Commissioner after Dock Commissioner has suggested that new home for the Sound boats as a matter of port economy, of the best use of the deep-water piers, of cheaper operation for the Sound lines themselves, and of greater convenience for their public. Now an imperious necessity may turn into a fact the so long discussed, so long delayed salutary change.

These New England carriers draw some fifteen feet of water. They need not occupy deep-water wharves. There are fine piers with plenty of room for them in the East River. From Grand to East Thirtieth Street, along that river sprawls Shell Reef, shutting out from the piers in that stretch of water boats drawing over fifteen feet. That region is just the place for the Sound boats. From East Eighteenth to East Twenty-third Street is ample pier accommodation. The Twenty-third Street crosstown line by itself and by its connection with the subways, the Hudson Tubes, the elevated railways, the Grand Central and Pennsylvania Stations, and the hotel district makes this site accessible and convenient. To the Williamsburgers and Greenpointers, also, the new situation of the Sound boat piers, near the ferries, will be an obvious gain of time. Moreover, the passengers will be spared the extra superfluous half hour or more the boats require to thread and wind their way, at a time of congested river traffic, around the Battery and up to East Twenty-third Street. The removal will relieve the Hudson River waterfront and the streets leading to it of the intolerable mob of trucks now necessary, for the substitution of deep-water steamers will mean lighterage for the greater part of the freight.

The Sound steamship people can't be deeply opposed to the change, for it would mean money in their pockets on account of the shorter trips and lessened operating expenses. As for the city, it will get more revenue. Dock Commissioner HULBERT has submitted the plan of removal to the United Shipping Board, whose Chairman is consulting the Federal magnates at Washington. The Federal Government has driven deep-water vessels out of the Bush Terminal. It is the Federal Government's duty to find berths for them. It may be added, as of some moment in the present state of public feeling, that travelers on the Sound steamers going out or coming in over their present routes are able to see and take photographs of the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

THE RAID ON U-BOAT BASES.

British airmen have often bombarded the German submarine bases at Ostend and Zeebrugge, but until yesterday no attempt was made on a large scale to block the channels that course through the shallow waters off the coast. With a covering force of destroyers and similar craft, five old cruisers filled with concrete were navigated as far in as they could be taken and then blown up. The British charts must show where these hulks would do the most good as obstructions to submarines, but as such dangerous work must be done quickly, it remains to be seen whether the adventure has paid.

The story of it told by Sir ERIC GEDDES in the House of Commons has the genuine thrill. There have been few more daring enterprises in the war, if any has been reported. At Zeebrugge two destroyers, the Vindictive and Daffodil, steamed in close to the mole, and storming parties inflicted "great damage." At the same time two obsolete cruisers, loaded with concrete, entered the harbor and were sunk in such a way as to block the narrow channel. A third old cruiser grounded outside. It was the kind of dashing enterprise that suits the temper of British sailors. They were all volunteers. The casualties were not light; one destroyer and two power boats were sunk by the enemy and two launches are "missing," all of which signifies that the raiding flotilla lost a considerable number of officers and men. But an enemy destroyer was torpedoed.

The results at Ostend are not yet fully known. Two old ships were sent at the mouth of the port, but in the fog they seemed to be a little off their course.

The naval experts say that a "grand offensive" against these hornets' nests at Zeebrugge and Ostend which amateur critics have called for is not practicable, because the coast waters are shallow for a considerable distance from land, and the guns in the fortifications would outrange those on the light-draught ships that could be employed. It should be assumed that a navy which bombarded the works at the entrance to the Dardanelles would not have hesitated to attack the land defenses at Ostend and Zeebrugge if there had been a fighting chance to destroy those submarine bases. The channels are mined by the Germans, who, indeed, have not neglected to set traps for the enemy in Belgian waters up and down the coast.

It is obvious that the raid of British naval forces to "bottle up" the enemy submarines was a risky and dubious undertaking. But, whatever the measure of success was, it should be hailed as a welcome new departure to inaugurate a more aggressive naval policy.

MR. STONE'S 25 YEARS.

The invaluable service rendered to The Associated Press by Mr. MELVILLE E. STONE in the twenty-five years during which he has been its General Manager was recognized by the members of the Association yesterday when they profited by the occasion of their annual meeting in this city to express to Mr. STONE, in spoken words and by more substantial testimonials, their high appreciation of his labors. It would not be easy to imagine a post more difficult to fill than that of General Manager of The Associated Press, nor would it be easy to conceive how any one could fill it with greater satisfaction to the very numerous and diverse interests concerned in the wise administration of the office. There are a thousand members of The Associated Press, and they differ not only as one star differs from another in glory, but quite in the way of mortal men. Yet Mr. STONE has achieved the well-nigh impossible in meeting the varied requirements of the membership so completely, efficiently, and successfully that all joined with sincere pleasure and admiration in the testimonial to him yesterday.

Mr. STONE long ago demonstrated that he was the right man for the place, that he was, in fact, the one man who could best fill it. To organize such a wonderful news service as The Associated Press maintains was an extraordinary task. He was called upon to choose men to represent The Associated Press at chief news points all over the world, and he chose them with great wisdom and understanding, insomuch that these places of responsibility have been conspicuously well filled. And he has with tireless industry attended to the infinite details of Associated Press direction and management. The heart of every member echoed the words addressed to him at the meeting yesterday when it was declared that "the Association is "stamped all over with Mr. STONE'S "handiwork, his thought, his ideals, "his abilities, and his sense of public "service. It is his monument, and "may it ever endure on the foundation "that he builded so masterly and with "so much sagacity and self-sacrifice." The Associated Press has been his life, his thought, its service his whole duty.

The wonderful development of the newspaper calling in the United States has made The Associated Press possible. It could exist nowhere else. It is recognized as a public institution, almost as though it were a part of the Government itself. It could have won this high standing, the full confidence of the public, only by the absolute integrity of its management. There could be no higher example of unfailing adherence to the strict rule of impartiality. The Associated Press is a recorder of events, of the thoughts and utterances of men, of the relations of men to each other, either as individuals or massed as nations. It is passionless, it knows no art or persuasion, and while it is one of the world's greatest forces for forming opinion, it expresses no opinion of its own. The newspapers that have cooperated to form and maintain The Associated Press hold every variety of opinion upon political and social questions, and here again we see the best possible evidence of its entire impartiality, for they are all satisfied with its service, and only upon the rarest occasions, and then without good reason, has any one of them felt or said that it showed undue leaning toward any party or interest. The character and the standing of The Associated Press are, indeed, the best evidence of the character of the American press itself, of its independence and of its integrity.

To have served for twenty-five years an organization by its very nature so difficult to please and satisfy, to have built it up, strengthened it, as Mr. STONE has done, to have made it always better and more efficient, and withal to have won and kept and deserved the confidence and good opinion of all those in whose interest he has labored, this assuredly is a personal triumph that crowns a successful life.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Their Model Found in Prussia.

Possibly the admitted—or perhaps it is safer to say the asserted—defects and inefficiencies of our public schools are due to a reason that is presented in an article contributed to The New Republic by CHARLES H. JUDD, Director of the School of Education in the University of Chicago. He says that when, in the years from 1830 onward for two or three decades, men like HORACE MANN, CHARLES BROOKS, CALVIN E. STOWE, and JOHN D. PIERCE realized the inadequacy of the district schools then in existence to meet American demands for education, they naturally turned for a model to the one European country, Prussia, which then had a carefully organized system of public instruction.

What they did not sufficiently realize, according to Dr. JUDD, was that the Prussian system had two objects and two kinds of schools. The Volksschule was for the training of the lower classes to exactly the extent deemed necessary to make their members useful to the upper classes, and no less care was taken not to teach the pupils in it anything that would make them discontented with their humble lot—or help them to get out of it—than to give them what was needed to render them good farm and factory workers.

The Gymnasium was then, as it is now, a wholly different institution, unconnected in any way with the other. It took the children at an age as early as did the Volksschule, prepared them, as the Volksschule never did, for the university, and arranged its curriculum so as to give the training needed by a separate and distinct ruling minority. Deeply interested in the "common people," it was natural enough that our early educators made the mistake they did of establishing schools that did not lead to higher education—that did too much in some directions and too little in others to favor the attainment of the almost universal American ambition to rise in social and intellectual status.

Some plausibility to this criticism of our public schools is given by the general recognition here that preparation for college is better done in special schools, the successors of our once numerous "academies," than in ordinary high schools, where the tendency is merely to continue public school methods and limitations.

Pleasing, but Not Credible.

It is difficult—practically impossible, indeed—to avoid the impression that there is something worse than inaccuracy in the announcement by one of the correspondents at the front in France that General LUDENDORFF has forbidden the making of any more massed attacks by the German soldiers.

The result of such attacks has been frightful slaughter, according to many entirely plausible reports, and it may well be that the German commanders, seeing the approach of an end to their resources in men, have determined to adopt other measures than the one upon which they have depended so long for advances—sometimes not in vain. What is hardly believable, however, is that General LUDENDORFF would make announcement of the change to any except a few high officers, and quite unbelievable that he would accompany the news, even to those few, with a confession that the massed attack "only leads to unnecessary losses," and that "the effective use of weapons, not of numbers, gives the decision."

Admissions so significant would arouse, even in docile Germany, vehement demands to know why the plan thus condemned was not abandoned long since, or why, for that matter, it was ever adopted.

And we have been told a thousand times, by men who ought to know, that the German soldiers would charge over open ground only when they advanced shoulder to shoulder. If that is true, the "decisions" to which General LUDENDORFF is said to have alluded can be attained in no other way.

No line has yet been really and permanently broken by artillery bombardment, whatever its severity.

DENIES MOVE TO ANNUL.

No Negotiations to Change Reichstag Resolution, Says Berlin.

AMSTERDAM, April 23.—Denial that negotiations are proceeding between the Government and the Reichstag, looking to the repudiation of the July peace resolution, is made by the semi-official Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung of Berlin.

When the Reichstag assembled yesterday, the Vice President, Dr. Hermann Paasche, made an address, Berlin dispatches report, in which he said:

"The success of the eighth war loan undoubtedly will help to show our opponents, as well as neutrals, to what extent a web of deceit has been woven around Germany, and also to reveal to them the fact that Germany's internal strength remains unbroken. We hope that this victory in the financial field will contribute substantially to the attainment of our goal as quicky as possibe."

LA GUARDIA PRODS AMERICA.

Makes Sarcastic Comment on Delays in Aircraft Building.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, April 23.—When Congressman La Guardia was leaving the Ministry of Aeronautics, carrying a brief case full of papers, and in company with Senator Marconi, he was handed a copy of THE NEW YORK TIMES of March 18, which had just arrived, and which contained an article entitled: "Seek to Remedy Aircraft Delay." He become absorbed in the article and said to Marconi:

"Go ahead Senator. See you later. I want to read this."

The Congressman read every word from beginning to end, and then handed back the paper, saying: "Very interesting."

Asked whether he had any comment to make, he shook his head and said: "Not yet."

"By the way," he asked, "what date is that paper?"

"March 18," he was told.

"Oh," said the Congressman. "I thought it was November."

Lichnowsky for German Readers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

How many German papers in the United States will print the Lichnowsky memorandum? The most important German-American papers loudly protest that they need the German language to teach their fellow-Germans and German-Americans the issues of the war. Here is the chance to see whether they really mean it.

PUBLISHERS HONOR MELVILLE E. STONE

Twenty-five Years as Head of The Associated Press Commemorated at Luncheon.

$25,000 LIBERTY BONDS GIFT

Speakers Pay Tribute to His Services to Journalism and to the United States.

The twenty-five years of Melville E. Stone's service as General Manager of The Associated Press were commemorated yesterday in a luncheon of members in connection with the annual meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria, in which tributes to Mr. Stone's services to journalism and the nation were given by Frank B. Noyes of The Washington Star, President of The Associated Press; Victor F. Lawson of The Chicago Daily News, Adolph S. Ochs of THE NEW YORK TIMES, and General George H. Taylor of The Boston Globe, members of the Board of Directors, and C. M. Houssaye, New York representative of The Agence Havas. A volume entitled "M. E. S.: His Book" had been prepared for the occasion, and a copy of the limited edition privately printed by Harper & Brothers was given to each member of the association. Mr. Stone's own copy was specially bound and inscribed, and contained twenty-five $1,000 Liberty bonds, one for each year of service.

The contents of the book included a biographical sketch of Mr. Stone by John Palmer Gavit, tributes by Victor F. Lawson, Frank B. Noyes, Frederic B. Jennings, Judge Peter S. Grosscup, and Frederick W. Lehmann, and articles and addresses by Mr. Stone.

Loyal Support to the President.

The addresses in commemoration were begun by Mr. Noyes, who proposed the health of the President in the following address:

"We meet today at a time when the fate of civilization, as we understand civilization, is trembling in the balance. The vital question as to whether the Allies can hold the battleline until the man power of the United States can be thrown decisively into the combat is now being determined. In this world crisis it is but natural that the strain of anxiety should be shown in impatience over the delay in bringing our great man power into the conflict—whether such delay be avoidable or inevitable in the surrounding conditions.

"In our anxiety, our impatience, our eagerness to be of help to our suffering friends let us also be equally solicitous that we aid those to whom is intrusted the preparation for the great part that this nation must take in the struggle for world freedom, for democracy, and not hamper or hinder them in their allotted work by destructive or ill-informed criticism. Let each of us ask of himself this question: 'Am I, myself, doing all that I can to bring victory to my country?'

"It is well to remember in this connection that it is to no one of us that the nation has committed the command of its army and its navy, and that no dissatisfaction on the part of any or all of us can transfer that command to other hands.

"Our part is to loyally help the Commander in Chief in whatsoever degree is possible to each of us individually to the full accomplishment of the lofty aims he has so greatly voiced for us. If honest, constructive criticism will help to this end, utter it. If in the slightest degree you can expedite our preparations for war, do it. But let us indulge in no futile rages against inexorable conditions, no recrimination that has a partisan birth. Let us remember that in the vast number of appointments made mistakes are inevitable. Duties have been assigned to incompetent hands in some cases, and, indeed, our experience has been that duties vital to us have been intrusted to hands governed by a stupid malevolence that in other times would meet with a swift reckoning.

"This, however, is not a time for controversy. Today every true American lays aside his partisan bias, his personal wrong, and thinks and prays only for American success, in which is bound up the success of our heroic, bleeding allies.

"The manner in which American strength is to be used to bring American and allied victory is placed by the Constitution in the hands of the President of the United States, the Commander in Chief, and our one duty is to aid him in every way in our power to win that victory for civilization which we demand and which we shall achieve fighting side by side with the most gallan allies that men ever had.

"In this struggle we are under the leadership of a really great man, and greatly will we support him. I give you the health of the President of the United States."

Birth of The Associated Press.

After the toast had been drunk in temperance fluids Mr. Noyes continued: "It is little more than twenty-five years since the press of this country was in a fair way to be brought under the control of three men. Two of these were not newspaper men, and their enterprise was one conducted for pecuniary profit. In this crisis a group of Western newspaper men decided to get together and establish their own news-gathering agency, and they banded under the leadership of Victor F. Lawson, who turned to his old friend and partner, Melville E. Stone. I call upon Mr. Lawson, who may be called the father of The Associated Press."

Mr. Lawson said that he could claim the honor of being the first of the more than a thousand members of The Associated Press to discover Mr. Stone. "It was a happy achievement," he continued, "for it was the beginning of the longest intimate friendship of my life. Believe me, friends, Melville Stone wears well."

Mr. Ochs dwelt in part upon Mr. Stone's devotion to The Associated Press and his self-sacrifice in refusing tempting offers to take other positions. "I emphasize the much-abused word 'self-sacrifice,' for in the case of Melville E. Stone and his relation to The Associated Press it is applicable in its true significance," he said. "He might have been a captain of industry, a banker of great repute, an important member of a President's Cabinet or an Ambassador Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at one of the chief Courts in Europe, and who knows but that had he been in the latter this world calamity might have been averted.

"I am not indulging in a flight of imagination. I also know that a great publisher offered him a substantial fortune to undertake the management of his affairs, and this was one of many similar seductive offers. But they offered Melville E. Stone no temptation. He was wedded to his idol—The Associated Press—for he worships it, dreams of it, and it occupies all his thoughts during his waking hours. He cherishes it, he nourishes it, he suffers for it, and truly spiritualizes it. His work for The Associated Press is to him congenial employment, and in it he realizes every good man's highest ambition—public service. He gives the cause the best that is in him, in fact, gives himself wholly. His personality inspires the whole organization from top to bottom."

Mr. Stone's Marvelous Record.

General Taylor referred to the occasion as "a rehearsal of Mr. Stone's obsequies." "I am very glad that he is here to hear them," he added, "for it gives him an opportunity to add, subtract, or change anything he doesn't like. And perhaps he is like some of the rest of us, who would rather have an ounce of taffy while we are alive than a ton of epitaphy after we are dead. Mr. Stone has made a most mervelous record. He has shown efficiency, integrity, enterprise, industry, and every quality which makes for success. He has shown himself the greatest manager of a news-gathering association this country has seen or may ever see, and when you say that you say the best in the world.

Mr. Noyes then presented Mr. Stone's own souvenir volume and his health was drunk by the entire gathering. Mr. Stone, in responding to the toast, addressed the audience as "my masters of The Associated Press."

"I thank you," he said. "I should be untrue to myself if these were not the first words that I uttered. No one could be the recipient of such a tribute without a deep sense of pride. There is no one who is more desirous than myself of enjoying your good opinion, but also there is no one more doubtful if he has the right.

"Some twenty-five years ago Whitelaw Reid said to me that he thought it was utterly impossible to devise a news-gathering organization that would survive more than one generation. I told him that I thought it was true in the forms of organization that had been known up to that time, but that a co-operative organization, not organized for money-making, and not under the control of one, two, or three men might endure.

"We have established this co-operation. It is a co-operative organization in the best sense, not only co-operation in gathering of news, but in the co-operation of the finest Board of Directors that any man ever had to hold up his hands. You could put a bad man in that board and he would be a good man inside of six months.

Tribute to Coworkers.

"There has been co-operation among the membership such as no man in this room can appreciate so well as I; and the co-operation of as gallant a body of employes as any one has ever had. The badge of The Associated Press is and is known to be the badge of a gentleman, and an honest man." He spoke feelingly of the work done by the corps of war correspondents, and also of the men in the editorial and other departments in the central offices.

"The Associated Press," he continued, "was founded on the theory that its integrity could only be maintained by criticism. The purity of the stream can be maintained only by aerating the water. When I began as General Manager of the organization I said to Mr. Lawson, 'If any man in The Associated Press believes that the finances are badly managed, put him on the Auditing Committee.' Neither I nor any other employe ever indicated a desire for the election or the defeat of any Director.

"I believe in the salutary effect of criticism, even carping, unreasonable criticism. I believe that some criticisms of The Associated Press have been justified, for human nature is fallible. Other criticism rises from ignorance of the precise situation, and is easily taken care of by an explanation. A very small and negligible part of the criticism is malign, and I always thought that that would take care of itself.

"I have had a delightful time. I have enjoyed my business. I have had some share in a work that I believe has a great deal of public value. In a self-governing people an honest news service is of the highest value. Whatever I have done to contribute to that work I gladly stand by.

"Now before I go I want to ask you to drink with me to our allies—not only our allies in war, but in the work of The Associated Press—the agencies throughout the world whose work has been so helpful to us, the Agence Havas and Reuter's Bureau."

Admiration of a Frenchman.

C. M. Houssaye of the Agence Havas responded to this.

"What I say," he said, "is a personal tribute from me, a Frenchman, to Melville E. Stone, not only as the general manager of a foreign press association, who has directed The Associated Press for twenty-five years in the way of progress, but to my friend; even more to a man who has seen since the first day of the war who was the brutal aggressor—a man who has given his whole heart to France and whose wishes have always been for the success of the French armies.

"I am a French soldier who has given to Mr. Stone my admiration and gratitude, and to you also, who have pledged yourselves to the service of the great cause of humanity. You have made clear to the whole people of America both the great conflict that is raging and the enormity of the crime of those who began it. In the words spoken by M. Viviani in August, 1914, you have shown France as she was, without reproach and hence without fear; and now you show France as she is, glorious and heroic, her blood streaming from her wounds, but stronger and more resolute than ever. What a wonderful weapon the power of the press is, when it is used wisely and nobly as you have done and are still doing. I drink to America and France, the allied armies, and the victorious liberation of the world."

The resolutions of the Board of Directors of The Associated Press, which appear in the introductory note to the souvenir book, are as follows:

> Whereas, Melville E. Stone, on March 3, 1918, completed a period of twenty-five years as general manager of The Associated Press; first leading with unflagging courage and determination in the battle which freed the telegraphic news service of the nation from control and exploitation by selfish private interests, and with wise enthusiasm and clear vision laboring for the firm establishment of the co-operative principle in ownership and management; then with extraordinary resourcefulness and constructive genius planning and directing the development of a worldwide system of newsgathering and distribution, always with unswerving devotion to the highest ideals of the newspaper profession and the best standards of American citizenship.
>
> Resolved, That a suitable volume be compiled to set forth in permanent form the record of the service of Melville E. Stone, his life and activities as a loyal and public-spirited American citizen; his contributions by voice and pen to the advancement of the cause of liberty and of freedom of speech and of the press as furthered by a clean, responsible, efficient and courageous American journalism; and more particularly his work for and in The Associated Press, to whose character, growth, and achievements he has contributed so much of fidelity, industry, and inspiration.
> Resolved, That upon the occasion of the annual meeting of The Associated Press in April, 1918, a copy of this volume be delivered to each member of the association, and that a special copy, suitably bound and inscribed, be presented to Mr. Stone with due expression of the admiration, gratitude, and affection of his colleagues.

WAR DEMANDED ON TURKS AND BULGARS

Brandegee Calls for Action by Senate Committee and Attacks President Wilson.

ACCEPTS A SUBSTITUTE

That, if Adopted, Will Ask President Why War with Turkey and Bulgaria Should Not Be Declared.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Failure of Congress to name Bulgaria and Turkey among the recognized enemies of the United States was criticised by Senator Brandegee of Connecticut today in the Senate. He found fault with President Wilson for not taking Congress into his confidence as to war affairs, saying that the Executive had woven a "cocoon of mystery" about himself.

Senator Brandegee urged the Senate to adopt a resolution he offered last Monday calling upon the Foreign Relations Committee to "give early consideration" to a resolution put in on April 2 last, in which a state of war was declared to exist with Turkey and Bulgaria. The Foreign Relations Committee has never acted on the resolution. The Connecticut Senator said he thought it was time something was done about it.

Mr. Brandegee said Bulgarian troops were on the western front, fighting French, British, and American troops.

"The Bulgarian Minister sits here in Washington, persona grata to the State Department," he went on. "The other day I received a newspaper article from him—a gross breach of diplomatic etiquette, I thought—with his visiting card pinned on it, the article telling how Czar Ferdinand saw no reason to have any unfriendly feeling toward America. Yet the Czar's troops are fighting our boys.

"And here is Turkey smothering our men and smothering Armenians by the millions, devastating the Orient. Bulgaria and Turkey, the right and left hand of the German peace against which we are waging war, are persona grata to our State Department, and we are conducting friendly negotiations with them. It is not only anomalous, but outrageous."

Senator Pomerene of Ohio interrupted to say that a Bulgarian missionary had called on him with the assurance that no Bulgarians were on the western front and that they refused to fight against Americans.

"This is all camoflage," retorted Senator Brandegee. "We may as well look right through this thing down to the bottom of it. Bulgaria cannot be friendly to the United States and to Germany at the same time. That is all there is to it. They are absolutely under the cloven hoof of Germany. They are dominated. Their life or death depends upon the favor with which the Kaiser looks upon Czar Ferdinand, and it is a travesty and a tragedy for us to be declaring war against one of several allied powers who are waging war against us and maintaining friendly relations with the others.

"I am not of an unduly optimistic nature, but I have been hoping that the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, which represents half the treaty-making power of this country and which the great American public assumes has some knowledge of foreign relations and what is going on, might get some information about what is going on abroad. I see that the Foreign Relations Committee knows no more about what is going on abroad than the Committee on Military Affairs or the Committee of Agriculture.

"The President is his own Foreign Relations Committee and his own Secretary of State, and he is conducting this war in behalf of 100,000,000 people, weaving himself into a cocoon of mystery, secret, and silent on the top floor of the White House, and nobody but Colonel House tiptoes up and down stairs, and then silently folds his tent and steals his way back to New York. The Senate of the United States is in as dense ignorance about our foreign relations as the Common Council of Keokuk.

"It is not right. Talk about picking a Common Council, talk about demanding legislative powers to co-ordinate the departments of this Government! The trouble is the President will not coordinate with anybody but himself. The trouble is not with Congress. My God, we have gone leaps and bounds further than any Congress ever dreamed of going to furnish equipment for this Administration to win this war, which we declared a year ago and which the President has never spoken of since without holding out in his left hand a bid for some kind of a peace."

Senator Knox of Pennsylvania offered as a substitute for Senator Brandegee's resolution a resolution asking that the President be requested, "if not incompatible with the public interest, to inform the Senate if there now exists any reason why the United States should not declare a state of war to exist between the United States and Turkey and Bulgaria."

Senator Brandegee accepted the substitute, and it will be voted on tomorrow.

FRENCH MEAT PRICES SOAR.

Italian and Spanish Imports to Relieve Shortage of Wine.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 23.—The constant increase in meat prices is exciting the keen attention of the Government. The price of an ordinary cut of beef may be recorded now as not less than 50 cents a French pound, seventeen and a half ounces, and may go higher. The commodity is subject to constant fluctuations, generally upward. Beef recently made a sudden jump of 20 cents a pound in a single day. A great part of this is due to the speculation of dealers which it seems impossible to control.

Meat can now be bought every day of the week except Mondays, and so far as consumption is concened there is no restriction except through price. The Government has just appointed a centralized body to control a distribution test throughout the country, and a proposal is now being discussed to institute throughout France one entire meatless meal in every four.

The proposal has excited the strong opposition of the Paris butchers, who argue that this plan to economize the national meat supply will practically ruin their trade. They suggest as an alternative the institution of the card system already in vogue for bread, sugar and coal. Wine is another necessary in which there is a great shortage. The cheapest wine now obtainable costs 27 cents a liter bottle, whereas before the war it was only 7 cents. The rise is almost entirely due to the shortage of supply.

Measures have been already taken to relieve the situation by the admission of a fixed quantity of Italian wine, duty free. It is announced today that an agreement has been concluded between France and Spain, under which 150,000 hectolitres of Spanish wines, or rather more than 3,000,000 gallons, will be allowed to come into France on the same terms as the native product. This, it is expected, will greatly improve the existing conditions.

LINKS CABINET WITH SOCIALISM

Senator Sherman Charges That Baker, Burleson, and W. B. Wilson Hold That View.

ATTACKS ALL PERSONALLY

ASSAILS OVERMAN BILL

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Debate in the Senate today over the Overman bill to give the President authority to consolidate administrative war activities was characterized by an attack on Secretary Baker, Postmaster General Burleson, Secretary Wilson, and other Cabinet officers by Senator Sherman, Republican, of Illinois, who linked them together as "Socialists and economic freaks."

Urging that no more power be bestowed upon the President, the Illinois Senator declared that Mr. Wilson had surrounded himself with "half-pacifists, firebrands, and fiends of sedition." He assailed George Creel, head of the Committee on Public Information, as having "abused the Constitution and the fathers who wrote it."

Senator Sherman denounced Secretary Baker as a "half-pacifist, half-Socialist," and alluded to the President's advisers as a "mysterious bunch of wizards."

Senator Sherman launched his attack on the Administration with a reference to the Bolshevist uprising in Russia.

"The bourgeois, which is the object of Trotzky's contempt, is the only foundation upon which this Republic can endure," said Senator Sherman. "The only Government Mr. Trotzy and his associates are satisfied with is the 'hobo Government.' The Soviet is composed of the Reds, the anarchists, the disturbers of Russia, and it was to them that the President directed his solicitous cablegram of March 11, 1918, and their reply to him shows that the President has in his hand a blazing brand—that he is playing with fire and does not know it.

"In his communication to the Russion Soviet the President has made an unwise use of the power vested in him. It is an encouragement and it is taken as an encouragement by the Socialist Government, founded and administered in repudiation, in confiscation, in wholesale murder, by Trotzky and his associates. Besides Trotzky and Lenine, the President has unfortunately associated himself with some other company to describe which is a disagreeable task to me, but I shall do it, and I might as well mention names.

"It is a bunch of economic fakers, howling dervishes, firebrands, and pestilent fiends of sedition that he has around him.

Denounces Baker.

"The Secretary of War is a half socialist. He is a municipal socialist, a brand of socialist with which I might not find any criticism, but he is also a half pacifist. He was before the Committee on Military Affairs, and when reminded of the delays of airplane construction in the preparation of our military forces, in guns, heavy ordnance, machine guns, of the quarrel between the Lewis and the Browning guns, he dismissed it with an airy wave of his hand, saying, 'There are 3,000 miles between us and the war.'

"Then there is the Secretary of Labor, W. B. Wilson, another member of the Cabinet. He made his début in public notice by being in jail in Cumberland, Md., for violating the laws of the country. He is to be the gentleman in charge of the expenditure of $60,000,000 for housing and humanitarian purposes, with power even to condemn private residences. He could turn any member of the Senate out of his home by merely applying to a District Judge of the United States Court and obtaining the approval of the Judge before filing a petition for condemnation or issuing any order by which the property is to be taken, and you and your family put upon the curbstone.

"W. B. Wilson himself is a State Socialist. In many addresses he has shown himself as unadulterated a Socialist in all of our domestic affairs as can be found in the purely Socialist organizations in the United States."

"Mr. Burleson, the Postmaster General, in the same sense, is also a State Socialist. Mr. Burleson has frequently, by messages, reports and otherwise, wherever he has had occasion to express himself, favored the taking of telegraphs and telephones and adding them to the Post Office Department. He, in substance, says that it is an anamoly for the communication of intelligence to be in private hands. There is an almost laughable statement in his report of 1917, in view of all that preceded it, about Government ownership of telegraph and telephones. In it Mr. Burleson exhibits a strange lapse of memory or understanding. He recommends in that report that all of the rural free delivery of the United States be taken out of the Government's hands and farmed out to private contractors under various routes and he sustains it by the argument that the contractors can do the work cheaper than the rural carriers are now doing it for the Government.

"I agree with him as to the principle of it, but it is contradictory to all of his arguments and to every utterance on the question he has made since I have known him in public office. I do not think he is a fit person to decide it. He is carrying about today in his private fortune the proceeds of the labor of Texas convicts in connection with cotton farming on his land in that State. An investigation by the Texas Legislature showed that his farm was let out, run by convict labor, and that he received a share of the proceeds of the farm. Now he is the last person in the world to be talking about Government ownership and issuing orders and edicts from his department to the postal employes of this country, denying them in substance the right to organize themselves to respectfully present their claims to Congress or the department. Mr. Burleson represents in concrete form labor that has no right to speak.

"This is another one of the President's advisers with whom he will consult on this bill after the power is delegated to him to consolidate the departments."

Post as Defender of I. W. W.

Senator Sherman characterized Louis F. Post, Assistant Secretary of Labor, as a single-taxer of long standing.

"He is a Socialist," exclaimed the Senator. "He boasts of it in private conversation and even in public address, and he believes in the assumption by the Government or the State of all the essentially private enterprises of the country. He thinks just as Mr. Trotzky thinks about the bourgeois of his country. He wishes the middle class exterminated. It would serve his purpose if all the millionaires were destroyed and nothing but the vagrant and the proletariat remain. The newspaper, The Public, founded by him, openly defends the I. W. W., saying they are guilty of nothing—that they merely constitute the audible protest against existing conditions.

"Still another trusted friend and adviser of the Administration is Frederic C. Howe, Commissioner of Immigration at $8,000 a year at Ellis Island. I once heard a long-haired, ill-clad, oppressed and unbathed victim of society, speaking in a back hall in Chicago, say that Mr. Howe's book, Socialized Germany, was the greatest thing since Carl Marx, and that even August Bebel used it.

"John H. Walker, a member of the President's Mediation Commission, is a Socialist of the most radical type, a leader of the Socialist Party who has done more to reduce to socialism the Mine Workers Union of 100,000 workers in Illinois than any other single agency. He does not preach direct action in Washington, but he practices it at home."

In reply to an inquiry by Senator Watson of Indiana, Senator Sherman said that A. C. Townley, President of the Non-Partisan League, under indictment for opposing the operation of the Draft act, had been "taken up" by the Administration to go on a speaking tour.

"This man was even received at the White House after George Creel, Chairman of the Committee on Public Information, had taken him over as a speaker," said Senator Sherman. "Mr. Townley informed the authorities he was strictly loyal. He was trying to rescue the people from the monopolies of the Northwest. He masquerades as the representative of the farmers, but in reality Mr. Townley represents pro-German influence, and he has German money somewhere. He has been a great success as a bankrupt. He got $80,000 worth of debts on $500 worth of liabilities. His only asset has been language."

Hits at Creel and Walsh.

Launching into an attack on Mr. Creel, Senator Sherman proceeded:

"Creel reminds me of a letter Lincoln once wrote about a horse prior to a sale, the horse being described as being 'warranted sound in skin and skeleton and free from faults and faculties.' He is a Socialist of the most pronounced type and has abused the Government, he has abused the Constitution, and the fathers who wrote it, and the courts which expounded it and the high tribunal of this country, the Supreme Court, he has denounced as conspirators aiming to write a Constitution for the rich.

Bill Defended by Democrats.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Following Senator Sherman's attack on the Overman bill, Senators Ransdell of Louisiana and McKellar of Tennessee, Democrats, spoke for it, urging that many departments were working at cross-purposes under a peace-time system and that "red tape" must be eliminated if maximum results were to be obtained. Since the President will be held responsible for success of the nation's war effort, said Senator Ransdell, he should have the authority he thinks necessary.

In an effort to hasten action after 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, each Senator will be limited by agreement to thirty minutes discussion of the bill itself and to twenty minutes on each amendment offered.

W. B. WILSON ARRESTED TWICE

Secretary of Labor Was Involved in Maryland Strike in 1894.

Special to The New York Times.

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 23.—William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor, who was attacked by Senator Sherman in a speech today, spent a night in jail here in the Summer of 1894, when he led a strike of the miners of the Georges Creek region. He was then an organizer, who had come here from the Central Pennsylvania region.

CONVICTS ON TEXAS FARM.

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 23.—For many years, as charged in the Senate today, Albert S. Burleson, Postmaster General, and C. R. Johns of Austin have jointly owned a large plantation in Central Texas upon which penitentiary convicts were employed. The lease of the convict laborers to Burleson and Johns were made at different times by the State Prison Commission. So far as is known here, Mr. Burleson has had no active part in the management of the plantation since he became Postmaster General. Practically all of the work upon the plantation was done by convict labor, it is stated.

DEFENDS MOONEY TRIAL.

Senator Phelan Says It Was Fair, but That President Acted Wisely.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The case of Thomas Mooney, convicted in the San Francisco bomb plot, held the attention of the Senate again today, with Senator Phelan of California defending the regularity of Mooney's trial. Senator Phelan commended President Wilson for asking a respite for Mooney from Governor Stephens, saying it was justified as vindicating the Government.

Referring to the address yesterday of Senator Poindexter of Washington, who said Seattle labor leaders were fomenting a strike in behalf of Mooney, Senator Phelan said the labor press had charged that Mooney was being "railroaded," and that his conviction was a "legal outrage."

"This is not true," said Senator Phelan. "There was nothing irregular in the court processes. He had a fair trial.

"I believe Mooney and his associates were victims of their own cupidity, and that they were bribed by German money to perpetrate this crime."

A motion by Senator Phelan that the Wilson commission's report be printed in the record was defeated by the Senate, however. The California member asked that it be printed as an answer to Senator Poindexter's address, but both Senators Poindexter and Smoot denied that any reflection had been made upon California's judicial processes.

STAGE RALLIES TO CALL FOR OVER THERE

Sothern and Ames Outline Work of Actors in Uniform—Messages from Wilson and Pershing.

Men and women of the theatre to the number of nearly 2,000 crowded into the Palace Theatre yesterday morning to attend the first public meeting of America's Over-There Theatre League, and later to volunteer their services almost en masse for the entertainment of American soldiers in France. The list of willing, although at present far from complete, already includes many of the most distinguished names of the American stage. Among those who volunteered yesterday, either in person or by wire, were Maude Adams, Julia Marlowe, Lillian Russell, William Collier, Frances Starr, John Drew, Amelia Bingham, Otis Skinner, Joe Weber, Lew Fields, James T. Powers, Grant Mitchell, Jane Cowl, Ruth Chatterton, Louise Dresser, Donald Brian, Walter Jones, Billie Burke, Julia Sanderson, Joseph Cawthorn, David Bispham, Blanche Ring, Thomas A. Wise, Marie Doro, James J. Corbett, Nora Bayes, Viola Allen, and Grace George.

The response to George M. Cohan's call for volunteers among the lesser lights of the audience was such that no attempt was made to list those proffering their services, but all were urged to communicate by mail with Winthrop Ames. The meeting was the result of the recent visit of Mr. Ames and E. H. Sothern to the front, under Y. M. C. A. auspices, to ascertain the nature of the amusement needs of the men in the trenches. Both Mr. Ames and Mr. Sothern addressed yesterday's meeting, and outlined in part the work that would be expected.

Those who are to go are to be selected from the list of volunteers by the league's Board of Directors. The remarks of Mr. Sothern yesterday indicated that vaudeville artists are likely to take precedence over entertainers from the legitimate, both because the facilities for the staging of plays are necessarily meagre and also because there seems to be a greater demand for the sort of amusement which the vaudeville actor, accustomed to trusting largely to his wits, can best furnish. In addition, it was explained, there is a demand for small bodies of actors capable of presenting brief sketches. There will be no scenery and no costumes, and all players will be required to wear the Y. M. C. A. uniform.

Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey aroused his audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm by his description of some of the entertainments already presented behind the lines, and Mrs. August Belmont (Eleanor Robson) also described her experiences near the front. Mr. Cohan, as President of the newly formed league, opened the meeting by reading a message of approval from President Wilson, and later read a letter from General Pershing reiterating the need of the soldier for amusement and calling upon the theatrical profession to do all in its power.

In addition to the individual volunteers, the various theatrical organizations, represented in most cases by their Presidents, offered their services solidly. Among those who made addresses were Augustus Thomas, Willard Mack, E. F. Albee, Rachel Crothers, Joseph R. Grismer, Francis Wilson, and Margaret Mayo.

HONOR BARD'S BIRTHDAY.

Shakespeare Playhouse Produces "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

The Shakespeare Playhouse, yesterday afternoon at the Cort Theatre, celebrated Shakespeare's birthday by producing "A Midsummer Night's Dream" before an audience mainly composed of dramatic critics and other children. It was a pleasant idea, and in many ways it was pleasantly executed.

As is his intelligent custom, Director McEntee dispensed with painted scenery, using neutral colored curtains instead, so that an unusually full text was spoken with the briefest possible pauses. Such appurtenances as are necessary to the action—Titania's bower, the hawthorn brake in which Bottom is "translated" and the "banks" on which the lovers sleep—were presented, so to speak, by themselves. A fuller knowledge of the Elizabethan stage would have suggested a better arrangement, but at the worst the results were far more satisfactory than those achieved by Granville Barker in a similar endeavor.

CHANGES IN ALLIED CREDITS

America to Make Loans Direct Instead of Through England.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—A rearrangement of allied credits by which the United States will lend large amounts directly to France, Italy and the other allies instead of through Great Britain is under consideration by the Treasury. This would tend to lessen Great Britain's obligations to the United States and decrease the demands of other allies on her.

Before completing the plan, Secretary McAdoo will consult with Oscar T. Crosby, the Treasury's representative on the Interallied Council, which has supervised the distribution of loans and other economic dealings between the Allies. Mr. Crosby has just been called home for a conference.

The United States has now extended credits to the Allies of $5,285,000,000, including $138,000,000 still to the credit of Russia, and has paid out $4,900,000,000. More than half, or $2,720,000,000, has gone to Great Britain, and much of this has been lent in turn by Great Britain to her allies. France has received $1,565,000,000 from the United States; Italy $550,000,000.

Margaret Jamieson, Pianist, Plays.

Margaret Jamieson, a pianist already heard this season, gave a recital before a large audience yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall. Her program included Beethoven's pianoforte sonata, Op. 31, No. 3, and an early Schubert impromptu, somewhat dryly played. There was proper lightness and grace in Schumann's "Papillons," Paderewski's "Polish Intermezzo," and pieces by Debussy and Stojowski.

Withdraws Court-Martial Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Senator Chamberlain, Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, today announced in the Senate that he would withdraw the Court-martial bill, now before the committee, which President Wilson denounced yesterday as "uncalled for and unconstitutional." "It would be a superogation to attempt to pass the bill now," said Senator Chamberlain. "The President's veto, if the Senate passed it, would kill it."

"Turner for Concrete"

MRS. STOKES INDICTED; PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Socialist, Accused Under the Espionage Act, Is Held in $10,000 Bond in Kansas City.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 23.—Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes, New York Socialist, was indicted this morning on three counts by the Federal Grand Jury for violation of the Espionage act. Arraigned before Judge Arba S. Van Valkenburgh, she pleaded not guilty and her bond was fixed at $10,000. Francis W. Wilson, United States District Attorney, demanded an immediate trial.

Mrs. Stokes's trial was set for May 20. Her husband, J. G. Phelps Stokes, was present in court and she was represented by R. S. Brennan and J. P. Aylward, attorneys. Mrs. Stokes was not in the courtroom when the Grand Jury returned its findings. She was arrested at Willow Springs, Mo., March 22.

The maximum penalty on each of the three counts is a fine of $10,000 or imprisonment for twenty years, or both.

DISGUISED GERMAN IN PARIS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 23.—Paris is puzzled over a mysterious German, who was arrested Sunday afternoon in the eastern part of the city. A military policeman, noticing a soldier in French uniform who appeared not to know his surroundings, questioned him. The man produced papers in the name of a soldier called Moreau, but could not explain why he had no permit for Paris leave. The soldier was arrested and searched, and a bundle of letters in German, and papers connected with the 76th Bavarian Infantry regiment were found.

Eventually the man confessed that he belonged to the 76th, and said he had been so maddened by the losses the regiment had sustained, and the hellish terrors of the battlefield that he had determined to escape at any cost. One night after a desperate fight he slipped into a field strewn with dead between the two armies, stripped the uniform off the body of a French soldier of the same height and build as himself, and dressed in it. Then, armed with the dead man's papers he crawled into the French lines, whence amid confusion he suceeded in reaching a field railway station, where he boarded a Red Cross train which brought him to Paris.

The man, who speaks perfect French, explained that he belonged to a Bavarian family which emigrated to Alsace. He refused all further information, but has every appearance of being an officer. The authorities are wondering whether he is a clever spy, or merely a cowardly officer who deserted his own army.

ALSATIANS RESENT GAG.

Members of Diet Protest Against Limitation of Discussion.

AMSTERDAM, April 23.—At the reopening of the Alsace-Lorraine Diet, says a dispatch to the Berlin Socialist newspaper Vorwärts from Strassburg, the Speaker announced that nothing must be said regarding the question of the future of Alsace-Lorraine as to its independence or merging with some Federal State. As a silent protest against this ruling many of the delegates refused to vote in the election of a President, only 23 out of the 47 members who were present casting their ballots.

EXPECTS PAPAL PEACE MOVE

German Newspaper Says It Will Follow Next Phase of the Battle.

LONDON, April 23.—Pope Benedict will make another peace move as soon as the western offensive has assumed a new phase, says the Neueste Nachrichten of Munich, Bavaria. The Amsterdam correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company reports that the Bavarian newspaper says the move will take the form of "a word of warning addressed to the universal conscience."

JOHN B. MANNING DEAD.

Aged Broker Who Paid Honora O'Brien $100,000 in Promise Suit.

John B. Manning, a retired broker of this city, whose fortune has been estimated at several millions, and who came into prominence last year as the suitor of Miss Honora May O'Brien, his 28-year-old secretary who obtained $100,000 from him in a suit for breach of promise, died yesterday at his home, 81 Riverside Drive, in his eighty-fourth year. Mr. Manning had been prominent in financial circles here since 1869, when he became a member of the New York Stock Exchange. His offices were at 2 Wall Street.

He was to have married Miss O'Brien, now Mrs. John Daly, the wife of an Irish farmer and living in Ireland, on Dec. 19, 1916, at St. Patrick's Cathedral. Several hours before the ceremony was to have been performed Mr. Manning called it off, and gave as his reason the publicity the case had received and the objections of his children. Miss O'Brien, who sued for $1,000,000, got a $225,000 judgment, but agreed to a compromise under which, it is reported, she received $100,000.

Mr. Manning was born in Ireland and came to this country sixty years ago. For years he was considered an authority on stocks and bonds. He was married in 1861, and in 1894 his wife brought suit for separation, charging failure to provide properly for her and her seven children. Mrs. Manning received alimony and counsel fees. She died in 1906.

GIANTS COMPLETE FIRST HOME ENGAGEMENT WITH UNBROKEN STRING OF VICTORIES

FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH IS FOUND BY DOYLE

Giant Second Baseman Discovers the Mud Puddle Which Ponce de Leon Overlooked.

LARRY'S PLAYING IS PROOF

Labeled Wornout Veteran Comes Back to New York and Wins Another Game.

Larry Doyle's name ought to go down in history as one of the world's greatest discoverers. Larry spent a few weeks in Florida last Winter and discovered the fountain of perpetual youth, while 'way back in the sixteenth century a fellow named Ponce de Leon spent several vacations in Florida looking for the same fountain and couldn't find it. The children in school read all about Ponce de Leon, who failed to locate the spring, and yet there isn't a word in any of the histories about Larry, who executed a neat Sherlock Holmes somewhere in the Everglades and came face to face with the mystic puddle.

Before Doyle went to Florida last Winter, his baseball days were about over, and he had his ticket bought for a haven of rest for aged athletes. Larry didn't want to retire, but wanted to come back to the Giants, so he hunted up the Florida pool that Ponce de Leon fell down on.

And look at Larry today! Then imagine where de Leon is.

Doyle's rejuvenation is easily the sensation of the baseball season. He got three hits yesterday, one of them a two-bagger. He scored one run and drove in three others with his blistering bangs. If the major leagues know anything, they will send all their players down to Doyle's spring in Florida next season. Some of the players really ought to be sent before next season.

Doyle's outbreak of youthful enthusiasm had much to do with the Giants taking another ball game from the Boston Braves by a score of 9 to 2. That makes six straight for McGraw's troupe. They now are only set of players in both leagues who haven't been defeated this season.

Sallee Has Nice Day.

Slim Sallee pitched his first game of the year, and held the Braves reasonably in check while the bats of Doyle and the other Giants were thumping in runs. Cal Crum, the first of the Boston pitchers, was knocked out of the box in the third inning, and Canavan, a youngster from Worcester, had to bear the brunt of the New York batting after that.

One of the pleasantest moments of yesterday's diversion came in the sixth inning, when the bases were jammed like a subway train at rush hour. At this point Heinie Zimmerman pumped a three-bagger over everybody's head in right field and pushed the three runners over the platter.

That's pretty good for Heinie when you realize that he didn't go to Florida last Winter, but trusted to the fountains of the Bronx to bring his youth back.

The game was so easy for McGraw's men that before it was over the substitutes had a chance to work. When Joe Wilhoit took Benny Kauff's place in centre field, Art Wilson, the former Giant, poled a screaming fly into deep centre. Wilhoit ran back under it, and then spun around like a whirling dervish. Everybody thought the ball was going to pick Joe on the ear, but he stopped whirling just in time to grab it in his hands.

The Giants got their first run in the second inning, when Doyle doubled to left centre and Fletcher sacrificed. Holke nearly took Red Smith's hand off with a hard smash, and Doyle scored. In the third Ross Young walked, and scored on Kauff's double. Benny went to third on Burns's single, and then Zim died at first. Doyle rapped a single to right and sent Kauff and Burns home. Cal Crum was becoming very much disturbed and hit Fletcher in the back. Before he could hurt any one else Canavan came to the rescue.

Herzog Lets in a Run.

Burns started off in the fifth inning with a single, went to second on Zim's out at first, stole third and scored on Doyle's slap to centre. Raridan opened the sixth with a single, and when Sallee sacrificed, Red Smith pegged the ball to Herzog, who had a force out play, but dropped the ball.

Young encouraged the runners along with a sacrifice and Kauff rolled to Canavan, and Thorpe, who was ushered into the game to run for Rariden, was captured between third and the plate. Burns walked and crowded the corners. Zim thereupon uncorked his three bagger and cleaned the bases of population.

Young got an infield hit in the eighth, stole second, and scored on McCarty's single. The two lonesome-looking Boston runs were coined in the sixth, when with one gone, Red Smith singled and Rehg died at first for the second out. Rawlings sent Smith home with a single and Rehg counted on Wilson's double.

YANKS OPEN HERE TODAY.

Play Washington in First Clash at Polo Grounds.

The American League season at the Polo Grounds will open with an unusual lot of pomp and ceremony this afternoon, including a big Liberty Loan drive, which President Jacob Ruppert of the Yankees will start with a subscription of $50,000. After a long program of preliminary festivities, General Mann of Governors Island will toss out the first ball and the Yankees, under their new manager, Miller Huggins, and the Washington Club will start the inaugural game at 3:30.

The owners of the Yankees aim to make this baseball's biggest effort for the Liberty Loan and an array of theatrical folks will sell bonds among the spectators. Al Jolson, and a collection of Winter Garden girls; Will Rogers, Ina Claire, Rita Stanwood, Edna Wallace Hopper, Pearl White, and Sybil Carmen are among those who will aid in the drive.

Another feature of the opening will be a big naval dirigible, which will sail over Coogan's Bluff and advertise the Liberty bond sale. The gates will open at 1 o'clock and, if the weather is right, the management is prepared to handle one of the largest crowds that ever attended an American League opening here.

A full company of soldiers will be there from Governors Island and a detail of 250 Naval Militia from Pelham Bay will also be present. Frank's band of fifty pieces will give a concert before the game and between innings. The band concert will start at 1:45. At 2:50 the soldiers and sailors will drill, and at 3 o'clock President Ruppert will welcome General Mann and his staff to the Polo Grounds.

Then will follow a parade to the centre field flag pole, where the colors will be raised. At 3:30 New York fans will have their first chance to see Miller Huggins as a Yankee leader. The Yanks, already this season, have displayed unusual batting talent and while the pitching staff is weak at present, the new leader will soon have it strengthened for his scouts are now out on a still hunt for additional boxmen. It is expected that Marsans, the Cuban outfielder, will report to the club today.

There will be another baseball opening over at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, when the Dodgers will make their first home appearance against the Giants. The gates will be opened at 2 o'clock and there will be a concert by Shannon's band. More than 1,000 enlisted men, with their drum corps and band, will be the guests of the management and there will be a parade before the game.

Admirals Usher and McDonnell, accompanied by their staffs, will attend the game and the first ball will be thrown out by Senator Robert R. Lawson, sponsor of the Sunday baseball bill. Lieutenant Marty McHale, Mrs. Agnes Wheeler, and Mrs. John A. Turney will have charge of a large force of solicitors, who will sell Liberty Bonds. There will also be a Thrift Stamp booth.

A new wrinkle at Ebbets Field will be a picture of the Kaiser on the fence and Thrift Stamps will be given as prizes for the players who can hit the picture.

ROBINS SLAIN BY PHILS.

Lacking a Competent Pitcher, They Are Beaten, 7 to 2.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—Because of their inability to produce hits at opportune times, and Robinson's futile efforts to find a pitcher who could prevent the Phillies from punishing the pellet at all times, the Dodgers were again defeated this afternoon, the score being 7 to 2.

Robinson introduced three hurlers into the fray in an effort to stop the Moranmen, and not one of them showed an arm that was better than Mamaux started, and after being bumped for four innings was withdrawn to admit Pinch Hitter Hickman. In the four innings in which he worked Mamaux was nicked for nine hits, netting four runs. Cheney then worked for a pair of innings, and escaped unscatched, sharp fielding saving him in both innings. Cheney left the premises for a more powerful hitter, and Marquard pitched the remaining two innings.

THORMAHLEN'S FINE PITCHING IS WASTED

Red Sox Hitless Until Ninth, When Two Hits and Bodie's Error Lose Game.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 23.—Herbert Thormahlen came within two put outs of pitching a no-hit game against the Red Sox here this afternoon, and the Yankees came within one run of winning a ball game. The young southpaw, pitching his second complete game in the majors, saw the first hitter to face him in the ninth inning go out and the Boston hit column was still one long row of ciphers. Then came two clean drives, a pop fly which Ping Bodie muffed, and the ball game rode away from the Yankees, 1 to 0.

Poor base running by the Yankees made the shutout possible. Had the Huggins runners kept their heads up, there might have been a different story to tell, as the run which Strunk carried over in the ninth would have done no better than tie up the game. Base running slips earlier in the game by Pratt, Pipp, and Bodie played a big part in making the affair a victory for Bush, who did fine work, but not quite as good as his youthful opponent.

Pipp went by second base at full speed in the fifth inning and failed to touch the bag. He went back and observed this very important rule, but the time he lost prevented him from scoring. The big first sacker was on first base with one out when Bodie doubled to deep right field. The drive was long enough for a runner of Pipp's speed to score on, but he had to pull up at third base after retracing his steps to second and getting a fresh start. A minute later, Bodie took a nap while Thormahlen was batting, and Bush's quick throw to Scott caught Ping off the bag and retired the side. The sacks were filled when Ping blundered.

Bodie dropped Whiteman's fly in the ninth inning because he wanted to make the throw before he really had caught the ball. Strunk was holding third for his dash to the plate after Bodie made the catch, and the fly was short enough to give Ping a good opportunity for a double play. As the ball bounded out of Bodie's hands, Strunk shot away and Bodie recovered it to make a throw, but had no chance then.

Thormahlen gave the best exhibition of pitching flashed by any of Huggins's moundsmen this year. He faltered just when a no-hit game was in his grasp. Strunk got the first hit off the Yankee southpaw after Shean had been retired in the ninth and Ruth was sent in to hit for Hoblitzel. The big pitcher slammed a single to centre, and Amos won a close decision at third base on Miller's throw to Baker. An intentional pass to McInnis crowded the corners with Red Sox, and Whiteman, the next hitter, raised the fly which Bodie muffed.

BAIRD'S TRIPLE WINS GAME.

Pirates Unable to Overcome Cards' Lead, Lose by 6 to 5.

ST. LOUIS, April 23.—A triple by Baird, followed by Schmidt's error in the seventh inning of today's game, enabled St. Louis to defeat Pittsburgh, 6 to 5.

Pittsburgh, due to Doak's wildness, got off to a five run lead in the second, but St. Louis tied the score in the third, when Steele was driven from the mound.

In the seventh, Baird tripled, Hornsby was safe when Schmidt dropped his high fly. Cruise fanned and, while McKechnie threw out Paulette, Baird scored what proved to be the winning run.

REDS AGAIN DEFEAT CUBS.

Cincinnati Takes Series from Chicago, Winning Last Game.

CINCINNATI, April 23.—By annexing today's game, 3 to 2, Cincinnati succeeded in winning the series with the Chicago team. Today's contest was a pitchers' battle, with Tyler having the best of it from number of hits recorded, but Bressler returned the winner through his ability to keep the hits made off him scattered.

The Reds won the game in the seventh on a double by Blackburne and a single by Allen.

ATLANTA GOLF TEAM DEFEATS COLUMBIA

Adair and Prescott Lead a Formidable Quartet to Victory at Englewood.

The Georgia Tech golf team made its first invasion of the North when it defeated, 6 matches to 0, the Columbia golf team at the Englewood Golf Club yesterday. Led by Perry Adair and Tom Prescott, two Atlanta youngsters with national reputations as golfers, the Southern team proved far and away too formidable for the local contingent.

Adair and Prescott were paired in the four-ball contests of the morning, and with a best ball of 72, par for the course, defeated A. L. Walker, Jr., and Robert Ward of Columbia by 6 up and 5 to play. Adair was in fine form in the morning, his approach shots being especially accurate. His individual score was 76, the best made during the day. Walker, who was having trouble off the tee, got a 79 in the morning, mainly through his clever short game. Prescott had an 80 and Robert Ward approximated 93, his poor work preventing any chance of victory for Columbia.

In the other four-ball contest, Fred Howden and F. J. Watkins, two more Atlanta youngsters, not so well known in the North, also proved clever players. Watkins was a splendid driver, getting great length on all his shots, while Howden had mastered the short game. They beat George A. Bijur and E. L. Rohdenberg of Columbia, 5 and 4. The Southerners had a best ball of 73. Bijur outplayed the others with an individual 79, but as in the case of the other four-ball match, Bijur's partner fell down miserably with a 92. Howden had 80 and Watkins 81.

Neither Adair nor Walker played up to their form in the individual match in the afternoon, which Adair won at 5 and 4. Adair had an 81 and Walker could do no better than 86. Bijur also fell down in the afternoon, losing to Prescott at 4 and 3. Prescott had an 82. Watkins and Howden each won easily.

The scores:

Four-Ball Matches. — Adair and Prescott, Georgia Tech, defeated Walker and Ward, Columbia, 5 and 6; Howden and Watkins, Georgia Tech, defeated Bijur and Rohdenberg, Columbia, 5 and 4.

Individual Matches. — Adair, Georgia Tech, defeated Walker, Columbia, 5 and 4; Prescott, Georgia Tech, defeated Bijur, Columbia, 4 and 3; Watkins, Georgia Tech, defeated Ward, Columbia, 8 and 7; Howden, Georgia Tech, defeated Rohdenberg, Columbia, 4 and 3.

Georgia Tech is to play Pennsylvania at Philadelphia Friday and Saturday. The Southerners were to have met the Princeton golf team at Princeton tomorrow, but the Tiger management called off the match without any explanation.

The final trials for the candidates who will represent Fordham in the Pennsylvania relay races on Saturday will be held this afternoon. Bernie Wefers, the Fordham coach, intended to get the last line on the runners at Travers Island Sunday, but this plan was abandoned on account of the stormy weather. The candidates who will try for the relay places are Murray, the Maroon Captain; Gough, McKeown, Tackasch, Golden, Tully, McGloughlin, Winters, Donnelly, and Fitzpatrick; Murray, Tackasch, Golden, and Fitzpatrick are letter men.

FRENCH PLAYER IN FRONT.

Janowski Takes Advantage in Chess Match by Defeating Chajes.

By winning the seventeenth game of the match at the Manhattan Chess Club, D. Janowski of Paris reduced the lead of Oscar Chajes, the New York State champion, to one point yesterday. Janowski had the white side of a queen's pawn opening, which Chajes as usual defended irregularly. A well directed attack on the king's side gave Janowski an advantage, and finally he forced through a passed pawn in the centre. Chajes resigned after thirty-eight moves had been recorded. The score to date: Chajes, 5; Janowski, 4; drawn, 3.

Reisler Hopes to Stop Bout.

John J. Reisler announced yesterday that he had taken steps to prevent the proposed bout between Jack Dempsey, the Salt Lake City heavyweight, and Billy Miske of St. Paul, which is scheduled for St. Paul May 3. With an injunction restraining Dempsey from appearing in boxing bouts under the management of any person than himself Reisler has notified the State Athletic Commissioners of both Minnesota and Wisconsin of the court action.

IOWA RELAY TEAM IN RACE.

Ames's Champions to Compete in Penn Four-Mile Event.

The latest college to enter its team for the four-mile relay championship race which will be run at the Penn relays on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, Saturday, is the State College of Iowa, at Ames, Iowa, winner of the Drake relay championship title last Saturday. The teams of Chicago and Notre Dame were both defeated by Ames. The team will probably be composed of the same athletes who ran last Saturday, including Reed, Cremer, Stone, and Hawthorne. Other colleges which have entered teams in this race are Pennsylvania, Penn State, Lafayette, Chicago, Wisconsin, and Cornell.

From Penn State comes the news that a worthy rival has been developed for Sinclair of Princeton in the shot-put. Firshing is the name of the Penn State athlete who will be nominated for this event, and he recently accomplished an effort of 45 feet 5 inches in an interclass meet at State College.

Unusual interest is manifest in the competitions scheduled for Friday, the opening day of the two-day carnival. Soldier and sailor athletes, including some of the country's stars who have entered the nation's service, will be seen in special competitions on this day.

MAY PROHIBIT BIG FIGHT.

Minnesota Safety Commission Opposed to Willard-Fulton Contest.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 23.—It was intimated late today at the State Capitol that the Minnesota Safety Commission, which has had under advisement the matter of permitting the Willard-Fulton fight, will probably take steps to prohibit the contest in Minnesota during the war.

Spring Suits Sold Well

In spite of a few grumblings here and there, Spring business in women's suits has been very good, according to some of the leading manufacturers in this city. Business was, in fact, much better than many in the trade had expected that it would be. Though prices have been considerably higher than they were a year ago, sales have not fallen behind, and, with the larger amount of cash involved, profits have been proportionately larger. It is said that the high grade and the best medium priced suits have been the season's leaders almost all over the country.

Cotton Dress Season Started.

It is said that cotton dresses for house and street wear are beginning to command a great deal of attention, not only in wholesale quarters, but in retail stores as well. Natty little frocks in cotton voiles, some of them semi-tailored and close fitting, are proving to be very popular with women generally. Ginghams with narrow shoulders, tight sleeves, and trim waistlines are also moving well. It is thought that the vogue of last Summer is going to last through another season. In all these garments bright colors are preferred, and stripes and checks of varying widths seem equally liked.

"Proxaline" Trimmings Lead.

In bands, fancies, and ornaments, "proxaline" aigrettes—imitation horsehair—are the leading trimmings at present in the local millinery trade, according to an authority on the subject. Black, white, navy, and sand are the most popular colors. On turbans this trimming is wound around the hat, while on small hats it is laid flat and extends over the brim. As fancies on large, "dressy" hats, it is used to take the place of aigrettes. On tailored hats "proxaline" fancies are used as ornaments in the place of ribbon cockades.

Undergarment Trade Prospers.

Fine satins, crêpe de chine and georgettes seem to be vying with each other for the lead in Spring and Summer underwear of the better sort for women. While one manufacturer will give crêpe de chine the place of honor, another will say that georgette leads. The fact is they are all good, have been bought heavily by retailers generally, and are moving over their counters at a rate, it is said, which will send these merchants back into market very soon for additional supplies. The materials mentioned are used both alone and in combinations. Pink, cream, and lavender are favorite colors, and quite a little embroidery appears as decoration on the best models.

Buyers' Wants and Offerings.

The feature of the "buyers' wants" advertised yesterday in The Times was the large number of jobbers who already are seeking Fall suits and coats. Plush garments were frequently specified. Georgette, taffeta, and voile dresses are also wanted in varying quantities by many buyers. Among the fabrics called for, broadcloths, serges, and velours figured most prominently, with poplins and plushes next in order. Included in the offerings to buyers were a number of jobs in coats and suits which "must be sacrificed immediately." Jersey, silk, and gingham dresses were offered "at great reductions." The fabrics offered were chiefly serges, though some ginghams, one item of 125 pieces of broadcloth, and a few small lots of other woolen and silk fabrics also appeared.

Gray Goods Without Feature.

Trading in the local gray goods market yesterday was again without feature. Both first and second-hand sellers were not anxious to trade until the uncertainty aroused by Governmental inquiries as to available spot and nearby goods had a chance to pass away, and, as a result, buying was confined largely to "dribbles" in the case of printcloths and sheetings. This was not the case with sateens and twills, for the clothing converters, however, and a pretty fair business was reported for delivery over the next several months at prices which showed advances over those quoted a few days ago. These were the nominal closing mill prices on printcloths:

39-inch, 72-76s	23c	38½-inch, 64-56s	*18½c
39-inch, 68-72s	20c	38½-inch, 60-52s	17c
39-inch, 56-44s	15½c	38½-inch, 60-48s	16½c
38½-inch, 64-64s	19½c	27-inch, 64-60s	13¼c

*Asked.

Fix Prices for Cotton Goods.

Despite the "veil of secrecy" that surrounded the proceedings of the joint Government and Red Cross committee that met here on Monday to fix prices on certain constructions of printcloths and sheetings that were needed by them, it became known yesterday that a price of 78 cents a pound was put on printcloths and a price of 72¼@73¼ cents on sheetings. The latter prices are not considered very liberal in some quarters, and quite a little comment was heard when it became known that, although the committee fixed a price of a little over 14½ cents a yard on 38½-inch 64-60 printcloths for delivery from the mills this side of Oct. 1, it paid second-hand sellers of these goods 18 cents a yard for a quantity of "spots" which was said to run as high as 2,000,000 yards. Yesterday, a meeting was held with a view to purchasing several million yards of colored cottons, principally ginghams and outing and Canton flannels, for the Red Cross.

Linoleum Prices on May 1.

Fall prices on linoleum, from present indications, will be made generally on May 1. It was said in the trade yesterday that all prices for Spring had been withdrawn, in anticipation of the new season's quotations, and it was further said that the new prices would, in all probability, show advances over the last list issued. In the case of one of the biggest houses in the trade this last list showed an advance of 25 per cent. over Nov. 1, 1917, prices on practically all goods, but the so-called battleship grade, which was up 30 per cent. One of the main factors in the increased cost of making linoleums is the scarcity and high prices asked for the wide Dundee-made burlaps that are used for backing them, and on which an export embargo has been placed by Great Britain.

Should Buy Rugs Now.

Housewives woh are thinking of replacing worn rugs should follow the advice of the famous person who remarked "Do it now." The reason is that if they don't take this advice they are going to pay the penalty of their negligence in the form of much higher prices later on. The wholesale Fall price made on a certain grade of 9-by-12 rug by one of the biggest manufacturers in the country shows an advance of nearly $8.50 over the price made on the same grade a year ago for the Fall (1917) season, and this rise is typical of the entire market. It must also be borne in mind that the increase in question is on the price asked by the mill of the jobbers and big retailers, which means that it will be larger still by the time the rugs get to the ultimate purchaser.

Furs Are Going Out Rapidly.

With several days yet to go to "prompt day," which is Monday next, the withdrawals of furs, bought at the recent auction here from the warehouse of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, have been so large as almost to empty it. This is especially true of the pelts that can be cut up into Summer furs, and so great was the need of skins of this kind that many of them were withdrawn by the buyers within forty-eight hours after the time they had come under the hammer at the sale. Foxes and wolves, the latter of which are used to no little extent now as substitutes for the former, because of the general shortage in foxes, have been especially freely withdrawn. Beaver, muskrat, mink, and similar skins also have been given little time to "gather moss."

PAY HIGH PRICES FOR FURS.

Sales of Second Day in St. Louis Auction Total $517,250.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 23.—The second day's offerings at the International Fur Exchange at Funsten Brothers & Co. totaled $517,250, bringing the total for the two days up to $1,250,000. More than 375 buyers were present.

The choicest and largest collection of silver fox skins gathered in twelve years will be offered tomorrow, and the 1,200 skins are expected to bring over $1,000,000. They will be sold in lots of two and three. The best single pieces of the lot will be bought for about $2,000, dealers said.

The sales today were confined to white fox, cross fox, Russian sables, South American chinchilla, bear, and polar bear. The white fox, 1,000 in 99 lots, brought $40,000; Russian sables, 2,016 in 219 lots, $250,000; cross fox, 1,550 in 298 lots, $116,500; South American chinchilla, 2,500 in 49 lots, about $87,500; bear, 750 grizzly, brown, and black, in 83 lots, $10,000, and polar bear, 267 in 159 lots, $13,250.

Single pieces of white fox were sold at $55, and Russian sables at $275. These sables were in great demand. Skins which buyers in former years would not consider were sold for $50 and $80. Single pieces of cross fox sold as high as $175.

American Tobacco Co. Accused.

WASHINGTON, April 23. — Unfair methods of competition were charged against the American Tobacco Company in a complaint today by the Federal Trade Commission, on which hearings were set for June 13. Alleged establishment of resale prices was the basis of the complaint.

"Carry On"

THE fighting slogan in France, gathering inspiration and significance as the conflict grows more violent and more desperate, is "Carry On." On land, on sea, in the air, it rings sharp and clear.

Into the front line trenches comes the signal to charge. The company commander swings "over the top." At his heels, pushing and stumbling through the hell of "No Man's Land," come the boys. They gain a yard, five, ten, and the machine guns speak. The commander falls, but over his shoulder, above the din of battle, he shouts, "Carry On, Lieutenant!" So on and on, till every officer falls, and the grizzled old Sergeant sets his teeth and takes what's left of them on to the goal.

"Carry On" must be our slogan here at home. We must "Carry On" to the utmost limit of our ability, to the last dollar of our resources, till Victory is won. Let us stand shoulder to shoulder—buy all the Liberty Bonds we can. Let us keep our Bonds and save to buy more.

"Carry On!" Buy Liberty Bonds!

Stocks Irregular, with Leading Issues Lower—Disappointing Leather Report—Money 5½%.

The advancing market was halted yesterday, and most of the more active stocks lost ground on selling that was largely professional. The war news was not disturbing; the breathing space that has followed the last sanguinary assault against the British lines appears to be more favorable to the Allies than to the enemy. The public has not entered to any considerable extent into the enthusiasm which has been worked up in the territory immediately adjacent to the Stock Exchange, and there were indications yesterday of selling by those who bought stocks a few days ago in the expectation that conditions would prove favorable to a general advance.

Pool operations serve to confuse the market's interpretation of the news. The advance in Central Leather, encouraged by gossip of accumulation by well-informed interests, gave way yesterday to a quick reaction when the company's quarterly statement was made public. It showed, for the first quarter of this year, gross earnings of only $2,620,000, as against $7,852,000 a year ago, and surplus of only $62,000, against $5,255,000 for the first quarter of 1917. The motor issues sold off on the talk of a second curtailment in the production of passenger cars, which would bring the number authorized by the voluntary agreement of manufacturers down to 25 or 30 per cent. of last year's output. It will be recalled that the original concession was on the basis of 70 per cent. of the 1917 production. It is expected that the capacity released by curtailment, or much of it, can be utilized in the manufacture of trucks and other war equipment, but the new work is not likely to prove as profitable as the sale of cars. General Motors lost 8¼ points and Studebaker 2¼, the latter selling, incidentally, at a new low record. Steel dropped back on professional operations that looked like profit-taking after the recovery of 8 points from the low of last week. One of the strong issues in the active list was Inspiration, which closed with a net gain of 2 points.

The failure of the New York district to make a better showing in comparison with other sections in obtaining subscriptions to the Third Liberty Loan cannot be ascribed either to lack of zeal on the part of the patriotic workers or to indifference on the part of the investors. One serious obstacle is the impending payment of heavy taxes. This could be removed by passage of the Pomerene bill, or a similar measure, giving debtors the option of spreading their payments over several installments. Another difficulty is the allotment of subscriptions to other districts, the payments on which must come entirely from funds carried in New York. In this respect local pride is likely to cause an embarrassing withdrawal of money which should be left here to the Government's credit. Notwithstanding these and other artificial difficulties, it is quite probable that the second Reserve district will have no occasion to offer apologies when the loan books are closed and the returns made public.

GOOD UNDERTONE IN LONDON

Budget Is Well Received in Financial Circles.

LONDON, April 23.—Financial circles received the budget well, and the income tax is not as high as had been expected in some quarters.

The stock market had a good undertone today. The feature was a spurt in the tax free 4 per cent. war loan to 101¾, due to the issue price of the 4 per cent. national war bonds being raised to 101½. Other tax free securities were also in demand. Spanish 4s advanced on a fresh improvement in exchange. Japanese issues were strong following the cancellation of more bonds.

Money was in ample supply and discount rates were steadier.

Trading More Active on Bourse.

PARIS, April 23.—Trading was more active on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 59 francs for cash. Exchange on London, 27 francs 16 centimes. Five per cent. loan, 88 francs 65 centimes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

The Coastwise Lines.

There was a long session of the Advisory Committee on Coastwise Shipping of the Railroad Administration, held in the office of L. J. Spence of the Southern Pacific, the Chairman, yesterday, but at its close Mr. Spence said there was nothing to be said for publication. Practically all the coastwise lines, those already commandeered and those not yet taken over, were represented. Stockholders in the companies controlling these lines have been trying hard for some time, but so far without much success, to find out on what basis they are to be recompensed. The Southern Pacific Company in its annual report was unable to give any figures on its steamship earnings, because the basis of compensation from the Shipping Board had not been settled; the A. G. W. I. Company for the same reason hasn't yet been able to issue a report, and the Railroad Administration's appearance on the scene has further complicated the situation. The meeting yesterday, incidentally, was described in THE TIMES yesterday, owing to a misunderstanding of the announcement, as a railroad executives' instead of a steamship executives' meeting.

The South American Mines.

With the world's shipping being more and more centralized on North Atlantic traffic, the question arises about transportation conditions later in the year as affecting the great copper companies of South America. The Chile, Braden, and Cerro de Pasco Companies have already had considerable difficulty in getting supplies, although little has been heard about prolonged delay in getting the metal shipped out. These properties a year ago were promising substantially increased additions to the copper available for the American market and the conduct of the war. It is probable that special measures will be taken by the shipping authorities to see that the companies have enough tonnage to prevent a serious decline in output.

Woes of the Steamship Men.

Shipping brokers as a class are considered by good judges to have profited more by the war in its first three years than any other similar class of men in the financial district, certainly in proportion to their previous average earnings. Now, however, they are doing almost no business at all, but instead of blaming Fortune, many of them are blaming the Shipping Board. Definite complaints of discrimination on the part of the Chartering Committee and the Director of Operations, it is reported, have been made by some brokers, on the ground that approval has been refused charters made by them, while other firms have obtained approval for precisely similar charters. It appears, however, that in most of these cases at least, the Shipping Board has been trying to be fair by protecting the trade of firms whose entire fleet and business it has commandeered from invasion by outsiders, who normally would have had no chance in the trade, but who have tried to take advantage of their rivals' temporary helplessness.

Central Leather Earnings Drop.

The decline of 4⅝ points in Central Leather was explained easily enough yesterday by reference to the quarterly statement of the company's earnings. The total income in the three months ended March 31 was $2,619,603, a decline of $5,232,620 from the amount reported at the same time last year. The result was obtained after deducting operating expenses, maintenance and repairs of approximately $530,519, and a reservation for taxes. The balance for dividends amounted to $1,141,448, a decline of $5,198,176, which provided only $1.40 a share for the common stock after allowing for the preferred stock disbursement. In the corresponding quarter last year the common dividend balance was $14.48 a share. Needless to say, the Street was disappointed and surprised by the relatively low earnings. While it had been known that leather prices suffered a drop in the forepart of the year, expectations had been that the activity of the company's plants would insure a big enough gross business to make a satisfactory return, considering the unfavorable transportation conditions which prevailed in the first two months.

Anaconda's Inspiration Shares.

The annual statement of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company is expected to reveal further additions to the holdings of Inspiration Consolidated Copper stock in the treasury during 1917. At the end of 1916 the company had 200,000 shares of Inspiration, and it is believed in financial circles that some thousands of shares more have since been accumulated. Estimates on the total holdings heard in Wall Street run from 225,000 to 250,000 shares. The situation in regard to Anaconda's investment in Inspiration stock appears to be much the same as that of the Kennecott Copper Corporation's holdings of Utah Copper. Anaconda officials have frequently stated that the thought of a combination between the concerns has not been entertained, and the shares are owned for their income producing qualities. While a giant merger of copper companies was talked of two years ago, including the Kennecott and Utah companies, the gossip had no official sanction, and since the purchases of Utah stock have been labeled as investment pure and simple.

Cotton Speculating and Dealing.

Now that the excitement in the cotton market has died down, temporarily at least, and the market regained its equilibrium, cotton men are finding time to express their indignation at the market writers who explained the recent wild gyrations by the too-easy formula of "a bull movement" and a "bear raid." "If these people think any combination imaginable around this ring could put cotton up $30 a bale and then knock it down again," said one big dealer, "I wish they'd come down here and try it. The market fluctuations have been more spectacular than usual lately, because trade conditions never before were so uncertain. But to attribute them to the little crowd of speculators who have ridden them up and down and tried to make their little profit out of it is about as sensible as to say that the grass waving makes the wind blow."

WAR HURTS GOLD MINING.

Alaska Company Earns $42,274 Against $112,834 in 1916.

Heavy increases in operating expenses, with a falling off in outside income, more than cut in two the net income of the Alaska Gold Mines Company for 1917 as compared with 1916, according to the annual report of the company, issued yesterday. With the largest amount of ore yet handled by the company—2,240,346 tons—and gross profits of $2,009,632, an increase of $172,341 as compared with 1916, the net income was only $42,274, as compared with $112,834 in 1916.

Among other items on the income account, $26,403 is charged to "extraordinary expenses," apparently due to the war and the labor conditions arising from it, and the sum of $312,996 is written off for "depreciation," so that the income account for the year shows a deficit of $270,722 for the year, as compared with a surplus of $112,834 for 1916. The company's balance sheet at the end of the year still shows a surplus of $11,783,315. President Hayden in his report emphasizes the difficulties of the company, with a constant shortage of labor and rising operating costs, and admits that in 1918 the company will probably earn barely enough to pay expenses, without meeting its interest charges.

WILL LEASE PIER TO HIGHEST BIDDER

James Auditore & Co. of Brooklyn Offer to Pay $15,000 More Than the Original Price.

The city took steps yesterday through its legal department to put up for public letting Pier 69, North River, which the Sinking Fund Commission, on the recommendation of Dock Commissioner Murray Hulbert, sought to lease to the Hudson Dock and Terminal Corporation at a rental of $25,000 a year, although the Occident Dock Company, the present lessee, had bid $30,000. The matter will be disposed of, it was said yesterday, by the lease being awarded to the highest bidder.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Nehrbuss, who represented the city in the taxpayers' suit before Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum, brought by the Occident Dock Company to restrain the city from awarding the lease to the Hudson Dock concern, appeared before Justice Greenbaum yesterday and asked for a modified order to permit the city to consider all bids over $30,000. Justice Greenbaum called the attorney's attention to the fact that the Occident Dock Company had already raised its bid from $25,000 to $35,000, and then ruled that the city may receive any bids above the latter amount. In the meantime, an offer for $40,000 for the lease of the pier was made by an entirely new concern. When the Sinking Fund Commission meets tomorrow it will consider an offer made by James Auditore & Co., Incorporated, stevedores, of 14 Hamilton Avenue, Brooklyn, for the lease of the pier for one year or a term of years at $40,000 a year.

Justice Greenbaum's decision in allowing the city to consider any offer above $35,000 will not affect the case going before Referee Lewis L. Delafield, who was appointed by the Justice last week to hear all sides in the controversy. Mr. Delafield announced that he would call a meeting at his office tomorrow morning and then adjourn to the County Court House, where public hearings would begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Should the Sinking Fund Commission in the meantime decide to rent the pier to the highest bidder it is likely that all court action will be called off.

That city officials were contemplating giving the pier lease to the Hudson Dock and Terminal Corporation at $25,000 a year as early as April 5 became known yesterday when the City Record published the minutes of a hitherto unrecorded meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission held in the City Hall on that date. The report in the Record shows that on April 5 the commission considered three items, the lease of Pier 69 being one of them. No calendar was prepared or printed and no previous notice of the meeting was made through the regular channels. Mayor Hylan called the meeting and all the members were present except Alfred E. Smith, President of the Board of Aldermen. When the pier lease matter came up there was no discussion, but it was referred to Controller Craig.

In a statement issued on April 12 the Controller made no reference to the meeting of April 5, and referred only to the meeting of April 11, when the commission voted to award the lease to the Hudson Dock concern. The minutes of the April 11 meeting show that Mayor Hylan left the board room after the pier lease matter had been disposed of, leaving seventy-two items on the calendar. The Mayor had waited to cast an affirmative vote for the Hudson Dock Company's lease and then hurried to Albany.

WRITING PAPER CO.'S YEAR.

The American Reports $150,287 Earned on $15,019,864 Gross.

The annual report of the American Writing Paper Company for 1917 shows a net income for the year, applicable to dividends, of $150,287 on a gross business of $15,019,564. The dividend requirements of the $12,500,000 of 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock outstanding, without considering the $9,500,000 of common stock, amount to $875,000 a year. The company thus earned not quite one-fifth of its preferred dividend requirements.

The poor showing of the company is explained in the report as due to an advance of about 37 per cent. in the price it must pay for raw materials, as it buys its paper stock in the open market. On the gross business manufacturing expenses amounted to $12,454,238; depreciation, repairs, and maintenance to $713,633, while general expenses, discount on sales, &c., consumed $1,158,267, leaving a net profit of $887,876, from which had to be deducted $566,529 in interest charges and a reserve of $171,059 for inventories and war taxes.

The report also attributes the poorer business of the company to a reaction from the increase in paper prices of 1916, which caused overproduction, so that during the latter part of last year the company was confronted with a slackening of demand and weakening of prices for its product, combined with continual advances in raw materials and operating expenses.

FACES OIL STOCKHOLDERS.

Levering Tells Them of Metropolitan Petroleum Affairs.

Richmond Levering, organizer of the Metropolitan Petroleum Corporation, faced a crossfire of questions for four hours yesterday from 200 stockholders, who gathered at 120 Broadway to get an insight into the company's affairs. The Metropolitan stock was the centre of wild speculation on the Curb in 1916, traveling from around $16 to $25 a share in a few weeks and later tumbling down to its present level around 75 cents. In February, 1916, the company transferred a parcel of oil land in Mexico and a pipe line concession to the Island Oil and Transport Company, another Levering promotion, and this transaction was the centre of yesterday's discussion. Drillers struck a giant oil well a few months after the sale was arranged, and two suits have been brought, but not completed, to make the transfer void.

After long wrangling and some tense moments, when it looked as though fisticuffs would play a part, the stockholders yesterday selected a committee, consisting of C. C. Matchett of the Stock Exchange firm of Markoe, Morgan & Co., Howard Wilson, and Judge Delavan A. Holmes, to examine into the company's books and report to another stockholders' meeting on May 7 about what they found there. At that time, according to a resolution passed at the meeting, steps will be taken to meet the company's debts and continue the development of its Mexican holdings.

Mr. Levering undertook to narrate the history of the company down to the time the stock began to be batted around the Curb. After he reached that point interruptions were plentiful, and it developed that many of the shareholders present had paid high prices for their stock. The oil man said he grouped in the company a number of properties which were selected with the best judgment obtainable, based on the reports of geologists.

"We had a contract with the Sun Company," he stated, "to take 3,500,000 barrels a year, and this concern engaged to advance funds for drilling operations and the laying of a pipe line. In June, 1916, it happened that political conditions became unfavorable in the Tampico district and the fields became practically deserted. The Americans were ordered out, and there was a complete shutdown of operations, which continued for some weeks. At that time the Sun Company declined to go on with the contract for development work, as the management held it was not safe to send men down there. The contract had a clause which permitted them to hold the agreement in abeyance under such conditions, and so the drilling and work on the pipe line from the fields to tidewater at Tampico slowed down. I had furnished between $600,000 and $700,000 for development previously of my own money, and could go no further in putting up money.

"Then a contract was entered into between H. Content & Co. and myself and Renskorf, Lyon & Co. whereby the last-named brokerage house was to buy an allotment of 10,000 Metropolitan Petroleum stock from me. They took 5,000 shares in one block at $16 a share and later 5,000 shares at $17, and the agreement was that they should take 5,000 shares a month if they could market it. The proceeds were to be used in continuing the development work in Mexico. Well, with that 10,000 shares they stirred up an active market. On the fifth or sixth day after they got the stock, they traded in from 30,000 to 40,000 shares, and the price began to go up rapidly. Under the contract the brokers were permitted to return to me stock which was not sold and delivered, and later Renskorf, Lyon & Co. did return 4,000 shares, so that during the greater period of the wild market there were actually only about 6,000 shares of stock outstanding."

In June, 1916, said Mr. Levering, he opened negotiations with Hayden, Stone & Co. to sell them an issue of debentures; but Charles Hayden declined to go into it because of the wild speculation on the Curb. Then the Pierce Oil Corporation was approached, without result, and the banking firms of Chandler Bros. & Co., H. Content & Co., and Abbott, Johnson & Co., according to Mr. Levering, helped him to raise some money; but by the end of November a crisis had arrived. Telegrams from the manager in Mexico were read at the meeting, containing appeals for working funds to meet pressing bills at this time.

In December the Island Oil & Transport Company was formed to take over Levering leases in Cuba, Colombia, and Mexico, and then the idea was conceived, Mr. Levering said, of selling to this concern the pipe line concession and some of the Metropolitan's leases. Hayden, Stone & Co. were willing to undertake the financing of this company, provided that only a part of the Mexican Petroleum's property was included. The banking firm did not take up the task, however, and later A. B. Leach & Co. raised money through the sale of Island Oil bonds. A block of 1,700 acres where drilling had been started was transferred from the Metropolitan to the Island Oil & Transport organization, said Mr. Levering, and it was on this lease that the much-discussed 70,000-barrel well was struck in the following May.

Mr. Levering, in response to questions, said that so many harsh things had been said about his connection with the company that he did not want to have anything more to do with it. He informed stockholders that he believed the remaining assets in the way of leases in Mexico were very valuable, potentially, and that they could be retained for the corporation if funds were raised to pay off the leasing charges in arrears.

THE COTTON MARKET

Prices Gain 2 to 17 Points in Unruffled Session—Brokers Enjoy a Rest.

The interval of peace and quiet, which has succeeded the recent excitement on the local cotton market, continued practically unbroken yesterday. In fact the market was even quieter yesterday than on Monday, and many brokers, whose voices were nearly worn out last week, found the opportunity yesterday to break away from the ring for a few moments and refresh themselves by watching the stock tickers. The session was practically featureless, but with good tone so far as the limited amount of business went, and the close was firm, up from 2 to 17 points.

Liverpool cables were firm, and there was an accumulating body of evidence as to the inability of buyers to obtain lower offers on Southern spot markets, but, on the other hand, the weather and crop news was once more excellent. Indeed, the weather map alone was enough to shade off new crop prices at the opening when May and July were 20 points higher. This price in the near months proved too high to be held, however, as it attracted considerable liquidation, accompanied by reports that the transportation situation between here and the South was improving.

At some 20 points below Monday's close, Liverpool, which is evidently pretty well liquidated, bought a little cotton, and with this and covering, the market worked back again, being stronger at the close than at any other time during the day.

Both buyers and sellers seemed more than usually cautious all day. It is believed about 10,000 bales of notices will be issued against May on Thursday, and it is rumored Japanese interests will be ready to take up whatever cotton is tendered. The relative scarcity of white cotton is emphasized in Southern reports. No exports were reported yesterday.

COPPER EARNINGS DECLINE.

Nevada Consolidated Co. Reports Net of $8,644,348.

The annual report of the Nevada Consolidated Copper Company for 1917, issued yesterday, shows a considerable falling off in both gross and net earnings, as compared with the company's report for 1916. The gross revenues dropped from $24,366,291 for 1916 to $20,279,723 for last year, while operating expenses mounted $1,639,352, to a total of $11,635,375, and net revenues fell off $5,725,920, to a total of $8,644,348. The outside income increased slightly, but other deductions from income also increased.

As a consequence, the surplus for the year available for dividends amounted to only $9,124,631, approximately equivalent to $4.56 a share on the 1,997,457 shares of stock outstanding, whereas in 1916 the surplus amounted to $15,002,050, or practically $7.50 a share. Dividends of $8,297,747 were paid during the year, leaving a net surplus of $826,884 for 1917, to be added to the previous surplus of $12,353,613.

The production of refined copper fell off 8,694,779 pounds as between 1916 and 1917, the total for the latter year being 82,040,508 pounds. In addition to the company's own output, however, 9,259,104 pounds were produced from treatment of ores on toll contract.

"The shrinkage in earnings," President Jackling says in the report, "is entirely disproportionate to decrease in output as between the two years. This is due in principal measure to increased operating costs, but in part to a difference of approximately 2 cents per pound in the price of copper upon which earnings were calculated. The basis for computing earnings was 23.75 cents per pound, as compared with 25.83 cents per pound for 1916."

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

WHEAT.

The outlook for the new wheat crop continues exceptionally favorable, and the trade is beginning to look forward to the time when wheat will be more plentiful both for domestic consumption and for export. Receipts at Western points continue small, but they are increasing slightly. According to a Chicago authority, the surplus left over from last year and available for export and carry-over on April 1 was 64,000,000 bushels, while exports so far this season are placed at 105,000,000. Latest crop advices from Europe indicate an improvement in the outlook, and at the present time the chances seem bright for a larger yield than last year.

RYE.

The local rye market was dull and nominal. In the West Chicago was unchanged at $2.50, while Minneapolis was 4c higher at $2.58.

CORN.

The corn market developed pronounced strength yesterday and at the close prices were at the highest point of the session, the new contracts showing gains of 2⅜c to 2½c. The upturn was due largely to active covering, which revealed an oversold market. In the local cash market kiln-dried No. 3 yellow was quoted at $1.65; No. 4 yellow, $1.60; No. 3 white, $1.85, cost and freight New York.

OATS.

The oats market responded to the strength in corn and to further export buying, closing with net gains of ⅝@1½c. Receipts at primary points were quite liberal despite predictions of a falling off in the movement. The local cash market was firm. Natural quoted at 97½@98½c; clipped white, 98c@$1.01, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was only moderately active, but prices were firmer despite a decline in the price of live hogs. Offers were small, and the market responded to covering on the part of shorts prompted by the strength in grain. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 18,000, estimated for Wednesday, 21,000. Kansas City received 10,000 and Omaha 14,000.

COFFEE.

The coffee market was quiet yesterday, with the tone easier, under scattering liquidation or trade selling, which probably reflected a more optimistic view of the cost if not the quantity of importations. The market opened at a decline of 1 to 3 points and closed 5 to 7 points lower, with May selling around 8.25c and December at 8.54c, or about 20 to 25 points below the recent high level. Spot demand has fallen off considerably, and the market was easier yesterday on the basis of 9⅞c for Rio 7s and 11c for Santos 4s.

SUGAR.

There were no new purchases reported by the International Sugar Committee, but from all appearances there seems to be a pretty fair supply of sugar, which will be available from time to time for the consumers. The last week there were exported from Cuba over 91,000 tons, according to the weekly cable from the island, and should ample tonnage be available supplies here should soon be normal. Prices remain unchanged at 4.985c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 6.005c for centrifugal and 7.45c for fine granulated.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 10,555 packages, including 1,000 packages in transit for export. Buyers are showing more interest and the market had a slightly firmer tone on the choice and fancy grades. In addition to our home requirements the Government is buying a good deal of stock, and this helps to clean up the receipts in better shape than was anticipated. The secondary grades are slow and in buyers' favor; it looks as if the range of values may widen still more. Held creamery quiet and easy. Renovated and ladies dull. Packing stock selling better. EGGS.—44,273 cases. Market is holding steady to firm on high grades of eggs. Trade was quite active on Monday afternoon, and while not quite so active yesterday morning asking prices are firmly sustained. A little better demand for fancy dirties, but top quotation extreme for average receipts. Average receipts of checks dragging. Fancy nearby hennery whites opened firmer, but rather freer offerings at the close. Trade Acceptances in Canada

"The Trade Acceptance—or Trade Paper, as it is technically termed in Canada—is the simple and effective credit instrument by virtue of which practically the entire internal trade of the country is transacted. It is the universal medium of settlement between buyers and sellers of goods of all description, and every wholesaler, manufacturer, jobber and retailer throughout the length and breadth of the land is conversant with trade paper and understands its efficiency in handling business.

"The uses of trade paper and its intimate relation to business forms part of the elementary training of every junior bank clerk; in short, trade paper is one of the fundamentals and principal props of the Canadian financial structure"—

The above is an extract from a booklet issued by the Bank outlining the practical working of trade acceptances in Canada. A copy will be sent upon request.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Net losses from a fraction to more than three points were recorded in a majority of the active securities at the close of an active market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. From midday, when prices were at their highest levels and showed a tendency to advance, the market was subjected to a heavy volume of profit taking which caused a sharp price reaction. Closing quotations, however, were substantially higher than the day's low levels.

RECEIVER FOR COPPER CO.

Gila Concern Said to Have Put Obligations Into Too Short a Period.

Judge Learned Hand of the Federal District Court yesterday named Allan Forbes of Boston equity receiver of the Gila Copper Sulphide Company that was incorporated about four years ago, as the successor of the old Saddle Mountain Mining Company, with a capital of $2,500,000. The property is in Arizona, and in four years has yielded a profit of more than $900,000. The majority of the stock is owned by Benjamin P. Cheney of Boston, who became bankrupt in December, 1917.

The suit in which the receiver was named was brought by the London-Arizona Consolidated Copper Company. The application set forth that in May, 1917, the defendant company procured an option on 300 acres of land, on which it paid $40,000 down, and gave a note for $10,000, on which it defaulted. It was said yesterday by William P. Maloney, counsel for the defendant, that the company had $1,000,000 of convertible five-year bonds outstanding, and that its financial difficulties were due to the fact that the company tried to pay these within too short a period. Six hundred and ninety thousand dollars was due on these bonds on April 1. He was certain that the company would overcome its difficulties.

G. B. WALL ON C. & O. BOARD.

Succeeds Decatur Axtell, Who Resigned as Director.

RICHMOND, April 23.—At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company, held here today, Garrett B. Wall was elected a Director, to succeed Decatur Axtell, who resigned as Vice President and Director in February. Other retiring Directors were re-elected.

A resolution was passed authorizing the Directors to negotiate agreements with the United States Government for operation of the road under Government control, and for compensation to the railway company for the use of its property. Another resolution, authorizing the company to incorporate in itself, for convenience in accounting and management, various subsidiary companies, of which it owns all, or practically all, of the capital stock, failed because the three-fourths majority of the capital stock, required by the charter to be represented at a meeting taking such action, was not obtainable. The meeting accordingly adjourned until May 3, when it is hoped the required amount of stock representation may be obtained.

TELL MAYOR SUBWAY BUILDERS NEED HELP

Work Aggregating $35,000,000 to be Done, and Must Be Rushed, Says Mr. Straus.

HYLAN CRITICISES SERVICE

City Subway Operated by B. R. T. Has $255,997 Deficit for January —Income Increases.

Mayor Hylan gave a public hearing yesterday in the City Hall on the Lockwood bill, which authorizes the Public Service Commission and the Board of Estimate, acting in concert, to make any arrangement they please with the contractors of the new subway lines that the work may be carried on. Because of the increase in the cost of labor and material, the contractors have asked for help on the ground that unless the city came to the rescue they would not be able to finish the work. Before the hearing the Mayor received from Chairman Straus of the commission a long letter setting forth the precise situation as it affects both the contractors and the city.

The public hearing was opened by Franklin Nevius, counsel for the General Contractors' Association, who said that since the beginning of the war 67 per cent. of the materials needed in the subway work had increased from 100 to 200 per cent in cost. The Mayor asked Mr. Nevius if the Public Service Commission was not responsible for much of the delay in the work. He replied that he did not care to answer the question. While the Mayor has repeatedly declared his opposition to any increase in subway costs, the general impression after the hearing was that he would approve the measure.

During the hearing the Mayor kept up a running fire of adverse comment. He expressed the belief that the city would not get possession of the rapid transit lines in less than fifty-five years, instead of fifty years. He asked Mr. Nevius to submit all of the claims of the contractors and all the details of their work, that he might discover whether the delays that have occurred in the work were due to dilatory tactics by the commission.

William L. Ransom, the commission's chief counsel, interrupted to say that the question was not what the Mayor thought of the commission, but whether there was not need for some legislation to insure the completion of a very important subway system. He pointed out that both the State and the Federal Governments had seen the necessity of changing some of the contracts made by them prior to the entrance of this country into the war, and he intimated that the Mayor had been incorrectly informed on some of the points under discussion.

Mayor Opposes Commission.

"It isn't a question," replied the Mayor, tartly, "whether I like the Public Service Commission or not; it is a question only of the rights of the people. I oppose the commission because it will not force traction companies to give the people of the city proper transit facilities between their work and their homes.

"Since the Public Service Commission has been in office," the Mayor continued, "it has cost the people $20,000,000, and we have less cars now than in 1907, and they are more congested than they were then."

In his letter to the Mayor, Chairman Straus said that contracts approximating $60,000,000 had been let for new subways, that $45,000,000 worth of the work had been done and that in all, on new contracts and old, there was work to be done aggregating $35,000,000. The commission, he said, was of the opinion that any legislation for the correction of the present situation should receive the approval of the Mayor.

Mr. Straus discussed the legal questions involved, and said the commission had been advised that the Legislature had the right to deal with emergency questions, and to provide for the payment or the settlement of claims based upon "equity, justice, good conscience, and fair dealing, even though not legally enforceable by suit."

If the bill becomes a law, the commission, it is believed, will favor a plan by which the contractors will be permitted to complete their contracts at cost, with the proviso that they waive all profits so far made on any part of the work for which they have been paid.

City Subways Show Deficit.

A comparative statement showing the financial results of the operation of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's subway and elevated lines for January was given out yesterday by the Public Service Commission. This is in line with the promise of the commission made when a recent statement showed that the combined city and company deficit up to Dec. 31 last amounted to about $6,000,000, which created so much surprise that it was deemed wiser to give monthly figures showing how the deficit is growing.

In January last the total gross revenues amounted to $1,007,072, and the total operating expense $715,468, leaving a net revenue of $291,604. The company's preferential, interest, and sinking fund charges were $547,601, which left a city and company deficit for the month of $255,997. The figures show that since the pooling of interests began under the dual contracts on Aug. 4, 1913, the total gross revenues have grown from $562,768 in 1915, when the revenues were $44,724 less than in January, 1914.

A statement by the commission says:

"The deficits at the present time are being added to the cost of construction, but beginning with 1919 they will have to be met from taxes. The commission is therefore anxious that full information shall be available monthly in order that the public may know the relation between rapid transit service and possible addition to taxes."

The deficits in the corresponding months of the four preceding years were: 1917, $168,260; 1916, $85,611; 1915, $106,826, and 1914, $102,923. It is pointed out, therefore, that the deficit for last January of $255,997 is greatly in excess of the corresponding month of the previous years, although there has been a very substantial increase in the total revenue. It is explained that this increase is largely due to enormous increase in operating expenses, including maintenance, arising from war conditions.

AUTOMOBILE OUTPUT TO BE REDUCED AGAIN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Plans have been prepared by the War Industries Board and the Fuel Administration to restrict the manufacture of passenger automobiles to approximately 25 per cent. of the normal output, and it is probable that an announcement will be made soon.

Under an agreement with the manufacturers, entered into voluntarily, the output already had been reduced by 30 per cent. The new rules, if adopted, will mean an additional curtailment of 45 per cent.

Representatives of several of the big automobile concerns were in Washington today to confer with representatives of the War Industries Board, but the final decision was deferred. It is probable that further conferences will be held tomorrow.

The question of cutting down the manufacture of pleasure automobiles has been under discussion for some time, as industries considered more vital to the war have made heavy demands for chrome and manganese which are necessary for the hardening of steel plates. The automobile industry uses large quantities of these materials.

It has also been argued that many thousands of skilled workmen who were essential to Government war work, such as the aircraft program and ordnance work, were being employed in automobile factories.

The general plan will be to use the portions of automobile factories which are released by the curtailment program for war work and it is believed that this can be done without serious loss of working time or the disturbance of labor.

The representatives of the automobile industry will be asked to accept the curtailment without making it necessary for the Government to enforce restrictive measures.

The cut in manufacture will not affect seriously the portions of plants used in construction of motor trucks which may be used for war work or to aid in solving local transportation problems.

The program as outlined will provide for a large saving of coal, which can be diverted to war industries.

GERMAN CHIEFS HELP LOAN.

Hindenburg and Ludendorff Urge People to Show Firmness.

In the course of the campaign waged for subscriptions for the eighth German war loan, the total of which was reported to have reached $3,462,900,000 on April 20, the Cologne Gazette asked Hindenburg and Ludendorff to tell its readers why they ought to be buy war bonds. Hindenburg's answer, printed in the issue of March 31, a copy of which has just reached New York, was as follows:

"The deed is the incorporation of the will. It demands the putting into action of individuality. It is defined by responsibility and conscience. It alone overcomes obstacles and leads to the goal. The deed is not found with the faint-hearted ones and those of little faith; it is the Germans' proudest word. The people's power of action must not lag, if we, showing ourselves worthy of our forefathers, want to attain the goal and make things safe for our descendants. The eighth war loan calls the German people to renewed action."

Two days before the Gazette had printed the following answer from Ludendorff:

"The will is the original source of impelling strength, powerful and decisive. In order to accomplish something great, it has a decisive effect upon the condition of affairs and, in spite of all opposition, it attains apparently unattainable objects. The harder the task the firmer the will. He whose will slackens is lost. Just now the hour demands a compelling will from us again, and the eighth war loan is to demonstrate it."

The commission announces that owing to the small number of applications received for the examination for scientific assistant, for men and women, originally announced to be held on April 23-24, and the examination for scientific assistant in marketing, for men and women, originally announced to be held on April 24-25, these examinations have been postponed. The scientific assistant examination will be held on May 22 and 23, and the scientific assistant in marketing examination will be held on May 23 and 24, instead of on the original dates. There is urgent need for eligibles, and it is thought that this extension of time will enable a larger number of qualified persons to apply. In the original announcements of these examinations it was stated that applicants desiring permanent appointment to the apportioned service in Washington, D. C., must be examined in the State or Territory in which they reside. In the past this requirement has necessitated considerable railroad travel in some instances. Under authority of an act of Congress passed since the issuance of the original announcements this restriction has been removed during the period of the war, and the taking of the examinations in the State or Territory of the applicant's residence is not now necessary. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

U-BOAT TURNS BACK SPANISH STEAMSHIP

Halts Liner with Shots and Sends Boarding Party to Quiz 200 Passengers.

DISCONNECTED WIRELESS

Threatened to Blow Up Ship, Then Ordered It to Return to Cadiz.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, April 23.—"You have enough contraband on board to warrant me sinking you, but I am not going to do that. Instead, you will return to your port of sailing." This was the command a German submarine Captain gave to the Captain of a Spanish passenger liner that arrived today after an interrupted trip from Barcelona and Cadiz. The vessel, which was then one day out, turned back to Cadiz, and the U-boat raised a seventy-five-foot sending wireless mast and drifted off into the darkness. Before the boats parted company, however, the first officer of the submarine, the second officer, and a company of four marines visited the steamship and examined the passengers and the ship's papers.

The liner was plowing her way toward this side of the Atlantic through a wintry sea on the afternoon of March 19 when, about 3:30 o'clock, a shell exploded sixty yards off her port bow. The passengers on deck thought that it was a whale when a spout of water shot up in the air. They knew better, however, a few minutes later, when a second shell exploded, this time off the starboard bow. There had been no uncertainty on the bridge, for almost immediately with the exploding of the second shell the engines of the liner stopped.

There was an exchange of signals, and as the submarine worked in closer to the liner the Spanish Captain made preparations to launch a small boat. The first officer, the purser, and another officer clambered in. They carried the ship's papers with them. Those on deck watched them as they were rowed to the submarine, made fast, and disappeared down the conning tower. The great undersea boat was so close that those on the liner were able to count thirty-five of the crew on deck. All the time the guns of the smaller craft were kept trained on the merchantman.

An hour later a boat put off from the German vessel and headed for the steamship. When it was made fast the men on it climbed up the side. There was considerable anxiety and all the passengers gathered to watch operations. There were two German officers accompanied by four marines who carried pistols. Two hoisted a bag up the side, and as it was carefully put on deck one of the Germans cheerfully explained in Spanish that it contained bombs to sink the ship in the event of trouble.

The officers proceeded to the Captain's cabin and while they discussed the situation and went over the ship's papers the marines detached the wireless apparatus. When the conference was over the passengers were ordered to assemble in the cabin. The commanding officer spoke English and French and his assistant spoke Spanish. They were courteous throughout, and as there was no great attempt to pry into the private affairs of those on board, it was the impression of the passengers that the whole affair was meant to impress the Spanish people at a time when a commercial treaty between France and Spain was being discussed and when America was refusing to allow Spanish vessels to sail unless Pershing's supplies were sent to him.

The chief officer of the boarding party is said to have introduced himself as a former commander of a vessel in the service of the Hamburg-American Line. As there were 200 passengers on board the liner, it was six hours before the German returned to the submarine and signaled for the passenger craft to turn back and proceed to Cadiz. Just before the officers climbed over the side they ordered the Captain not to use his wireless and threatened that he would be sunk if he did so. As far as the passengers knew, the Germans took the mysterious bag back to the submarine.

It was not until April 6 that the steamship again departed from Cadiz. On her way across she went nearly 600 miles out of her course in an effort to keep clear of more submarines.

ARREST GERMAN MAYOR.

Executive of Michigan City, Ind., Held in Washington as Enemy Alien

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Frederick C. Miller, the German Mayor of Michigan City, Ind., was arrested and locked up as an enemy alien when he came here today to discuss with Federal officials the prospects for completing his naturalization.

He took out first papers before the United States went to war.

Secret Service men had been advised that Miller was en route to Washington. They followed him from the railroad station to a hotel and arrested him as he was registering.

Representative Barnhardt of Indiana called at the police station, and when he found that the Mayor was to be kept in jail over night arranged to have him removed to a cell equipped with a bed.

FOUR ENEMY ALIENS HELD.

Another Is Ordered to Remain Away from Atlantic Seaboard.

Officials of the Department of Justice placed under arrest yesterday Karl Friedrich Boettjer, 50 years old, a cocoa broker of 586 Lexington Avenue, and charged him with being a dangerous enemy alien. In his room were found a German reservist Lieutenant's uniform, two German flags, and a picture of the Kaiser. Boettjer was born in Bremen and came to the United States in 1894. He has a son in the German Army.

Hans Felix Lohr of 154 East Eighty-ninth Street, 41 years old, who was taken into custody last Autumn and who had spent three months on Ellis Island, was picked up again Monday night in a saloon on Sixth Avenue, where he was arrested for making hostile remarks about the United States.

Harry Becker, an enemy alien, of 1,323 Halsey Street, who had been paroled, was also rearrested yesterday for making seditious remarks. The four men were taken to Essex County Jail in Newark.

Baron George von Polens, a German reservist Lieutenant, was sent by the Alien Enemy Bureau to Williamsport, Penn., yesterday with instructions to remain away from the Atlantic seaboard for the duration of the war.

The Alien Enemy Bureau gave out figures yesterday showing that the estimate of 20,000 unregistered aliens in New York was an exaggeration. At the most Mr. Wallace did not think the unregistered aliens totaled more than 2,000 in this district. Mr. Wallace declared yesterday that the public should report any suspicious activity on the part of enemy alien women, now that they are listed as enemy aliens.

WOMEN PILOT AUTO TRAIN.

They Drive Nine Heavy Cars from Detroit to Atlanta, 1,014 Miles.

Mrs. E. L. Dillingham and Miss A. Pickslay, privates in the Motor Corps Division of the National League for Woman's Service, at 259 Madison Avenue, have just returned to the city after driving auto trucks more than 1,000 miles, from Detroit to Atlanta. With the New York women were six women from Atlanta and one woman from Detroit, all members of their local woman's service branches. Nine trucks, each a three-quarter-ton vehicle, were driven from the Reo factory to Atlanta, and it was the first time in the history of American motoring that an overland drive of auto trucks has ever been attempted by women drivers.

HEARST'S SECRETARY GETS A HYLAN JOB

L. J. O'Reilly Is Made Water Supply Commissioner at $12,000 a Year.

POLITICAL DEAL PREDICTED

Murphy Will Get Notice, Politicians Believe, That He Must Back Hearst or Break with the Mayor.

Mayor Hylan yesterday appointed L. J. O'Reilly, W. R. Hearst's private Secretary and political manager, to the office of Commissioner of the Board of Water Supply to succeed Charles Strauss, who recently resigned. The salary is $12,000 a year.

The Mayor offered the place to Mr. O'Reilly last Friday. On the day before Mr. Hearst had called upon the Mayor at the City Hall and the two had luncheon together. Last week Mr. O'Reilly and Eugene J. Driscoll, Deputy Commissioner of Records, at a salary of $5,000 a year, were busy up-State, it was said, rounding up sentiment in favor of Mr. Hearst for presentation at the conference of Democrats at Syracuse to show that a real demand for the editor for Governor exists.

The appointment of Mr. O'Reilly to the $12,000 job, which Mr. Strauss in his letter of resignation said was unnecessary because all the work that called it into existence during the McClellan administration had been accomplished, led politicians to predict that Mr. Hearst and Mayor Hylan had not only joined political forces, but that notice would soon be served upon Charles F. Murphy that the Democratic organization must either back Mr. Hearst's candidacy, or face a split with the Hylan administration.

Mr. O'Reilly went to the City Hall late yesterday and was sworn in. He refused to make any statement.

Although Charles F. Murphy has not announced what action he will take regarding the Hearst candidacy, a good-sized revolt within the organization is already taking shape and will come into the open if Murphy and Hearst should reach an understanding.

WORKING ON JEWISH STATE.

Administrative Commission Reports Progress in Jerusalem and Tel Aviv.

The Jewish Administration Commission for Palestine has established bureaus in Jerulsalem and Tel Aviv and is engaged in the actual work of laying the foundation for the Jewish State, according to the first official report from that body, which has been received by the Provisional Zionist Committee in this city. This report describes the demonstration which greeted the commission on its arrival at Tel Aviv, the Jewish suburb of Jaffa, on April 6. Dr. Chaim Weitzman, head of the commission, evoked great enthusiasm when he replied in Hebrew to the address of welcome. The British Military Governor of Jaffa, who participated in the reception, expressed his sympathy with the Zionist aims.

The commission reports that several informal conferences with representatives of various organizations revealed the fact that its work would have the co-operation of all elements of the Palestine population. The announcement was made that large sums of money are needed to save the orange growers from ruin, owing to their inability, due to the war, to market their crops. The commission says that long-term loans to the orange growers are an imperative necessity.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—President Wilson today signed the Sabotage bill carrying penalties of $10,000 and thirty years imprisonment for destruction of war materials or interference with war industries.

100 PER CENT. AMERICAN CANDIDATE WANTED

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 23.—No Democrat who fails to qualify as a red-blooded, one hundred per cent. peace-through-victory American need apply for the Democratic nomination for Governor this Fall. A message of that character will go out from the conference of up-State Democrats which is to be held here tomorrow to discuss a get-together program for the Fall campaign and other matters of common party interest.

It has been heralded about that the conference was conceived with the purpose of putting a quietus on plans William Randolph Hearst is said to be entertaining to make himself the Democratic nominee. Democrats who are arriving here tonight for tomorrow's gathering deny that any such intent is lurking behind the conference.

"I doubt whether Mr. Hearst's name will even be mentioned at the conference," said ex-Senator T. Harvey Ferris of Oneida. There are rumors, however, that an anti-Hearst resolution will be offered.

To emphasize the thought that is to dominate the conference, George R. Van Namee, Secretary of the Democratic State Committee, who will attend as Chairman of the Jefferson County Democratic Committee, will at the start introduce a resolution strongly indorsing the war policies of the Wilson Administration, and pledging the whole-hearted support of the up-State Democrats represented in the gathering to President Wilson.

William H. Kelley, Democratic State Committeeman from Onondaga County, who will call the conference to order, said tonight:

"This conference was called because of the treatment accorded to the rural counties by Governor Whitman and the consequent demand of the up-State voters for a progressive Democratic candidate with an understanding of rural conditions and needs. It was not called for the purpose of advancing the candidacy of any man for Governor, or for the purpose of opposing the candidacy of any man, nor was it called for the purpose of opposing anybody."

MRS. WHITEHOUSE RETURNS

Refuses to Discuss Report of Friction in Switzerland.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, April 23.—Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, who went to Switzerland in January on a mission for the Creel Committee on Public Information to counteract pro-German propaganda and lay America's war aims before neutral countries, arrived here yesterday.

She refused to discuss reports that she had abandoned her mission because of alleged lack of support on the part of the American Minister to Switzerland. The departure of Mrs. Whitehouse from Berne in March was accompanied by reports that she felt that her efforts had been seconded heartily by representatives of the State Department abroad. No official explanation was made on the subject when Mrs. Whitehouse quit Berne. After arriving in Paris she continued to carry on certain work in connection with the propaganda of the Creel committee.
